Promises 1956 Relief In Taxation

Cautions Against Prosperity Harm

Economic-at-Glance

(By The Associated Press)

President Eisenhower, in his economic message today—

1. Reported recovery "well under way," foresaw 500-billion-dollar output by 1965.
2. Gave strong promise of tax relief next year. None this.
3. Cautioned that stock speculation or labor strife could damage prosperity.
4. Called for a 90-cent minimum wage, higher jobless pay.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower handed Congress today his 10-year blueprint for the achievement of 500 billion dollars or more in annual production and said 1955 promises a high level of jobs and production.

In a glowingly optimistic economic message, Eisenhower gave virtual assurance of a "general, though modest, reduction in taxes" in 1956, made possible by a broad business recovery now in process.

He wagged a warning finger at the soaring stock market, declaring that "continued economic recovery must not be jeopardized by over-emphasis of speculative activity." The government, he said, will meet its "great responsibility" to prevent a financial boom-and-bust.

Picturing the present as a time of industrial expansion, the President said labor strife often increases in such periods with "serious economic repercussions."

THE REPORT, third and last of the major presidential messages, urged the states to increase the amount, duration and coverage of unemployment compensation, and called again on Congress to raise the minimum wage from 75 cents to 90 cents.

Eisenhower discouraged the proposals of labor leaders and some Democrats for a wage floor of $1 or $1.25 an hour. The 15-cent increase, he said, is all that can be "economically justified . . . a higher minimum might cause lower production and substantial unemployment in several industries." He proposed, however, that Congress consider exending minimum wage protection gradually to 20 million workers not now covered.

THESE WERE AMONG 33 recommendations in the 207-page report. But Eisenhower stressed that government's role—in helping to achieve the 40 per cent production rise needed to reach a 500-billion-dollar annual output of goods and services in 1965—will be primarily that of encouraging private initiative, curbing monopoly, and avoiding encroachment on industry.

Most of the specific recommendations underscored requests made in the earlier State of the Union and budget message. Eisenhower asked Congress to:

Promote foreign commerce by extending for three years the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, with presidential power to reduce tariffs by as much as 15 per cent.

POSTPONE THE CUTS in corporation and excise taxes scheduled for April 1. By next year, Eisenhower said, rising revenues and further federal economies "should make possible another step in the reduction of taxes."

Take action "this year to help meet our nationwide needs for school construction." The President again did not specify the kind or amount of federal aid he has in mind. A special message will be sent Feb. 15, he said, dealing with "appropriate" plans.

Give the President power to tighten credit terms and increase down payments on federally underwritten mortgages when inflation threatens, and relax the terms when real estate activity slacks off.

Authorize 35,000 public housing units in each of the next two years, and increase the mortgage-insuring authority of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA).

SHARPEN THE TEETH of the Sherman Antitrust Law by raising "substantially" the maximum fines.

Extend the program of small business loans which expires June 30, and increase the lending authority.

Buffer Zone Proposed To Halt 2-Nation Clash

Strip Would Be 18 Miles Long, 6 Wide Between Lake and Pacific Ocean

San Jose, Costa Rica, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Inter-American Investigating Commission today proposed a demilitarized zone be set up along the western sector of the Nicaragua-Costa Rica border in an effort to prevent a clash between the two countries over the rebel outbreak against President Jose Figueres.

The five-nation commission made its proposal in the wake of a protest from Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza that two Costa Rican F51 fighters, on their first mission since the planes arrived Monday from the United States, had veered over Nicaraguan territory yesterday during an attack on the rebel-held town of La Cruz, seven miles from the border.

Somoza, a longtime foe of the Costa Rican president announced four of his own fighters would patrol the border to meet any further trespassers. He told a news conference last night in Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, that the situation could become "an international conflict."

SOMOZA'S PROTEST said he was also reinforcing his border garrisons to meet the "very tense" situation by the air trespass.

The commission, sent here by the Organization of American States (OAS), proposed a security zone 18 miles long and six miles wide between Lake Nicaragua and the Pacific Ocean. The zone would straddle the border three miles on either side.

Under the plan, planes of both nations would be forbidden to fly over this strip. The southern limit of the zone would be just over a mile north of La Cruz, rebel headquarters in the northwest corner of Costa Rica.

THE PURPOSE of the zone would be to limit the area of military action. One person attached to the commission explained it thus: The Costa Rican government forces could chase the rebels as far as the zone limits on their side of the border. The rebels could escape into Nicaragua, but OAS observers would patrol the zone itself while only OAS observation planes could fly over it.

The commission has charged that the rebels were aided from outside Costa Rica The Costa Rican government has accused Nicaragua of training, arming and supplying the rebel forces, a charge Nicaragua denies.

Commission Chairman Luis Quintanilla of Mexico sent Jorge Maciel, technical advisor of the Brazilian delegation, to Managua by air to deliver a copy of the proposal to Nicaraguan Foreign Minister Oscar Sevilla Sacasa.

AT THE SAME TIME, another copy was to be handed Costa Rican Foreign Minister

Formal Protest Is Presented

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 20 (AP)—Nicaragua formerly protested to Costa Rica today against Costa Rican planes flying over Nicaraguan territory.

At the same time, the Nicaraguan ambassador to Washington was instructed to ask for an extraordinary session of the Organization of American States (OAS) to consider "violation of Nicaraguan territory by Costa Rica."

Other Planes Drop Leaflets on Coast

Taipeh, Formosa, Jan. 20 (AP)—Waves of Nationalist Chinese warplanes smashed at Communist vessels near the invasion-threatened Tachen Islands today, the Nationalist Defense Ministry said, while Nationalist guerrillas battled grimly to maintain their precarious hold on nearby Yikiangshan Island.

The ministry claimed six ships, further unidentified, were sunk near the Tachens 200 miles north of Formosa. Farther south, other Nationalist planes claimed two vessels sunk and three damaged off the coast Fukien Province.

STILL MORE PLANES rained "millions" of leaflets on the Red China coast, the Nationalists reported.

The ministry said the planes attacked in waves from 2 a. m. until 7:38 a. m., and returned without loss despite Communist antiaircraft fire from both land and sea.

The attacks marked the second straight day of heavy Nationalist air attacks on Communist shipping.

The Nationalists asserted the guerrillas on Yikangshan, eight miles north of Tachens, were still holding out, two full days after Peiping Radio trumpeted the tiny outpost had fallen to Communist invaders.

Nautilus Is Out at Sea on Second Test

Groton, Conn., Jan. 20 (AP) — atomic powered submarine Nautilus left her mooring here shortly before 8 a. m. (EST) today, headed for the open sea and her first dive.

However, Atlantic Submarine Force headquarters at the submarine base here could not say when or where the submerging operation will take place, or how deep the dive will be.

A spokesman at headquarters said merely that the Nautilus headed for the "nearby operating areas," which presumably could be one or all of the Sounds—Long Island, Block Island or Fishers Island.

THE SPOKESMAN could not say how long the vessel, which moved for the first time Monday under nuclear energy, would be gone or how far she would go.

It was explained that new submarines usually make a "trim dive" so shifting of water in the trim tanks can be correctly standardized for future operations.

A "trim dive," the headquarters spokesman said, usually is shallow, or at periscope depth. He would not reveal what that would be on the Nautilus.

The atomic-powered vessel, which returned to her wetdock at 1 p. m. yesterday after 50 hours of builders' trials on Long Island Sound, has made only surface runs and the Navy said the tests "thus far have been satisfactory."

Residential Firm Asks City Help

Corporation Seeks Improvements

Residential growth of the city in conjunction with its coming industrial expansion was indicated again yesterday when the Forsyth Development Corp., bid for municipal improvement in an area to be known as Forsyth Place in the uptown area.

A request to the Board of Public Works for storm and sanitary sewers, curbing, sidewalks and pavement, was referred to City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan and the planning board, with the understanding that if all factors are satisfactory, plans may be drawn and submitted to the board by the date of its next regular meeting.

Joseph F. Saccoman, of 271 Fair street as representative of the corporation, said the area has sufficient property for 16 homes. It would extend from Lucas avenue toward the Miller's Lane and Browning Terrace areas.

THE PROPERTY has been described as "the only choice area" still available for development in that section of the 12th ward.

Deeds for Dietz Court and Melvin Drive, developments started some time ago in the West Chestnut street area, were approved by the board and were forwarded for final approval by Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy and the Common Council. If acceptance by the city is finally approved they will become part of the city street system.

Coffee Prices May Be Cut

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Sen. Beall (R-Md.) said today coffee drinkers should be encouraged over price prospects.

A Banking Subcommittee Beall headed last year inquired into the coffee price spiral of early 1954. Its report yesterday indicated there is a world surplus of coffee now.

And the report said "there should be a surplus of coffee in the future," which led Beall to comment: "I see no reason why we can't expect further price reductions."

In recent months the coffee price has dropped somewhat from the highs of the first half of last year. But they still are well above the 90 cents a pound retail levels of 1953.

BPW Opens Bids On Equipment

Bids on five types of equipment for the public works department were opened at a meeting of the Board of Public Works yesterday.

Lowest aggregate bid on four truck chassis was Old Capital Motors, of this city, at $16,761. Next was the City Garage at $16,992, and third was Raftery's Garage, of Foxhall avenue, with bids on two types at $18,572.96 and $21,171.96. Bruckert, also local, bid $21,800.

THREE BIDS were opened for the furnishing of four refuse truck bodies. They were Tomlinson's Body and Welding Shop, Hurley avenue, $19,280; Frank's Equipment Co., Hurley, $19,300, and the Elgin Corp., Chicago, $19,940.

Three bidders for supplying a chip spreader were the H. O. Penn Co., Poughkeepsie, $1,600; the Ken Smith Co., Albany, $1,-949, and the Hudson Valley Equipment Co., Saugerties, $2,-195.

One bid of $7,475 by the Municipal Equipment Co., of Route 28, was opened for the supplying of an aggregate spreader. The Lodal Co., of Mars, Pa., submitted four bids on different types of self-loaders for trucks.

Mystery Is Deeper in Bomb Case

Officers Silent On Long Grilling

San Angelo, Tex., Jan. 20 (AP)—Deepening mystery today veiled the booby trap bomb death of attractive Mrs. Harry E. Weaver, wealthy wife of a prominent architect and geologist.

Mrs. Weaver, 52, was killed yesterday about 8:30 a. m. (CST) when she started to a local hospital to visit her ailing mother.

Meanwhile, a Houston businessman, questioned for more than two hours last night, remained free today and no charges had been filed in the case.

The 38-year-old man, questioned following officers' long conferences with Weaver, was accompanied to the Harris county court house by Texas Rangers and sheriff's deputies and his two small children.

FOUR RANGERS accompanied the man and the children back to their home in a well-to-do section of Houston. Neither he nor officers would discuss what took place in the long session behind locked doors. Apparently, his home was not guarded last night.

Officers would not answer questions either about the man's identity or any other development in their hunt for the person or persons who planted the nitroglycerine bomb in one of the Weaver automobiles.

Tom Green county Dist. Atty. Aubrey Stokes said no arrest warrants had been issued. He refused to comment about possible suspects but did say he was working with information furnished by Weaver and other members of the family.

WEAVER, 60, said he was in the big, old-fashioned home of Mrs. Weaver's mother, Mrs. Ralph Harris, when the blast occurred outside. The widely known architect and his wife formerly lived in Houston. In recent years they resided on a

Scarlet Fever Closes School

Chatham, Jan. 20 (AP) — About 1,000 school children were on vacation today because a teacher at the Chatham High School was stricken by scarlet fever.

The school, which serves several school districts in Columbia county, was closed yesterday afternoon for one week.

Miss Mary Dardess, the principal, said the action was necessary because six other teachers had been exposed to the disease and, under state regulations, were not permitted to instruct classes.

Officials Say Convicts May Settle for Less

An M-41 tank with a 3-inch gun and machine gun on top is parked outside the walls of Massachusetts State Prison, Boston, Wednesday at nearest point to the cell block where four convicts are holding five guards as hostages. A lone guard patrols the wall as seige was half through the second day. The tank was held ready "just in case." Toby, (right photo), the 16-year-old daughter of Theodore Green, notorious bank robber and leader of the four convicts holding five guards as hostages at Massachusetts State's Prison in Boston, talks with her father Monday night in a phone conversation arranged by the prison warden in an effort to end the rebellion. The Boston Post in a copyright story said Green told his daughter: "I got to have my freedom and get all that money that is put away and I have to get it for you and ma and the kids." The photo was taken in the Post city room. Toby asked that her face not show lest her school chums ridicule her. (AP Wirephoto).

Boston, Jan. 20 (AP) — State prison authorities today saw indications the four rebellious convicts holding five guards hostages for the third day may soon be ready to settle for less than freedom despite their continued show of defiance.

Hopes for a bloodless settlement were expressed by the Rev. Edward P. Hartigan, prison Catholic chaplain, and Dr. Samuel Merlin, the prison physician, after their latest of numerous visits to the besieged cell block.

BOTH LISTENED to the four hardened criminals for an hour and a half last night and later told newsmen: "The men say they are determined to hold out, but we are optimistic as to the eventual outcome."

Fr. Hartigan said "one of the injustices they feel greatly is the type of sentencing in the criminal courts of the commonwealth, whereby men are sentenced for very long terms which takes from their hearts any hope.

"They agree," the chaplain said, "that proper sentencing is practiced in California whereby a man is sentenced for an indefinite period, limited to life, which gives him a year-to-year hope according to the progress he himself makes in prison."

The 35-year-old priest said that was the convicts' principal complaint. He did not outline any further grievances.

FR. HARTIGAN said the convicts were "very courteous, respectful and talkative, indicating a desire to lay bare their problems."

He said the hostage guards "have been given every consideration and courtesy. No officer has been mistreated."

Dr. Merlin said that although he has seen three guns in the possession of the rebellious convicts there has been no bullying display of them at any time.

Outside the antiquated prison a modern tank and its crew dwadled. It was brought to the scene from a National Guard unit at Fort Devens by Otis M. Whitney, head of the state police and a general in the guard. Prison officials refused to let it enter the grim granite walls, asserting such demonstration of force was not yet in order.

The four rebel prisoners, the five hostages, and the six prisoners who are being held, presumably against their wishes, were reported mingling in "a genial mood" in the solitary confinement block. They denied last night reports that one of the six had been beaten by one of the rebels.

The family members of all four desperado-convicts tried yesterday to convince them to release the hostages and surren-

Economic-at-Glance

(By The Associated Press)

President Eisenhower, in his economic message today—

1. Reported recovery "well under way," foresaw 500-billion-dollar output by 1965.
2. Gave strong promise of tax relief next year. None this.
3. Cautioned that stock speculation or labor strife could damage prosperity.
4. Called for a 90-cent minimum wage, higher jobless pay.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower handed Congress today his 10-year blueprint for the achievement of 500 billion dollars or more in annual production and said 1955 promises a high level of jobs and production.

In a glowingly optimistic economic message, Eisenhower gave virtual assurance of a "general, though modest, reduction in taxes" in 1956, made possible by a broad business recovery now in process.

He wagged a warning finger at the soaring stock market, declaring that "continued economic recovery must not be jeopardized by over-emphasis of speculative activity." The government, he said, will meet its "great responsibility" to prevent a financial boom-and-bust.

Picturing the present as a time of industrial expansion, the President said labor strife often increases in such periods with "serious economic repercussions."

THE REPORT, third and last of the major presidential messages, urged the states to increase the amount, duration and coverage of unemployment compensation, and called again on Congress to raise the minimum wage from 75 cents to 90 cents.

Eisenhower discouraged the proposals of labor leaders and some Democrats for a wage floor of $1 or $1.25 an hour. The 15-cent increase, he said, is all that can be "economically justified . . . a higher minimum might cause lower production and substantial unemployment in several industries." He proposed, however, that Congress consider exending minimum wage protection gradually to 20 million workers not now covered.

THESE WERE AMONG 33 recommendations in the 207-page report. But Eisenhower stressed that government's role—in helping to achieve the 40 per cent production rise needed to reach a 500-billion-dollar annual output of goods and services in 1965—will be primarily that of encouraging private initiative, curbing monopoly, and avoiding encroachment on industry.

Most of the specific recommendations underscored requests made in the earlier State of the Union and budget message. Eisenhower asked Congress to:

Promote foreign commerce by extending for three years the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, with presidential power to reduce tariffs by as much as 15 per cent.

POSTPONE THE CUTS in corporation and excise taxes scheduled for April 1. By next year, Eisenhower said, rising revenues and further federal economies "should make possible another step in the reduction of taxes."

Take action "this year to help meet our nationwide needs for school construction." The President again did not specify the kind or amount of federal aid he has in mind. A special message will be sent Feb. 15, he said, dealing with "appropriate" plans.

Give the President power to tighten credit terms and increase down payments on federally underwritten mortgages when inflation threatens, and relax the terms when real estate activity slacks off.

Authorize 35,000 public housing units in each of the next two years, and increase the mortgage-insuring authority of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA).

SHARPEN THE TEETH of the Sherman Antitrust Law by raising "substantially" the maximum fines.

Extend the program of small business loans which expires June 30, and increase the lending authority.

Officials Say Convicts May Settle for Less

An M-41 tank with a 3-inch gun and machine gun on top is parked outside the walls of Massachusetts State Prison, Boston, Wednesday at nearest point to the cell block where four convicts are holding five guards as hostages. A lone guard patrols the wall as seige was half through the second day. The tank was held ready "just in case." Toby, (right photo), the 16-year-old daughter of Theodore Green, notorious bank robber and leader of the four convicts holding five guards as hostages at Massachusetts State's Prison in Boston, talks with her father Monday night in a phone conversation arranged by the prison warden in an effort to end the rebellion. The Boston Post in a copyright story said Green told his daughter: "I got to have my freedom and get all that money that is put away and I have to get it for you and ma and the kids." The photo was taken in the Post city room. Toby asked that her face not show lest her school chums ridicule her. (AP Wirephoto).

Boston, Jan. 20 (AP) — State prison authorities today saw indications the four rebellious convicts holding five guards hostages for the third day may soon be ready to settle for less than freedom despite their continued show of defiance.

Hopes for a bloodless settlement were expressed by the Rev. Edward P. Hartigan, prison Catholic chaplain, and Dr. Samuel Merlin, the prison physician, after their latest of numerous visits to the besieged cell block.

BOTH LISTENED to the four hardened criminals for an hour and a half last night and later told newsmen: "The men say they are determined to hold out, but we are optimistic as to the eventual outcome."

Fr. Hartigan said "one of the injustices they feel greatly is the type of sentencing in the criminal courts of the commonwealth, whereby men are sentenced for very long terms which takes from their hearts any hope.

"They agree," the chaplain said, "that proper sentencing is practiced in California whereby a man is sentenced for an indefinite period, limited to life, which gives him a year-to-year hope according to the progress he himself makes in prison."

The 35-year-old priest said that was the convicts' principal complaint. He did not outline any further grievances.

FR. HARTIGAN said the convicts were "very courteous, respectful and talkative, indicating a desire to lay bare their problems."

He said the hostage guards "have been given every consideration and courtesy. No officer has been mistreated."

Dr. Merlin said that although he has seen three guns in the possession of the rebellious convicts there has been no bullying display of them at any time.

Outside the antiquated prison a modern tank and its crew dwadled. It was brought to the scene from a National Guard unit at Fort Devens by Otis M. Whitney, head of the state police and a general in the guard. Prison officials refused to let it enter the grim granite walls, asserting such demonstration of force was not yet in order.

The four rebel prisoners, the five hostages, and the six prisoners who are being held, presumably against their wishes, were reported mingling in "a genial mood" in the solitary confinement block. They denied last night reports that one of the six had been beaten by one of the rebels.

The family members of all four desperado-convicts tried yesterday to convince them to release the hostages and surren-

Expert Will Make His Bridge Breaks

One of the most expert brother combinations in bridge is that of Simon Becker, of Philadelphia, and B. Jay Becker, of New York. The exploits of Jay, who has won just about every bridge championship known to man, sometimes cast his brother into the shade, and this takes a bit of doing because brother "Skippy" is one of the most skillful operators in the game.

I use the word "operators" deliberately, because that is the word bridge players use when they talk about somebody who executes a neat and successful swindle. Skipp Becker was the hero and the operator of the swindle shown in today's hand.

Skippy opened the six of diamonds from the West hand against the quite reasonable contract of six hearts. Declarer won in dummy with the queen of diamonds, of course, and immediat' led the ten of hearts for a finesse.

When the ten of hearts rode around to him, Skippy played low without a quiver. Declarer naturally thought that his finesse had succeeded and therefore repeated the finesse to guard against four trumps in the West hand. This time, of course, Skippy took the trick with the queen of hearts.

Becker then led a low spade, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer's only problem now was to get to his hand to draw the last trump. Rather naturally, South led a low club from dummy and played the king from his hand. This was just what Becker had been waiting for. He ruffed the first round of clubs with his remaining trump, thus defeating the slam contract.

While we're admiring Skippy Becker's nerve and ingenuity, let's not forget to toss a scallion to South for the carelessness with which he played the hand. After the ten of hearts had won a trump finesse, there were only three trumps out.

South could afford to take the ace and king of hearts and then give up one trick to the queen if it still hadn't dropped. If he had taken the top hearts in that way he couldn't possibly lose the slam. As the cards actually lay, of course, South would have made his slam contract with an overtrick.

NAVY ENLISTEES meet with Quartermaster First Class Ralph Keeler, left, front row, as the first area group leaving for naval service prior to the expiration of the old GI Bill on Jan. 31. The rush to beat the deadline expiration, which halts many benefits to servicemen, has reflected in numerous enlistments in all branches of the service in recent weeks. Posing with Keeler, a Korean veteran himself, are Lester Steiger, Saugerties; Herbert Hamilton, Woodstock and George Spinella, Saugerties. Rear (l-r), Stanley Effner, Woodstock; Harold Reynolds, Saugerties; John Miller, Kingston; Robert Flemming, Saugerties and Joseph Reilly, Kingston. Quartermaster Keeler pointed out today that this will be the last week that men will be able to apply for enlistment in the Navy and be assured of enlistment before the expected Jan. 31 deadline. He urged all interested to be enlisted under the bill now in effect apply as soon as possible. Office hours in the local navy recruiting office building, are from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Monday through Friday. Evening and Saturday appointments also may be made by calling Kingston 1345 or New Paltz 8114 after 5 p. m. Information also is available for former navy personnel, many of whom may reenlist with the same rating at the time of their discharge. (Freeman photo).

Whence the Term

Deer antlers are shed each year. During growth, the horn is said to be "green," and is of no value as a weapon. Hence, a greenhorn is a raw, inexperienced person not capable of shifting for himself.

Old Love Song

The Londonderry Air, Irish folk tune, first was heard in the county of Londonderry. Reputed to be the oldest air still surviving in western Europe, it is said to first have been a love song.

Liberals Keeping Close Watch on Harriman Jobs

Albany, Jan. 20 (AP)—Leaders of the Democratic-Liberal coalition that elected Averell Harriman governor are keeping a careful box score on who gets what in the new administration.

Each leader who feels entitled to a few plums for his faithful followers jealously guards his quota.

An old-timer in the Liberal party who had close ties with Harriman told this version of his appointment to a minor job:

HE CONSULTED with Alex Rose, vice chairman of the Liberal party, about his chances—and was told to use his own connections with the governor and not the Liberal party's name in seeking a job.

The idea was to keep the appointment from being "charged" against the Liberal party's "credit" with Harriman.

But when the Liberal old-timer got the job, the governor chalked that one up to the Liberals anyway.

HEARD WHEN Walter J. Mahoney, Republican leader of the Senate, and Carmine G. De Sapio, boss of Democratic Tammany Hall and Harriman's secretary of state, met in an elevator:

Mahoney: "They keeping you busy, Carmine?"

De Sapio: "Not bad, how about you, Walter?"

Mahoney: "So so. Things are a little slow getting started around here."

IT CAUSES trouble in Queens when the horse racing fans come pouring out of the tracks after a busy day at the betting windows.

Cars jammed bumper to bumper at the exits from Jamaica, Belmont and Aqueduct tracks merge with heavy traffic of homebound workers.

Result: Both the railbirds and the tired working men are late getting home to mama and the kiddies for supper. Two Democrats from the borough are determined to do something about it.

Sen. James G. Crisona and Assemblyman J. Lewis Fox are sponsoring bills to require that the last race at thoroughbred tracks in the New York city area begin no later than 4:15 p. m., except Saturday.

They figure that would get the horse fans off the highways prior to the five o'clock rush.

Their bills are hardy perennials in the Legislature. Measures like them have been pigeonholed regularly for years.

ASSEMBLY SPEAKER Oswald D. Heck is keeping his new majority leader Assemblyman Joseph F. Carlino of Nassau county, carefully under his wing during Carlino's first weeks in the new post.

Carlino was appointed majority leader Jan. 5.

Heck has assigned Reuben Lazarus, a New York city lawyer with a long record as a smart insider in legislative affairs, to work closely with Carlino.

SNAILING ALONG — Six-year-old Michael Kane, of New York City, has a nose for nature. Getting a close look at each other here are Mike and his pet snail.

COMMUNIST MISJUDGMENTS

We can be pretty sure that the Communists have enough spies in this country to report a good deal of valuable information to their masters in Russia and China. But in one vital field these agents either do not report what they could easily detect, or their reports are not believed in Moscow and Peiping.

That is the area of American intentions. Of course it is deliberate diplomatic policy to keep them guessing, if we can as to some of our intentions. For example, how far we might go in helping Chiang Kai-shek defend various Nationalist-held islands close to the Red Chinese mainland.

But we are not trying to fool anybody as to our great intention to avoid war if it can be done without appeasement. We have no wish to invade Communist lands or any other, no aim to conquer a square inch of foreign soil.

Furthermore, we are among the most unwarlike peoples on the globe. We have never sought armed conflict but have always come to it slowly and reluctantly. That traditional pattern reflects not only high government policy but the national character.

All this any Communist can know with the most cursory study of America. How then does it happen that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai can tell UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, as he apparently has, that he fears the threat of an American-inspired invasion of China's mainland?

Obviously, if any reports of our real attitudes and intentions are getting through, they are being rejected. It begins to seem as if China, like Russia, is suffering from the occupational disease of the wild, unscrupulous propagandist. The Chinese have begun to believe their own propaganda.

The great weakness of the Communist system as a reporting agency is that it insulates itself from the truths of the outside world. This is done consciously to prevent Communist peoples from learning those truths. But almost inevitably the result is to shut the Red leaders off, too. Cooped up in the fact-free hothouse they have built to protect their power, they get a horribly warped picture of world events.

Add to this the fact that the Chinese as Asiatics are intensely suspicious of Westerners, and that the Russians are not only naturally suspicious of everybody but tend to ascribe to outsiders the same evil tactics of deceit which they have practiced for centuries in the name of diplomacy.

Taken together, all these elements must create a painfully unreal atomsphere in which to weigh the great issues of war and peace. Only against such a backdrop could Chou En-lai seriously believe that the United States would think of invading China.

That this is actually the reverse of our intention affords us little solace. For there is grave peril in thse constant Communist misjudgments. One day, acting on such gross misinformation, Moscow or Peiping might plunge the world into ruinous war.

The trick in propelling ambition is to push without appearing as if you are doing it.

REJECTING FREEDOM

The State Department said recently that it has received a letter "purported" to be from Noel Field, former American diplomat, and his wife Herta, confirming the fact that they have sought asylum in Communist Hungary. Use of the word "purported" indicates that the State Department has some reservations about the authenticity of the letter.

If the letter is authentic it means that the Fields have turned their backs on this country, have elected to embarrass it by seeking asylum in a country which has treated them badly. They know that such a decision will be used as propaganda by those whose help they have asked. They will forever be committed to standing with our enemies.

Men enslaved by communism, forced to accept it, are to be pitied. But even more pitiful are the deluded who reject liberty because they have lost the ability to distinguish between slavery and freedom.

We're not concerned as much with how things start, as with how and when they end. This we can do something about.

'These Days'

CHARACTER ASSASSINATION

When Herbert Hoover was President, the Democratic National Committee hired Charles Michelson to assassinate Mr. Hoover's reputation. Michelson devoted himself to the job affectionately. Hoover's character was investigated from the day of his birth and when nothing could be found to hurt his good name, it was manufactured with cynical skill.

This is the classical example of organized, subsidized character assassination. Herbert Hoover survived but many of those who sought to sully his good name have since died, including Charley Michelson who wrote a book on his infamies. Hoover, being a Quaker, has long forgiven the assassins; what is more, he has come to be on friendly terms with some of them, not taking their conduct too seriously. However, some of Michelson's falsehoods persist to this day to Mr. Hoover's amusement at the folly of men.

Nowadays, it has become improper to tell not only stories but the truth about political opponents, lest it involve "character assassination" which is a meaningless term politically because all politicians practise self-praise and point to the foibles of their adversaries. If the foibles are sufficient to bring about a man's defeat, it is generally regarded as the thing to do. But one must always expect the boar that has been stuck to shout, "Character assassin!"

When Woodrow Wilson was President, a smearing campaign was stimulated by his enemies dealing with his private life. This effort to destroy his character culminated in the hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee concerning the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to the Supreme Court. Brandeis was innocent of any relationship to President Wilson's private life and if ever there was an attempt at character assassination, it was bringing him into the matter at all. But nobody called it such a fancy name then; they called it politics played to embarrass a President. That office was at that time not regarded as sacrosanct and no President dared to take himself too seriously.

Those who make such a big noise about character assassination engage in that art themselves when it is to their advantage. For instance, Senator Neuberger, the fledgling from Oregon, accused Vice President Nixon of character assassination, whereupon he proceeded to assassinate Nixon's character. Everybody's doing it, more or less. The constancy of a habit does not make it right, but when the pot calls the kettle black, the kettle might, with justice, do some hissing, which apparently Mrs. George Malone did.

Actually the looseness of our conversation concerning public men has this virtue, that it may occasionally remind the great men who govern us that they were not to the manner born, as indeed, no one is in our land where the sons of farmers and workers and miners emerge to the top. It is lese majeste to run down a king or a queen because they have purer blood than we have, not biologically but geneologically, if that matters. Here there are no genealogies that matter. The only recent President that owned one was Franklin D. Roosevelt whose ancestors were something or other before they migrated from Holland and France to live among the Indians.

The only way to keep great men from believing in their own publicity is to remind them of what they were before they began to wonder themselves on what meat they thrived so mightily. Also it is good to remind them that not every word they say is sacred; that not every trick they pull is divine revelation. If maturity means obeisance to the great, then we were a better country before we became mature. Maturity may be synonymous with senility.

Personally, I do not go in for character assassination because too few persons are worthy of the effort. Do I care whether a politician is an alcoholic; if his wife took in washing before he suddenly bought her a mink coat; or if a supposedly learned man never read anything more serious than a "whodunit"? It might be interesting but is it important, particularly if the official somehow manages to do his job and is not soft on Communists and does not lie more than is necessary to get elected and to stay in office.

This is a democracy which means that what the people do is ipso facto right even if it turns out to be stupid which it does sometimes happen.

That Body of Yours

GALL BLADDER DISEASE

One of the fairly common ailments which afflict middle-aged men and women, particularly women, is gall-bladder disease — gall stones, cholelithiasis, as it is variously named. It has been estimated that gallstones are present in about 5 per cent of the population although they do not cause symptoms in this many and are usually unsuspected.

Gallstones are hard or solid masses formed in the gall bladder and the tubes or ducts leading from the gall bladder. Stones are sometimes found in the liver as well.

They are thought to be due to inflammation and infection from other parts of the body, carried to the liver and gall bladder by the blood, and also, to sluggishness or slowness of the liver and gall bladder, because of a lack of exercise, and overeating. There may be one large or hundreds of small stones, varying in size from a grain of sand to the size of an egg, or even larger. They are made up of cholesterol (fatty substance), lime salts, and bile pigments or colorings.

The early symptoms are discomfort and indigestion with pain in the region of the stomach—especially after eating fatty foods and coarse vegetables—gas formation and pressure, nausea, clay-colored stools.

In the acute attacks of gallstones or biliary colic there is (a) sudden, intense, agonizing pain in the right side of the upper part of the abdomen. The pain may go into the right shoulder. (b) Vomiting. (c) Chills and sweating. The attack may last from hours to days. The intense pain is caused by the sharp cutting edges of a gallstone as it changes its position in the gall bladder.

It is possible in many cases to prevent attacks of biliary colic by eating small meals, even if it is necessary to eat more often. Any infection in the body, such as that from teeth, tonsils, etc., should be removed. Fat foods should largely be avoided except a little bacon or butter at breakfast. Paraffin (mineral) oil is recommended between attacks.

Treatment during an attack of colic may require a hypodermic of morphine administered by the physician for relief of the intense pain. Heat applied to the painful region by an electric heating pad or a hot water bottle helps ease the pain. Rest in bed, of course.

Fairly frequently operation for the removal of the gall bladder — cholecystectomy — is recommended when the pain is unbearable or when the attacks keep repeating.

"Who Says There Isn't Any Room?"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA)—A plain-talking parakeet named "Kiwi" has moved into the new Senate Office building quarters of Freshman Sen. George H. Bender (R., Ohio), right next to the suite occupied by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The bird really belongs to Senator Bender's secretary, Mrs. C. D. Terry. It has already learned to greet Bender with a "Hi, Senator!" During the campaign it welcomed all callers at Senator Bender's office with, "Bender for Senator."

Mrs. Terry has kept Kiwi in the Bender offices for over two years. It is so tame that it was allowed outside a cage. It never ventured outside the office.

At present, the small, blue-breasted, gray-winged bird as installed in one of the center offices of Bender's suite. But if the staff has anything to say about it, Kiwi will be put in the outer reception room to greet guests as they walk in the door. This friendly welcome never fails to make a hit with callers.

When Vice President Nixon's staff was informed that a pet parakeet was moving in next door, a rumor was started that the V. P. was seeking new quarters. But if the bird can be taught to give Vice President Nixon a "Hi VEEP" greeting, it will probably win him over.

UNITED MINE WORKERS Journal took a crack at AFL and CIO Presidents George Meany and Walter Reuther in a series of faked New Year's resolutions. They were based on the facts that Reuther drinks pop and Meany likes his sour mash. They ran like this:

"Meany—Resolved—I will try to like Green River sodas with orange ice when I get unified with Walter Reuther.

"Reuther — Resolved — I will try to learn to like Old Fitzgerald, now that I am going to be unified with George Meany.

"United Mine Workers — Resolved—We'll believe it when it happens."

IF DEMOCRATIC senators carry through their threat to "demand the names" of alleged Communists fired or allowed to resign under the Eisenhower security program, they will be reversing a stand taken by the Democrats previously.

During the Truman administration, the White House refused to give congressional investigating committees the names and files of personnel dismissed on grounds of disloyalty. Now it's the Republican administration which is claiming that these files are confidential and must not be disclosed.

THE NEW CONGRESS came to Washington with its attention concentrated more on 1956 than any other single subject. And the center of interest for everyone was whether Ike would be a candidate to succeed himself.

Republicans are only guessing at the answer to this one. Pessimists believe that President Eisenhower will not seek a second term. But the majority seem to believe—hopefully—that he will.

For the Democrats, however, there is only one sensible strategy line. This is to believe that Ike will run again. They feel he is the man they have to beat. If he doesn't run, the Democrats aren't worrying. They think they can beat any other candidate the Republicans might put up.

Gov. Adali Stevenson still seems to be the favorite Democratic candidate, but there is one sour note about this. From Southern Eisenhower Democrats came rumors that they were still for Ike and were giving Stevenson only lip service support because they believed that Eisenhower could again beat Stevenson in 1956.

WITH THE ARRIVAL OF career diplomat Loy Henderson in Washington to become Deputy ministration, Republican Secretary of State John Foster Dulles believes he has perfected a plan for having Foreign Service Officers run the Department of State as permanent deputy undersecretaries. The deputy undersectary for international political affairs is already installed in Robert Murphy, another career diplomat.

The idea behind this plan of organization is to keep the professionals in charge of continuous operation of the State Department, regardless of changes in political control at the top.

When a new party comes to power after an election, it will naturally name a new Secretary and Undersecretary of State. Some of the Assistant Secretaries might also be changed by political appointments.

But the career diplomats serving as deputy undersecretaries for administration and international political affairs would continue from one administration to the next. This would assure that the bi-partisan foreign policies would be carried on consistently.

Eisenhower Plan on Free Economy to Create Jobs at Mercy of Controlling Democrats

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 20 — What the President of the United States says about the business outlook is usually the product of what his economic advisers have assembled from the most authentic data available.

Hence, when Mr. Eisenhower says there is a good chance for a healthy expansion of the national economy, it is a well considered judgment.

"Economic well-being," he says, "sustains our whole national life. A high and rising standard of living brings to more of our people the opportunity for continued intellectual and spiritual growth."

This is the thesis which the President's economic report to Congress has emphasized. But, entirely apart from the statistical facts, there is such thing as a good or a bad climate for business. Mr. Eisenhower says:

"A FREE ECONOMY has great capacity to generate jobs and incomes of a feeling of confidence in the economic future is widely shared by investors, workers, businessmen, farmers and consumers."

But what is that "feeling of confidence"? What makes it and what breaks it? Unrestrained spending and a reckless disregard for the soundness of the nation's currency is one thing, but almost as destructive is the tendency in some quarters to put the government into all sorts of business, thus stifling private initiative and rendering uncertain the future of many enterprises. To those in doubt on that point, the President makes this significant comment in his message:

"The role of the federal government in the achievement of these goals is to create an atmosphere favorable to economic activity by encouraging private initiative, curbing monopolistic tendencies, avoiding encroachment on the private sector of the economy, and carrying out as much of its own work as is practicable through private enterprise.

"IT SHOULD take its full part at the side of state and local governments in providing appropriate public facilities. It should restrain tendencies toward recession or inflation. It should widen opportunities for less fortunate citizens, and help individuals to cope with the hazards of unemployment, illness, old age, and blighted neighborhoods."

This is a general statement, of course, but it breathes the spirit of a conservative liberalism as opposed to what might be called a radical liberalism. None of us who support the first of the two schools of thought wants to see governmental intervention in the economic life of the country prohibited, for the truth is it has been going on ever since the days of Alexander Hamilton, who urged protective tariffs for "infant industries." But this principle is far different from plunging the government into the electric-power business, which is what the critics of the Dixon-Yates contract are really eager to accomplish. But if government ownership is right in one case, it is right in all others, and then state capitalism takes over the field of private enterprise.

AT THE ROOT, however, of all these controversies between those who want to conserve the fruits of the individual's labor—his savings and his property—and those who are ready to confiscate a large part of both to assist specially privileged groups or areas, there is the basic question of solvency for the government itself.

Earlier this week the President in his budget message made a telling point when he said:

"We must maintain financial strength. Preserving the value of the dollar is a matter of vital concern to each of us. Surely no one will advocate a special tax on the widows and orphans, pensioners, and working people with fixed incomes. Yet inflation acts like a tax which hits these groups hardest. This administration has made a stable dollar and economy in government operations positive policies from the top down."

THE BIG QUESTION now is which of the two major political parties will have the better record on this point when the 1956 campaign is at hand. For the Democratic party is in control of both Houses of Congress and can, by unrestrained spending, break down confidence in the dollar, thus bringing on inflation, or it can aid the Republican administration in cutting expenses so as to balance the budget.

Grand Slam Fuse

Bridgeport, Neb. (AP)—Farmer Leland Baker backed his car into a power pole and knocked a transformer fuse out of position. Then he climbed the pole, grabbed the fuse handle and slammed it back. He, too, was slammed—by 7,200 volts. He was knocked from the pole into a soft pile of sand, escaping with a bad burn. Power company linemen said it was the kind of a fuse they touched "only with an eight foot pole, an insulated one used to shut such fuses."

Milwaukee (AP)—Joseph Semrau of Milwaukee puts up a mighty good fight for a man 82 years old. Police said he routed two youths about 18 who tried to strong arm him. He told them to look for a youth with a black eye "because one of my punches landed square in his face." Semrau had cuts and bruises but retained his money.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I have reveived from the Sidney Hillman Foundation, Inc., of Union Square, N. Y., a "condensed" address to the Associated Harvard Clubs of Rochester, N. Y., by John Cowles, president of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, described as a "distinguished publisher." That compliment is ambigious. If the Hillman Foundation means that Cowles is distinguished for learning, wisdom or excellent journalism I could put up a strong dissent on any and all counts. The brochures boils down to a typical other-handed oration by a leading member of that cult of well-heeled owners of publications who presume to oracular status without public credentials.

Cowles speaks only for himself and everything he says in this emanation is compromised or gainsaid by something soon ensuing. It is all about Russia, recognition of Red China with "a substantial and proved quid pro quo," the blame "for the loss of Nationalist China to Communists" and the possible loss of India to Soviet Russia, as though that fact were still in the future. The speech is not worth the good white paper to print it.

I see by Who's Who that Cowles is a trustee of a family "foundation" named for his father, old Gardner Cowles, of Des Moines, a merchant-journalist of the old tall-corn, lawn-tie tradition. He is also a trustee of the Ford Foundation. He is the type, without research. I will venture a suspicion that the Reece Committee got no breaks in the Minneapolis Tribune and Star.

The Hillman Foundation was created in 1947 in honor of a professional unioneer from Russia who had collaborated closely with the Soviet government. He was named under oath as a member of the Communist party by Maurice Malkin, an old colleague in politics who admits that he was a party member for some years. Malkin repudiated the party and all his affirmatiins and activities on its behalf. His testimony said: "Hillman, to my knowledge, although I was never at a party meeting with him, has been a member of the Communist party since 1921." This was on Sept. 7, 1949.

Within the last year and after he had been relieved of certain duties in connection with the Catholic Youth Organization, Bishop Bernard Sheil, of Chicago, was awarded $1,000, and such honor as the recognition implied, by the Hillman Foundation for services which the foundation admired. He accepted the money for charity.

In 1953 William O. Douglas, associate justice of the Supreme Court, was awarded the same amount for conduct admirable in the eyes of the foundation. He gets $25,000 a year for a job involving easy hours and permitting long periods of absence from his chambers and the ensemble of our court of last resort. On one earlier occasion he wrote articles for the Cowles magazine "Look," presumably for pay. He maintains that his extra-curricular activities are not inhibited by obligations of office. The $1,000 from the Hillman Foundation would have been tax-free as being a gift. I wrote Douglas asking whether he kept the money and got no answer. He likewise had failed to answer how much "Look" paid him. "Look," however, replied that Douglas had in fact received pay for his writing but held that the amount was private to those concerned.

Even earlier, but while he was a Supreme Court justice, Douglas made a friendly speech to the national convention of the CIO of which Hillman was a founder and his union remains a pillar. A fee is customary here.

The Reece committee did not pick up any information about the Hillman Foundation. Volume VI "American Foundations and Their Fields," published in 1948 by Raymond Rich Associates, New York, states that the "donors" of the foundation are "clothing workers, individually and through organizations, trade unions, employers and members of the public."

The Clothing Workers' Union itself recently revealed that it had a treasury of about two hundred million dollars. The "purpose" stated by the Rich book is "University scholarships for trade unionists and their children and for students in the field of labor relations; lectures at leading institutions; prizes for best books in social studies; research and publication grants; and awards for public service."

The other winners of the "award" for public service include Senator Lehman of New York; ex-Senator Frank P. Graham of North Carolina and Oscar Ewing, former security administrator, all Roosevelt-Truman ideologians and political activists.

Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer and confidential coat-holder to both Roosevelt and Truman, was the principal orator at the 1953 ceremonies when a member of his own editorial staff received a piece of change. Daniels attacked "intolerance." Jake Potofsky, Hillman's successor as president of the union, attacked Joe McCarthy.

Hillman was president-dictator of the union for a life term from its foundation in 1914 until he died in 1946. The Internationale, anthem of world communism, was sung at the fifth convention in Chicago, in 1922, with Hillman in the chair. Hillman personally read to the meeting a greeting from William Z. Foster, then as now an avowed and notorious partisan of the Moscow conspiracy against the United States of America and their people.

The "advisory trustees" of the foundation, listed in 1952, included Edward G. Robinson, Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Channing Tobias of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Harlow Shapley of Harvard and Lehman aforesaid.

CHARACTER ASSASSINATION

When Herbert Hoover was President, the Democratic National Committee hired Charles Michelson to assassinate Mr. Hoover's reputation. Michelson devoted himself to the job affectionately. Hoover's character was investigated from the day of his birth and when nothing could be found to hurt his good name, it was manufactured with cynical skill.

This is the classical example of organized, subsidized character assassination. Herbert Hoover survived but many of those who sought to sully his good name have since died, including Charley Michelson who wrote a book on his infamies. Hoover, being a Quaker, has long forgiven the assassins; what is more, he has come to be on friendly terms with some of them, not taking their conduct too seriously. However, some of Michelson's falsehoods persist to this day to Mr. Hoover's amusement at the folly of men.

Nowadays, it has become improper to tell not only stories but the truth about political opponents, lest it involve "character assassination" which is a meaningless term politically because all politicians practise self-praise and point to the foibles of their adversaries. If the foibles are sufficient to bring about a man's defeat, it is generally regarded as the thing to do. But one must always expect the boar that has been stuck to shout, "Character assassin!"

When Woodrow Wilson was President, a smearing campaign was stimulated by his enemies dealing with his private life. This effort to destroy his character culminated in the hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee concerning the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to the Supreme Court. Brandeis was innocent of any relationship to President Wilson's private life and if ever there was an attempt at character assassination, it was bringing him into the matter at all. But nobody called it such a fancy name then; they called it politics played to embarrass a President. That office was at that time not regarded as sacrosanct and no President dared to take himself too seriously.

Those who make such a big noise about character assassination engage in that art themselves when it is to their advantage. For instance, Senator Neuberger, the fledgling from Oregon, accused Vice President Nixon of character assassination, whereupon he proceeded to assassinate Nixon's character. Everybody's doing it, more or less. The constancy of a habit does not make it right, but when the pot calls the kettle black, the kettle might, with justice, do some hissing, which apparently Mrs. George Malone did.

Actually the looseness of our conversation concerning public men has this virtue, that it may occasionally remind the great men who govern us that they were not to the manner born, as indeed, no one is in our land where the sons of farmers and workers and miners emerge to the top. It is lese majeste to run down a king or a queen because they have purer blood than we have, not biologically but geneologically, if that matters. Here there are no genealogies that matter. The only recent President that owned one was Franklin D. Roosevelt whose ancestors were something or other before they migrated from Holland and France to live among the Indians.

The only way to keep great men from believing in their own publicity is to remind them of what they were before they began to wonder themselves on what meat they thrived so mightily. Also it is good to remind them that not every word they say is sacred; that not every trick they pull is divine revelation. If maturity means obeisance to the great, then we were a better country before we became mature. Maturity may be synonymous with senility.

Personally, I do not go in for character assassination because too few persons are worthy of the effort. Do I care whether a politician is an alcoholic; if his wife took in washing before he suddenly bought her a mink coat; or if a supposedly learned man never read anything more serious than a "whodunit"? It might be interesting but is it important, particularly if the official somehow manages to do his job and is not soft on Communists and does not lie more than is necessary to get elected and to stay in office.

This is a democracy which means that what the people do is ipso facto right even if it turns out to be stupid which it does sometimes happen.

GALL BLADDER DISEASE

One of the fairly common ailments which afflict middle-aged men and women, particularly women, is gall-bladder disease — gall stones, cholelithiasis, as it is variously named. It has been estimated that gallstones are present in about 5 per cent of the population although they do not cause symptoms in this many and are usually unsuspected.

Gallstones are hard or solid masses formed in the gall bladder and the tubes or ducts leading from the gall bladder. Stones are sometimes found in the liver as well.

They are thought to be due to inflammation and infection from other parts of the body, carried to the liver and gall bladder by the blood, and also, to sluggishness or slowness of the liver and gall bladder, because of a lack of exercise, and overeating. There may be one large or hundreds of small stones, varying in size from a grain of sand to the size of an egg, or even larger. They are made up of cholesterol (fatty substance), lime salts, and bile pigments or colorings.

The early symptoms are discomfort and indigestion with pain in the region of the stomach—especially after eating fatty foods and coarse vegetables—gas formation and pressure, nausea, clay-colored stools.

In the acute attacks of gallstones or biliary colic there is (a) sudden, intense, agonizing pain in the right side of the upper part of the abdomen. The pain may go into the right shoulder. (b) Vomiting. (c) Chills and sweating. The attack may last from hours to days. The intense pain is caused by the sharp cutting edges of a gallstone as it changes its position in the gall bladder.

It is possible in many cases to prevent attacks of biliary colic by eating small meals, even if it is necessary to eat more often. Any infection in the body, such as that from teeth, tonsils, etc., should be removed. Fat foods should largely be avoided except a little bacon or butter at breakfast. Paraffin (mineral) oil is recommended between attacks.

Treatment during an attack of colic may require a hypodermic of morphine administered by the physician for relief of the intense pain. Heat applied to the painful region by an electric heating pad or a hot water bottle helps ease the pain. Rest in bed, of course.

Fairly frequently operation for the removal of the gall bladder — cholecystectomy — is recommended when the pain is unbearable or when the attacks keep repeating.

"Who Says There Isn't Any Room?"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA)—A plain-talking parakeet named "Kiwi" has moved into the new Senate Office building quarters of Freshman Sen. George H. Bender (R., Ohio), right next to the suite occupied by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The bird really belongs to Senator Bender's secretary, Mrs. C. D. Terry. It has already learned to greet Bender with a "Hi, Senator!" During the campaign it welcomed all callers at Senator Bender's office with, "Bender for Senator."

Mrs. Terry has kept Kiwi in the Bender offices for over two years. It is so tame that it was allowed outside a cage. It never ventured outside the office.

At present, the small, blue-breasted, gray-winged bird as installed in one of the center offices of Bender's suite. But if the staff has anything to say about it, Kiwi will be put in the outer reception room to greet guests as they walk in the door. This friendly welcome never fails to make a hit with callers.

When Vice President Nixon's staff was informed that a pet parakeet was moving in next door, a rumor was started that the V. P. was seeking new quarters. But if the bird can be taught to give Vice President Nixon a "Hi VEEP" greeting, it will probably win him over.

UNITED MINE WORKERS Journal took a crack at AFL and CIO Presidents George Meany and Walter Reuther in a series of faked New Year's resolutions. They were based on the facts that Reuther drinks pop and Meany likes his sour mash. They ran like this:

"Meany—Resolved—I will try to like Green River sodas with orange ice when I get unified with Walter Reuther.

"Reuther — Resolved — I will try to learn to like Old Fitzgerald, now that I am going to be unified with George Meany.

"United Mine Workers — Resolved—We'll believe it when it happens."

IF DEMOCRATIC senators carry through their threat to "demand the names" of alleged Communists fired or allowed to resign under the Eisenhower security program, they will be reversing a stand taken by the Democrats previously.

During the Truman administration, the White House refused to give congressional investigating committees the names and files of personnel dismissed on grounds of disloyalty. Now it's the Republican administration which is claiming that these files are confidential and must not be disclosed.

THE NEW CONGRESS came to Washington with its attention concentrated more on 1956 than any other single subject. And the center of interest for everyone was whether Ike would be a candidate to succeed himself.

Republicans are only guessing at the answer to this one. Pessimists believe that President Eisenhower will not seek a second term. But the majority seem to believe—hopefully—that he will.

For the Democrats, however, there is only one sensible strategy line. This is to believe that Ike will run again. They feel he is the man they have to beat. If he doesn't run, the Democrats aren't worrying. They think they can beat any other candidate the Republicans might put up.

Gov. Adali Stevenson still seems to be the favorite Democratic candidate, but there is one sour note about this. From Southern Eisenhower Democrats came rumors that they were still for Ike and were giving Stevenson only lip service support because they believed that Eisenhower could again beat Stevenson in 1956.

WITH THE ARRIVAL OF career diplomat Loy Henderson in Washington to become Deputy ministration, Republican Secretary of State John Foster Dulles believes he has perfected a plan for having Foreign Service Officers run the Department of State as permanent deputy undersecretaries. The deputy undersectary for international political affairs is already installed in Robert Murphy, another career diplomat.

The idea behind this plan of organization is to keep the professionals in charge of continuous operation of the State Department, regardless of changes in political control at the top.

When a new party comes to power after an election, it will naturally name a new Secretary and Undersecretary of State. Some of the Assistant Secretaries might also be changed by political appointments.

But the career diplomats serving as deputy undersecretaries for administration and international political affairs would continue from one administration to the next. This would assure that the bi-partisan foreign policies would be carried on consistently.

Eisenhower Plan on Free Economy to Create Jobs at Mercy of Controlling Democrats

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 20 — What the President of the United States says about the business outlook is usually the product of what his economic advisers have assembled from the most authentic data available.

Hence, when Mr. Eisenhower says there is a good chance for a healthy expansion of the national economy, it is a well considered judgment.

"Economic well-being," he says, "sustains our whole national life. A high and rising standard of living brings to more of our people the opportunity for continued intellectual and spiritual growth."

This is the thesis which the President's economic report to Congress has emphasized. But, entirely apart from the statistical facts, there is such thing as a good or a bad climate for business. Mr. Eisenhower says:

"A FREE ECONOMY has great capacity to generate jobs and incomes of a feeling of confidence in the economic future is widely shared by investors, workers, businessmen, farmers and consumers."

But what is that "feeling of confidence"? What makes it and what breaks it? Unrestrained spending and a reckless disregard for the soundness of the nation's currency is one thing, but almost as destructive is the tendency in some quarters to put the government into all sorts of business, thus stifling private initiative and rendering uncertain the future of many enterprises. To those in doubt on that point, the President makes this significant comment in his message:

"The role of the federal government in the achievement of these goals is to create an atmosphere favorable to economic activity by encouraging private initiative, curbing monopolistic tendencies, avoiding encroachment on the private sector of the economy, and carrying out as much of its own work as is practicable through private enterprise.

"IT SHOULD take its full part at the side of state and local governments in providing appropriate public facilities. It should restrain tendencies toward recession or inflation. It should widen opportunities for less fortunate citizens, and help individuals to cope with the hazards of unemployment, illness, old age, and blighted neighborhoods."

This is a general statement, of course, but it breathes the spirit of a conservative liberalism as opposed to what might be called a radical liberalism. None of us who support the first of the two schools of thought wants to see governmental intervention in the economic life of the country prohibited, for the truth is it has been going on ever since the days of Alexander Hamilton, who urged protective tariffs for "infant industries." But this principle is far different from plunging the government into the electric-power business, which is what the critics of the Dixon-Yates contract are really eager to accomplish. But if government ownership is right in one case, it is right in all others, and then state capitalism takes over the field of private enterprise.

AT THE ROOT, however, of all these controversies between those who want to conserve the fruits of the individual's labor—his savings and his property—and those who are ready to confiscate a large part of both to assist specially privileged groups or areas, there is the basic question of solvency for the government itself.

Earlier this week the President in his budget message made a telling point when he said:

"We must maintain financial strength. Preserving the value of the dollar is a matter of vital concern to each of us. Surely no one will advocate a special tax on the widows and orphans, pensioners, and working people with fixed incomes. Yet inflation acts like a tax which hits these groups hardest. This administration has made a stable dollar and economy in government operations positive policies from the top down."

THE BIG QUESTION now is which of the two major political parties will have the better record on this point when the 1956 campaign is at hand. For the Democratic party is in control of both Houses of Congress and can, by unrestrained spending, break down confidence in the dollar, thus bringing on inflation, or it can aid the Republican administration in cutting expenses so as to balance the budget.

Grand Slam Fuse

Bridgeport, Neb. (AP)—Farmer Leland Baker backed his car into a power pole and knocked a transformer fuse out of position. Then he climbed the pole, grabbed the fuse handle and slammed it back. He, too, was slammed—by 7,200 volts. He was knocked from the pole into a soft pile of sand, escaping with a bad burn. Power company linemen said it was the kind of a fuse they touched "only with an eight foot pole, an insulated one used to shut such fuses."

Fighting Oldster

Milwaukee (AP)—Joseph Semrau of Milwaukee puts up a mighty good fight for a man 82 years old. Police said he routed two youths about 18 who tried to strong arm him. He told them to look for a youth with a black eye "because one of my punches landed square in his face." Semrau had cuts and bruises but retained his money.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I have reveived from the Sidney Hillman Foundation, Inc., of Union Square, N. Y., a "condensed" address to the Associated Harvard Clubs of Rochester, N. Y., by John Cowles, president of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, described as a "distinguished publisher." That compliment is ambigious. If the Hillman Foundation means that Cowles is distinguished for learning, wisdom or excellent journalism I could put up a strong dissent on any and all counts. The brochures boils down to a typical other-handed oration by a leading member of that cult of well-heeled owners of publications who presume to oracular status without public credentials.

Cowles speaks only for himself and everything he says in this emanation is compromised or gainsaid by something soon ensuing. It is all about Russia, recognition of Red China with "a substantial and proved quid pro quo," the blame "for the loss of Nationalist China to Communists" and the possible loss of India to Soviet Russia, as though that fact were still in the future. The speech is not worth the good white paper to print it.

I see by Who's Who that Cowles is a trustee of a family "foundation" named for his father, old Gardner Cowles, of Des Moines, a merchant-journalist of the old tall-corn, lawn-tie tradition. He is also a trustee of the Ford Foundation. He is the type, without research. I will venture a suspicion that the Reece Committee got no breaks in the Minneapolis Tribune and Star.

The Hillman Foundation was created in 1947 in honor of a professional unioneer from Russia who had collaborated closely with the Soviet government. He was named under oath as a member of the Communist party by Maurice Malkin, an old colleague in politics who admits that he was a party member for some years. Malkin repudiated the party and all his affirmatiins and activities on its behalf. His testimony said: "Hillman, to my knowledge, although I was never at a party meeting with him, has been a member of the Communist party since 1921." This was on Sept. 7, 1949.

Within the last year and after he had been relieved of certain duties in connection with the Catholic Youth Organization, Bishop Bernard Sheil, of Chicago, was awarded $1,000, and such honor as the recognition implied, by the Hillman Foundation for services which the foundation admired. He accepted the money for charity.

In 1953 William O. Douglas, associate justice of the Supreme Court, was awarded the same amount for conduct admirable in the eyes of the foundation. He gets $25,000 a year for a job involving easy hours and permitting long periods of absence from his chambers and the ensemble of our court of last resort. On one earlier occasion he wrote articles for the Cowles magazine "Look," presumably for pay. He maintains that his extra-curricular activities are not inhibited by obligations of office. The $1,000 from the Hillman Foundation would have been tax-free as being a gift. I wrote Douglas asking whether he kept the money and got no answer. He likewise had failed to answer how much "Look" paid him. "Look," however, replied that Douglas had in fact received pay for his writing but held that the amount was private to those concerned.

Even earlier, but while he was a Supreme Court justice, Douglas made a friendly speech to the national convention of the CIO of which Hillman was a founder and his union remains a pillar. A fee is customary here.

The Reece committee did not pick up any information about the Hillman Foundation. Volume VI "American Foundations and Their Fields," published in 1948 by Raymond Rich Associates, New York, states that the "donors" of the foundation are "clothing workers, individually and through organizations, trade unions, employers and members of the public."

The Clothing Workers' Union itself recently revealed that it had a treasury of about two hundred million dollars. The "purpose" stated by the Rich book is "University scholarships for trade unionists and their children and for students in the field of labor relations; lectures at leading institutions; prizes for best books in social studies; research and publication grants; and awards for public service."

The other winners of the "award" for public service include Senator Lehman of New York; ex-Senator Frank P. Graham of North Carolina and Oscar Ewing, former security administrator, all Roosevelt-Truman ideologians and political activists.

Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer and confidential coat-holder to both Roosevelt and Truman, was the principal orator at the 1953 ceremonies when a member of his own editorial staff received a piece of change. Daniels attacked "intolerance." Jake Potofsky, Hillman's successor as president of the union, attacked Joe McCarthy.

Hillman was president-dictator of the union for a life term from its foundation in 1914 until he died in 1946. The Internationale, anthem of world communism, was sung at the fifth convention in Chicago, in 1922, with Hillman in the chair. Hillman personally read to the meeting a greeting from William Z. Foster, then as now an avowed and notorious partisan of the Moscow conspiracy against the United States of America and their people.

The "advisory trustees" of the foundation, listed in 1952, included Edward G. Robinson, Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Channing Tobias of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Harlow Shapley of Harvard and Lehman aforesaid.

EVERYONE IS HELPING!

The New York Telephone Company joins the MARCH OF DIMES in returning polio stricken Rudy Frank to health and the three "R's".

"It takes courage and money to fight polio" says Rudy Frank, age 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Frank of Shandaken, Ulster County, New York.

Stricken with polio in October, 1953, Rudy has shown marked improvement and is grateful for the assistance of the March of Dimes. With the cooperation of school officials and the telephone company, Rudy is now able to continue his studies by means of a two way speaker-receiver system between his home and his classroom at Onteora Central School. Rudy was first hospitalized at the Benedictine Hospital in Kingston and later went to the New York State Rehabilitation Hospital at West Haverstraw, and is still receiving treatment at the Kingston Clinic three times a week.

Rudy urges your support of the 1955 March of Dimes to help the many others stricken with polio and those that will be stricken in 1955.

Road Program Expected To Boom U. S. Business

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Many businessmen have an eye on that 101 billion dollars that may be handed out over the next 10 years for roads.

The program would provide a good steady market for many products — cement, steel, earth moving machinery. And new road building processes and products are being developed.

If highways improve to a point where you can enjoy driving again, instead of spending your Sundays in traffic jams, it will make the selling task of the auto salesman easier, and doubtless inspire Detroit to greater production.

STEEL MILLS will be busily turning out material for bridges, ramps, guard rails, signs, and miles of steel fence. But there's a lot more steel that doesn't meet the eye. Much goes into reinforcing concrete roadways as traffic grows heavier. And there's the lowly culvert.

More than 1½ million tons of steel went into highway projects in 1954, when federal, state and local agencies spent about four billion dollars on roads. This year spending is expected to go up by almost one billion more, and steel consumption to approach two million tons.

BUT IF THE BIG spending plan is adopted by the federal and state governments, the American Road Builders' Assn. estimates that highway construction will increase rapidly till it hits a peak stride of around 11 billion dollars in 1958, where it would stay until 1965. This would require about 5¼ million tons of steel products each year.

New wrinkles in the use of steel in highway construction are stressed by engineers of the Truscon Steel Division of Republic steel.

Expansion cracks—those tar-filled ridges over which your car click-clicks at high speed—can be eliminated by a process of continuous reinforcement, the engineers say. This increases the quantity of steel bars used for reinforcements—to the delight of steel company salesmen—but cuts down on the thickness of concrete needed to sustain traffic weight.

KING SIZED corrugated tubes are also finding an increased market as culverts. Corrugation gives five to seven time the strength of uncorrugated tubes, engineers say, and the big tubes don't crack under the increasingly heavy loads that today's highways take, as the old stone and concrete culverts sometimes do. The big tubes are used to carry water under the roads, but also sometimes as passageways for people or livestock.

Pre-stressed steel girders are helping to reduce the weight of highway bridges. They are made by Stresstell Corp. From a technique developed in Britain. Steel bars, placed in beams when the concrete is poured, are pulled up hydraulically to extreme tension. Engineers explain that under this built-in tension the lighter beams can hold a heavy weight, just as can a row of books when squeezed together by your hands. Relax the pressure and the weight would send the books plunging to the floor.

Lions Form Unit In New Paltz

The formation of a Lions Club chapter in New Paltz was announced today by David Dodge, temporary secretary and treasurer.

Dodge said charter memberships are being signed and a dinner meeting is planned for January 31.

Walter Dyer, manager of GLF at New Paltz, is temporary chairman of the group. Dodge is associated with C & E Motors, New Paltz.

Assistance in formation of the unit was given by William Stall, of Kingston, former president of the Kingston Lions Club and now a zone chairman.

According to Stall, Lions is the largest international service club organization in the world with more than 500,000 members in more than 60 countries.

He served in sales posts in Chicago, St. Louis, Rickford, Ill., Cedar Rapids, Iowa and Cincinnati prior to his present promotion.

Deaths Reported

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Gus Arnheim, 56, once one of the nation's favorite bandleaders and composers, whose musical compositions included "I Surrender, Dear," "I Cried For You," and "Sweet and Lovely." Born in Philadelphia. Died Wednesday.

WASHINGTON—Mrs. William H. Carter, 94, widow of a major general who won the Medal of Honor for rescuing injured men under heavy Apache Indian fire in Cibicu, Ariz., in 1881. Died Tuesday.

EVERYONE IS HELPING!

The New York Telephone Company joins the MARCH OF DIMES in returning polio stricken Rudy Frank to health and the three "R's".

"It takes courage and money to fight polio" says Rudy Frank, age 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Frank of Shandaken, Ulster County, New York.

Stricken with polio in October, 1953, Rudy has shown marked improvement and is grateful for the assistance of the March of Dimes. With the cooperation of school officials and the telephone company, Rudy is now able to continue his studies by means of a two way speaker-receiver system between his home and his classroom at Onteora Central School. Rudy was first hospitalized at the Benedictine Hospital in Kingston and later went to the New York State Rehabilitation Hospital at West Haverstraw, and is still receiving treatment at the Kingston Clinic three times a week.

Rudy urges your support of the 1955 March of Dimes to help the many others stricken with polio and those that will be stricken in 1955.

Road Program Expected To Boom U. S. Business

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Many businessmen have an eye on that 101 billion dollars that may be handed out over the next 10 years for roads.

The program would provide a good steady market for many products — cement, steel, earth moving machinery. And new road building processes and products are being developed.

If highways improve to a point where you can enjoy driving again, instead of spending your Sundays in traffic jams, it will make the selling task of the auto salesman easier, and doubtless inspire Detroit to greater production.

STEEL MILLS will be busily turning out material for bridges, ramps, guard rails, signs, and miles of steel fence. But there's a lot more steel that doesn't meet the eye. Much goes into reinforcing concrete roadways as traffic grows heavier. And there's the lowly culvert.

More than 1½ million tons of steel went into highway projects in 1954, when federal, state and local agencies spent about four billion dollars on roads. This year spending is expected to go up by almost one billion more, and steel consumption to approach two million tons.

BUT IF THE BIG spending plan is adopted by the federal and state governments, the American Road Builders' Assn. estimates that highway construction will increase rapidly till it hits a peak stride of around 11 billion dollars in 1958, where it would stay until 1965. This would require about 5¼ million tons of steel products each year.

New wrinkles in the use of steel in highway construction are stressed by engineers of the Truscon Steel Division of Republic steel.

Expansion cracks—those tar-filled ridges over which your car click-clicks at high speed—can be eliminated by a process of continuous reinforcement, the engineers say. This increases the quantity of steel bars used for reinforcements—to the delight of steel company salesmen—but cuts down on the thickness of concrete needed to sustain traffic weight.

KING SIZED corrugated tubes are also finding an increased market as culverts. Corrugation gives five to seven time the strength of uncorrugated tubes, engineers say, and the big tubes don't crack under the increasingly heavy loads that today's highways take, as the old stone and concrete culverts sometimes do. The big tubes are used to carry water under the roads, but also sometimes as passageways for people or livestock.

Pre-stressed steel girders are helping to reduce the weight of highway bridges. They are made by Stresstell Corp. From a technique developed in Britain. Steel bars, placed in beams when the concrete is poured, are pulled up hydraulically to extreme tension. Engineers explain that under this built-in tension the lighter beams can hold a heavy weight, just as can a row of books when squeezed together by your hands. Relax the pressure and the weight would send the books plunging to the floor.

Lions Form Unit In New Paltz

The formation of a Lions Club chapter in New Paltz was announced today by David Dodge, temporary secretary and treasurer.

Dodge said charter memberships are being signed and a dinner meeting is planned for January 31.

Walter Dyer, manager of GLF at New Paltz, is temporary chairman of the group. Dodge is associated with C & E Motors, New Paltz.

Assistance in formation of the unit was given by William Stall, of Kingston, former president of the Kingston Lions Club and now a zone chairman.

According to Stall, Lions is the largest international service club organization in the world with more than 500,000 members in more than 60 countries.

New Hurley

New Hurley, Jan. 19—Miss Bertha Sutton spent Monday afternoon with Mis Jeanette Van Arendonk in New Paltz and also called on Mrs. Earl Harp and daughter, Carol Ann.

Nicholas T. Cocks called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hanmer in New Paltz recently. Mr. Hanmer has been ill at his home.

Mrs. A. D. McKinstry and Mrs. Edytha Dusinberre of Gardiner were dinner guests at the home of their cousin, Miss Bertha Sutton Wednesday.

Mrs. James Wilkins presided at the organ in the New Hurley Church Sunday morning due to the illiness of the regular organist, Mrs. George Boyce.

Junior choir rehearsal will be held at the church Thursday at 6:45 p. m. with Mrs. Fred Almack as director. Senior choir will meet at 7:30 p. m., Mrs. Miriam Dutcher directing.

Sunday, Jan. 30, is Young Peoples' Sunday and they will have complete charge of the morning worship.

The young people will meet at the parsonage Sunday at 7:30 p m. Carol Hardwick will have charge of the devotions.

Committee Is Formed

New York, Jan. 19 (AP)—A "watchdog committee" has been set up by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People to determine what steps are being taken to assure more jobs for Negroes in radio and television. The committee, headed by Odell M. Clarke, vice president of the association's New York branch, will make a survey and submit its findings in February. The committee was formed last night at a meeting of the New York branch.

Schryver Going To Convention of Lumber Dealers

Donald W. Schryver, vice president of the William C. Schryver Lumber Company, Ins., Kingston and Rosendale, will be among 5,000 delegates and guests of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association at its 61st annual convention in New York January 24-26.

Schryver said he expects the three-day meeting to reflect the "aggressive, modern business methods" which his association has encouraged among its members in their dealings with the public. The convention keynote will be Ideas in Action—Put First Things First. It will stress improvements in the homes of millions of Americans to make them more livable and attractive.

ONE OF THE MORE important industrial conventions to be held in New York each year, the meeting will have as its guest speakers Clem D. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Frank J. Meistrell, general counsel of the Federal Housing Administration, and others. Deyo W. Johnson, president of the association, will preside.

According to Johnson, the building industry has established many records in 1954 and he anticipates that 1955 will produce new peaks in all construction work. He has reported that the industry is demonstrating that "it pays to see your lumber dealer first" when planning building or improvements. The convention, he believes, will crystallize the collective efforts of lumbermen in this area to improve service to the consumer and thereby increase business.

THRIFT WEEK OBSERVED—William W. Townsend, banker, author, lecturer and investment counselor and who has been engaged in some phase of the finance industry for over 40 years, delivered an interesting and enlightening talk on "Thrift a Virtue and a Necessity" before the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon-meeting held Wednesday at the Hotel Stuyvesant. His appearance before the local service club was in connection with the observance here of National Thrift Week. Thoroughly conversant with his subject, the speaker explained in some detail the importance of thrift and a sound finance industry in our country. He was introduced by Miss Helen White of Chicago, executive secretary of the National Thrift Committee. In the above picture are, left to right, Albert Kurdt, chairman of the Kingston Thrift Committee; Miss White, W. W. Townsend and James G. Mystery Is . . .

showplace ranch 23 miles north of here and maintained an apartment in San Angelo.

Mrs. Weaver's late father was a pioneer rancher and banker here.

Weaver said he heard the terrific explosion, heard his wife scream "four or five times," and ran to the smoking car. Mrs. Weaver, he said, groaned but was unconscious when he reached her.

A filling station operator across the street from the Harris home, H. H. Lamb, said he saw Mrs. Weaver step into the automobile. Before she closed the door, Lamb said, the blast came.

LAMB CALLED police and ran to the shattered automobile. He said Mrs. Weaver groaned but said nothing. She was dead a few minutes after her mangled body reached a hospital.

Dr. R. E. Capshaw, who lives across the street from the Harris home, said Mrs. Weaver was unconscious and her husband "more or less in a state of shock" when he ran to the smoking automobile.

J. D. Chastain, state police demolition expert, said last night that examination of the other three cars at the Harris home, including an expensive Cadillac Mrs. Weaver usually drove, revealed no more explosives.

Local officers earlier had believed the big car, too, was mined.

BPW Opens Bids

They were $1,840, $2,005, $2,355 and $2,530.

The bids were left with the board for study and later decision.

ON RECOMMENDATION of City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan the board voted to pay sums due to the Raymond J. Marshall Co., of Wappingers Falls, in conjunction with work done on the force main on Foxhall avenue between Flatbush avenue and O'Neil street. One payment of $1,980.45 is for work done on the project and the other of $1,698.58 was an amount withheld as insurance against claims for materials and labor.

THRIFT WEEK OBSERVED—William W. Townsend, banker, author, lecturer and investment counselor and who has been engaged in some phase of the finance industry for over 40 years, delivered an interesting and enlightening talk on "Thrift a Virtue and a Necessity" before the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon-meeting held Wednesday at the Hotel Stuyvesant. His appearance before the local service club was in connection with the observance here of National Thrift Week. Thoroughly conversant with his subject, the speaker explained in some detail the importance of thrift and a sound finance industry in our country. He was introduced by Miss Helen White of Chicago, executive secretary of the National Thrift Committee. In the above picture are, left to right, Albert Kurdt, chairman of the Kingston Thrift Committee; Miss White, W. W. Townsend and James G. Connelly, president of Kingston Rotary Club. (Freeman Photo)

showplace ranch 23 miles north of here and maintained an apartment in San Angelo.

Mrs. Weaver's late father was a pioneer rancher and banker here.

Weaver said he heard the terrific explosion, heard his wife scream "four or five times," and ran to the smoking car. Mrs. Weaver, he said, groaned but was unconscious when he reached her.

A filling station operator across the street from the Harris home, H. H. Lamb, said he saw Mrs. Weaver step into the automobile. Before she closed the door, Lamb said, the blast came.

LAMB CALLED police and ran to the shattered automobile. He said Mrs. Weaver groaned but said nothing. She was dead a few minutes after her mangled body reached a hospital.

Dr. R. E. Capshaw, who lives across the street from the Harris home, said Mrs. Weaver was unconscious and her husband "more or less in a state of shock" when he ran to the smoking automobile.

J. D. Chastain, state police demolition expert, said last night that examination of the other three cars at the Harris home, including an expensive Cadillac Mrs. Weaver usually drove, revealed no more explosives.

Local officers earlier had believed the big car, too, was mined.

Two More Officers

Two officers of Hercules Employes New York Federal Credit Union, inadvertently omitted from a list yesterday, will be in attendance when the organization meets Saturday at 3 p. m. in the YMCA Auditorium. They are Oakley Maynard, treasurer and one of the directors and John Suski an auditor.

Accords Are Approved

Brussels, Belgium, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Belgian House of Representatives approved today the Paris accords to rearm Western Germany. The vote was 181 to 9, with two abstentions. The treaties now got to the Upper House.

Banquet Scheduled

The annual banquet of Rapid Hose Company will be held at the hall of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets tonight. It is to start at 7 p. m.

BPW Opens Bids

They were $1,840, $2,005, $2,355 and $2,530.

The bids were left with the board for study and later decision.

ON RECOMMENDATION of City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan the board voted to pay sums due to the Raymond J. Marshall Co., of Wappingers Falls, in conjunction with work done on the force main on Foxhall avenue between Flatbush avenue and O'Neil street. One payment of $1,980.45 is for work done on the project and the other of $1,698.58 was an amount withheld as insurance against claims for materials and labor.

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

The nation's food stores, seeking good buys for weekend shoppers in the face of rises in wholesale meat prices, have come up with a variety of specials this week.

Quite a number of stores will feature turkeys, and in some cases prices will be down around six cents a pound from a week ago.

"Turkeys look good, people being as price-conscious as they are," commented one meat specialist. "They can get more than one meal out of a turkey."

SMOKED HAMS also will be advertised at lower prices by some markets. Other specials mentioned by a number of stores: Sirloin steak, fresh picnics, pork butt, loin of pork, chuck roast or steak and bacon. There also will be occasional specials on fryers, roasting chickens and fowl.

One buyer of meat for a large chain said that beef, lamb, veal and pork were higher at wholesale this week. He said that good value can still be found in various cuts of pork and lamb, nevertheless.

ANOTHER BIG CHAIN will be selling sirloin steaks and prime ribs this coming weekend at about the same prices as a week ago. But pork chops will be up anywhere from four to 10 cents a pound. This same chain is hiking frying chicken price-tags from two to eight cents a pound.

Despite beef's present high price levels, the American Meat Institute is predicting that beef will remain America's most popular meat during 1955. It figures Americans will consume 76.7 pounds of beef per person this year. Pork, which used to be the favorite, will be consumed at a rate of 64 pounds per person.

THE INSTITUTE also has a tip for careful shoppers. It says some of the most nutritious meats are found at the bottom of the butcher's price list: Kidney, brains, heart, tongue, oxtail, and pork and beef liver. These are fine protein foods, says the Meat Institute, and excellent sources of iron and vitamins. It adds that most experienced buyers look for a glossy appearance in kidney, heart and liver.

The list of outstanding buys in vegetables is dwindling with the arrival of colder weather. Produce men favor nearby potatoes, onions, old crop cabbage and turnips.

RATED AS GOOD buys are iceberg lettuce, pascal and golden heart celery, peppers, greens, dry type sweet potatoes and new cabbage. The smaller sizes in celery will give you the best value, they say.

Corn went up rather sharply this week. Supplies are light.

In fruits, your best bets are tangerines, oranges, grapefruit, apples and avocadoes. Incidentally, the calavo growers of California say the first heavy shipments of the record 1955 crop of California avocadoes will arrive in eastern markets this week. The organization is planning a campaign to expand sales of the fruit.

The Mature Parent

Remember Adolescence? Use It to Back Teen Dignity

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Sara's Aunt Dot is a childless, pretty woman in her early forties who has reasons of her own to prefer to forget that time passes.

One Saturday, after shopping with Sara and her mother, she invited them to lunch at an expensive downtown hotel.

Giving the order to the waiter, Aunt Dot said, ". . . some Melba toast, please, and the chicken salad for the child."

After a moment, Sara's mother found the courage to meet the 13-year-old eyes across the table from her. And to the question of agonized appeal in them, gave an imperceptible nod. Then she waited, hoping that the words would come out right, but knowing that right or not, they had to come out.

Sara said, "Aunt Dot, please don't call me a 'child' to people any more."

Aunt Dot stared. Then, flushing angrily, she began, "Well, of all the impertinence I ever—" when she was interrupted.

Her sister-in-law said, "Please do what Sara asks, Dot. How good this sweet butter is! I'd forgotten how delicious. . ."

I hope that all parents of people around Sara's age will support them in a similar fashion on these occasions.

It is an age of special strain in our society. Among primitive people who listen with respect to what the human body tells them, there would be no question of granting Sara new dignity as a person who has crossed from childhood into puberty.

But we civilized people like to pretend that nothing meaningful has happened to Sara's body, though it is capable of motherhood. This is very confusing to Sara, whose biology insists on one thing and her Aunt Dot, another.

Her own uncertainty makes Sara very sensitive to our charity or lack of it. If we fail to realize this and do not support her right to new dignity, our failure will be remembered in the adolescent fight ahead.

Time and again, the fits of irritation that suddenly seize on people of Sara's age are resentment at our refusal to accord new status that is their biological right.

It is even unwise to rebuke them in terms associated with their childhood. I, for example, had a relative who was prone to correct all that was unlovely in me as a small girl with the words, "That isn't sweet."

I can still remember my sense of outrage when she applied the phrase to some 13-year-old comment I had made. I knew then as I know now that it was used to thrust me back into the convenient nonentity of prattlerhood.

We all have similar experiences. Let's use them.

Made Trial Run

First English-built locomotive to run on an American railroad was the "Stourbridge Lion," which made a trial run at Honesdale, Pa., on Aug. 9, 1829.

STORYBOOK SCENE—Dutch boys and girls skate on a frozen canal near Volendam, resembling a scene from the pages of "Hans Brinker." The girls are wearing fringed shawls called "kapers" over their colorfully striped dresses.

Plant Curiosity

After the flowers of the peanut plant have fallen, the flower stalks turn sharply downward and dig their way into the soil, where the bud at the end of each stalk enlarges to form the peanut pod.

The Mature Parent

Remember Adolescence? Use It to Back Teen Dignity

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Sara's Aunt Dot is a childless, pretty woman in her early forties who has reasons of her own to prefer to forget that time passes.

One Saturday, after shopping with Sara and her mother, she invited them to lunch at an expensive downtown hotel.

Giving the order to the waiter, Aunt Dot said, ". . . some Melba toast, please, and the chicken salad for the child."

After a moment, Sara's mother found the courage to meet the 13-year-old eyes across the table from her. And to the question of agonized appeal in them, gave an imperceptible nod. Then she waited, hoping that the words would come out right, but knowing that right or not, they had to come out.

Sara said, "Aunt Dot, please don't call me a 'child' to people any more."

Aunt Dot stared. Then, flushing angrily, she began, "Well, of all the impertinence I ever—" when she was interrupted.

Her sister-in-law said, "Please do what Sara asks, Dot. How good this sweet butter is! I'd forgotten how delicious. . . ."

I hope that all parents of people around Sara's age will support them in a similar fashion on these occasions.

It is an age of special strain in our society. Among primitive people who listen with respect to what the human body tells them, there would be no question of granting Sara new dignity as a person who has crossed from childhood into puberty.

But we civilized people like to pretend that nothing meaningful has happened to Sara's body, though it is capable of motherhood. This is very confusing to Sara, whose biology insists on one thing and her Aunt Dot, another.

Her own uncertainty makes Sara very sensitive to our charity or lack of it. If we fail to realize this and do not support her right to new dignity, our failure will be remembered in the adolescent fight ahead.

Time and again, the fits of irritation that suddenly seize on people of Sara's age are resentment at our refusal to accord new status that is their biological right.

It is even unwise to rebuke them in terms associated with their childhood. I, for example, had a relative who was prone to correct all that was unlovely in me as a small girl with the words, "That isn't sweet."

I can still remember my sense of outrage when she applied the phrase to some 13-year-old comment I had made. I knew then as I know now that it was used to thrust me back into the convenient nonentity of prattlerhood.

We all have similar experiences. Let's use them.

De Grazia's Body Is Not Recovered

Valhalla, Jan. 20 (AP)—Police failed yesterday to recover from Kensico reservoir the body of Joseph De Grazia, 18, of Pleasantville, who apparently drowned trying to save his girl friend.

The search in the Kensico reservoir for the youth's body will continue indefinitely, police said.

The girl, Patricia Maxwell, 17, also of Pleasantville, was pulled from the water by police. A second youth who had been with De Grazia and the girl had summoned officers.

Police said the girl told them she went to the edge of the reservoir to throw an engagement ring into the water, and fell in. Police said, however, they had not learned why the girl's shoes and coat were found on the edge of the reservoir.

De Grazia, police said, apparently jumped in to try to bring the girl out of the water. She was able to swim back to the edge but he sank. Water in the reservoir is up to 250 feet deep.

The girl was taken to Grasslands Hospital where she was reported suffering from shock and exposure.

Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of my dear husband and our loving father Charles H. Dasher, Sr., who passed away four years ago today January 20th, 1951.

MRS. KATHRYN DASHER AND CHILDREN.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear father, John Jacob Sauter, who died Jan. 13, 1955, and his loving wife Sarah Ella Sauter, who died 2 years ago, March 6, 1952.

Peacefully sleeping resting at last;
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence they suffered, in patience they bore
Till God called them home to suffer no more.

Grass and Brush Fires Reported

A grass fire threatened buildings in the city today and a brush fire along the Rosendale road gave firemen a stubborn fight.

Both fires were spread by wind, and firemen from Central station, called at about 10:27 a. m., for the grass fire near 148 Third avenue, used hydrant streams on the blaze. It threatened to spread toward buildings in the area.

THE BLOOMINGTON fire department checked the brush fire on the Rosendale road about a quarter of a mile south of the Wallkill Valley crossing, and near the scene of another stubborn brush fire yesterday afternoon.

C. F. Doty, first assistant chief, of the Bloomington department, said the fire today appeared to have started back of a house. It spread in a line along a ridge and down into a valley for some distance before it was quenched. About 12 men used booster and Indian pumps and brooms on the blaze, he said.

Men and equipment from Wiltwyck station answered a call at 5:09 p. m., yesterday to 53 North Front street where a short in a motor circulator caused considerable smoke.

The city of Venice, Italy, is built on about 120 small mud islands.

Late Bulletin

State police at press time today were investigating a report that the bodies of two persons were found in an automobile at Glenerie Lake Park.

The car had New Jersey registration plates but the identities of the persons were not established.

Sgt. Arthur Reilly of the state police BCI is conducting the investigation.

Fred Eisler . . .

area, and convinced Watson that he was right in his views.

ONE OF THE TREASURED documents in the Eisler files is a letter from his close friend, which was published in The Freeman, crediting him with instituting the movement that culminated in the IBM making a decision to plan the plant now under construction.

Men close to Eisler in commenting on his death, following a prolonged illness, stressed that he was unable to realize the dream he had of seeing the industry flourishing with jobs for several thousand in this area.

EISLER INVARIABLY pointed out to friends what a boon IBM was to Poughkeepsie, and said his chief ambition as a Kingston resident was to see a plant here. "This is a real happy realization" he said upon receiving Watson's letter announcing that his persistence had all to do with IBM moving to the Town of Ulster, adjacent to the City of Kingston.

The Watson-Eisler friendship went back to the days when both in their younger years attended many events in New York, where Eisler was a hotel executive.

EISLER was born in New York June 11, 1880, son of Felix and Christine Fink Eisler. He had been a resident of Kingston for 11 years since taking over the Stuyvesant Hotel property which he actively managed.

Eisler took an active interest in various sports including local baseball. He was an official timekeeper for the New York State Athletic Commission; a judge of the Adirondack Association AAU; a member of the Kenozia Lake Club and was interested in all sporting activities.

HE WAS A MEMBER of St. Joseph's Church; Kingston Rotary Club; a life member of New York Lodge, No. 1, BPO Elks; Wiltwyck Hose Company No. 1; Hotel Greeters of America; New York State Hotel Association and numerous other associations of hotelmen.

For 20 years he was senior assistant manager of the Hotel Waldorf and later became associated with M. J. Meeham Brokerage firm of New York city and was manager of the uptown office located in the Waldorf and later at the Hotel Biltmore. He was associated with the brokerage firm until 11 years ago when he came to Kingston after purchasing the Stuyvesant Hotel which he continued to manage over the past 11 years.

Surviving are his wife, Signe K. Johnson Eisler; a daughter, Mrs. DeWitt J. Manheimer of New York city; two sons, Fred J. Eisler, Jr., of Riverdale, and Michael J. Eisler of Lawton, Okla.; two grandchildren, Carol Manheimer and Michelle Eisler; one sister, Mrs. John A. Olsen of New York.

Friends may call at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Inc., 296 Fair street, Friday from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m. Funeral arrangements later.

Kipper is Salmon

A kipper is a male salmon at the approach of the breeding season when he develops a sharp beak, known as a "kip", but the name is also applied to herrings which are cured in the same way as true kippers.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The stock market advanced cautiously today with trading relatively light.

Although gains and losses spread over a range of between 1 and 2 points either way, most changes were in the small fractions.

Trading dwindled down to a pace less than yesterday's 2,760,000 shares.

Aircrafts were generally higher with Douglas well out in front after directors raised the dividend, declared an extra, and proposed a three-for-two split. It opened on a block of 2,500 shares up 4¾ at 128.

Volumes on Painting Given to Eisenhower

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower's cabinet today gave him a surprise gift—a set of books on the world's great paintings—to mark the start of his third year in office.

The President, who dabbles in painting, went to the cabinet room to attend the regular weekly meeting of the National Security Council and found White House staff members and top administration officials assembled there.

Vice President Nixon, noting that "this happens to be another birthday," told the President all administration officials "have been extremely proud of the opportunity to work with you" and to "be on your team."

Nixon then pushed across the cabinet table a big box wrapped with gold paper and tied with a large blue ribbon, containing an eight volume set of books entitled The Great Centuries of Painting.

Tests Arranged For 200 Nurses

The New York State Department of Civil Service will conduct examinations on March 19 to fill more than 200 vacancies as public health nurse in 39 counties, including Ulster, and nine cities.

Applications will be accepted up to Feb. 18 by the state Civil Service department in Albany. Forms may be obtained at the Ulster County Civil Service Commission office, 32 Main street, but must be filed with the state office.

New York state residence is not required, but preference in appointment will be given to residents of the jurisdictions in which vacancies exist. Minimum entrance salaries range from $2,600 to $3,770. Information as to the examination and qualifications may be obtained from Thomas Bohan, executive secretary of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission. Information on public health nursing as a career may be obtained from Miss Esther Schisa, director of public health nursing, Ulster County Health Department.

3 Crewmen Die As B26 Explodes

Bouckville, Jan. 20 (AP)—An air force B26, battling a heavy snowstorm, smashed into a wooded hillside near here early today and exploded in flames. All three crewmen aboard were killed.

The air force said the victims, who were en route from Turner Air Force Base at Albany, Ga., to Griffiss Air Force Base at Rome, N. Y., were:

Maj. Harold A. Carlson, S. Sgt. George H. Linton, the pilot, and S. Sgt. Joe D. Cherry. The home addresses were not given.

The twin-engined plane crashed at about 2 a. m. into a sparsely wooded area of scrub pine approximately 800 feet from a central New York highway and 50 miles south of its destination.

The air force began an investigation to determine the cause.

The B26 is a propellor-driven combat plane of World War 2 vintage.

Enlistments Are Cut Off

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 20 (AP)—The air force recruiting headquarters at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base said today new air force enlistments throughout the nation have been cut off until Feb. 1 because the January quota of 14,000 men has been reached.

Reds Release Louisiana Man

Berlin, Jan. 20 (AP)—Pvt. William A. Verdine of Starks, La., was released by the Russians in Berlin today after six years of Soviet captivity, including a long stretch in Vorkuta prison camp.

Verdine is the third American to come from Vorkuta this month. The Soviets, acceding to repeated requests, turned loose John H. Noble of Detroit, and Pvt. William Marchuk, of Norristown, Pa., on Jan. 8.

Verdine has been listed by the army as missing since 1949. He had been stationed with the 14th Armored Cavalry at Coburg in West Germany, not far from the American-Soviet zonal frontier.

THE SOLDIER WAS reported at various times in Russian prison camps by German and Austrian repatriates. Noble, on his release here, said Verdine was not in good health.

The army announced in mid-afternoon that Soviet authorities had turned Verdine over to U. S. liaison officials in the Russian headquarters in East Berlin.

The army added that Verdine is in military custody and will remain there during an inquiry into the circumstances of his disappearance. The soldier faces a possible court-martial for being away without official leave or perhaps desertion, unless he can prove that he blundered into the Soviet zone through no fault of his own.

IN THE MEANTIME, the soldier will be given a complete medical examination.

Noble and Marchuk reported having seen Verdine at Potma, a camp southeast of Moscow where prisoners were held prior to their release. They had passed through this camp on their way from Vorkuta to Berlin where they were turned over to U. S. authorities.

Former Premiere Dancer to Present Classes at YWCA

Miss Andrea Viviana of Saugerties, former premiere dancer at the Opera of Monte Carlo, Folies Bergere in Paris and the Ballet Russe, will present classes in dancing each Saturday afternoon at the YWCA, it was announced today.

Registration will be held from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. this Saturday at the YWCA.

Children three and a half years of age and older will be accepted, it was said.

Beginners and advanced pupils will be taught ballet, toe-tap, acrobatic, modern and social dancing, adagio and character dancing, Miss Viviana said. Both boys and girls will be admitted to the classes.

Miss Viviana explained that in order to give the children an opportunity to develop "superb physiques, posture grace and rhythm" she would offer two-hour classes to all students taking a series of eight lessons.

Ballet exercises will be taught in French and Spanish.

Miss Viviana received her diploma from the French government and studied at the Grand Opera of Paris. In addition to her appearance as premiere dancer at the Opera of Monte Carlo, the Ballet Russe and Folies Bergere, she also performed at the Moulin Rouge and with the late famous Anna Pavlowa and was for seven years with the Opera of Buenos Aires, Argentina.

She has also had some years of experience in vaudeville and night club entertaining.

Two Are Missing

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The White House said today Sen. and Mrs. Joseph R. McCarthy, missing from the White House dinners this week, were not invited because of a "decision by the President and Mrs. Eisenhower." McCarthy, chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committe during the 83rd Republican-run Congress, was the only chairman of a Senate committee during that Congress who was not invited to one of the two functions. On Dec. 7, McCarthy assailed Eisenhower for what he termed a "shrinking show of weakness" toward communism and apologized for asking voters to support Eisenhower in 1952.

De Grazia's Body Is Not Recovered

Valhalla, Jan. 20 (AP)—Police failed yesterday to recover from Kensico reservoir the body of Joseph De Grazia, 18, of Pleasantville, who apparently drowned trying to save his girl friend.

The search in the Kensico reservoir for the youth's body will continue indefinitely, police said.

The girl, Patricia Maxwell, 17, also of Pleasantville, was pulled from the water by police. A second youth who had been with De Grazia and the girl had summoned officers.

Police said the girl told them she went to the edge of the reservoir to throw an engagement ring into the water, and fell in. Police said, however, they had not learned why the girl's shoes and coat were found on the edge of the reservoir.

De Grazia, police said, apparently jumped in to try to bring the girl out of the water. She was able to swim back to the edge but he sank. Water in the reservoir is up to 250 feet deep.

The girl was taken to Grasslands Hospital where she was reported suffering from shock and exposure.

Grass and Brush Fires Reported

A grass fire threatened buildings in the city today and a brush fire along the Rosendale road gave firemen a stubborn fight.

Both fires were spread by wind, and firemen from Central station, called at about 10:27 a. m., for the grass fire near 148 Third avenue, used hydrant streams on the blaze. It threatened to spread toward buildings in the area.

THE BLOOMINGTON fire department checked the brush fire on the Rosendale road about a quarter of a mile south of the Wallkill Valley crossing, and near the scene of another stubborn brush fire yesterday afternoon.

C. F. Doty, first assistant chief, of the Bloomington department, said the fire today appeared to have started back of a house. It spread in a line along a ridge and down into a valley for some distance before it was quenched. About 12 men used booster and Indian pumps and brooms on the blaze, he said.

Men and equipment from Wiltwyck station answered a call at 5:09 p. m., yesterday to 53 North Front street where a short in a motor circulator caused considerable smoke.

The city of Venice, Italy, is built on about 120 small mud islands.

Late Bulletin

State police at press time today were investigating a report that the bodies of two persons were found in an automobile at Glenerie Lake Park.

The car had New Jersey registration plates but the identities of the persons were not established.

Sgt. Arthur Reilly of the state police BCI is conducting the investigation.

Fred Eisler . . .

area, and convinced Watson that he was right in his views.

ONE OF THE TREASURED documents in the Eisler files is a letter from his close friend, which was published in The Freeman, crediting him with instituting the movement that culminated in the IBM making a decision to plan the plant now under construction.

Men close to Eisler in commenting on his death, following a prolonged illness, stressed that he was unable to realize the dream he had of seeing the industry flourishing with jobs for several thousand in this area.

EISLER INVARIABLY pointed out to friends what a boon IBM was to Poughkeepsie, and said his chief ambition as a Kingston resident was to see a plant here. "This is a real happy realization" he said upon receiving Watson's letter announcing that his persistence had all to do with IBM moving to the Town of Ulster, adjacent to the City of Kingston.

The Watson-Eisler friendship went back to the days when both in their younger years attended many events in New York, where Eisler was a hotel executive.

EISLER was born in New York June 11, 1880, son of Felix and Christine Fink Eisler. He had been a resident of Kingston for 11 years since taking over the Stuyvesant Hotel property which he actively managed.

Eisler took an active interest in various sports including local baseball. He was an official timekeeper for the New York State Athletic Commission; a judge of the Adirondack Association AAU; a member of the Kenozia Lake Club and was interested in all sporting activities.

HE WAS A MEMBER of St. Joseph's Church; Kingston Rotary Club; a life member of New York Lodge, No. 1, BPO Elks; Wiltwyck Hose Company No. 1; Hotel Greeters of America; New York State Hotel Association and numerous other associations of hotelmen.

For 20 years he was senior assistant manager of the Hotel Waldorf and later became associated with M. J. Meeham Brokerage firm of New York city and was manager of the uptown office located in the Waldorf and later at the Hotel Biltmore. He was associated with the brokerage firm until 11 years ago when he came to Kingston after purchasing the Stuyvesant Hotel which he continued to manage over the past 11 years.

Surviving are his wife, Signe K. Johnson Eisler; a daughter, Mrs. DeWitt J. Manheimer of New York city; two sons, Fred J. Eisler, Jr., of Riverdale, and Michael J. Eisler of Lawton, Okla.; two grandchildren, Carol Manheimer and Michelle Eisler; one sister, Mrs. John A. Olsen of New York.

Friends may call at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Inc., 296 Fair street, Friday from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m. Funeral arrangements later.

Kipper is Salmon

A kipper is a male salmon at the approach of the breeding season when he develops a sharp beak, known as a "kip", but the name is also applied to herrings which are cured in the same way as true kippers.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The stock market advanced cautiously today with trading relatively light.

Although gains and losses spread over a range of between 1 and 2 points either way, most changes were in the small fractions.

Trading dwindled down to a pace less than yesterday's 2,760,000 shares.

Aircrafts were generally higher with Douglas well out in front after directors raised the dividend, declared an extra, and proposed a three-for-two split. It opened on a block of 2,500 shares up 4 3/4 at 128.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 63 Wall street, New York city; branch office 41 John street. R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

A regular meeting of Charles DeWitt Council, 91, JOUAM, will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at Mechanics' Hall, 14 Henry street.

Volumes on Painting Given to Eisenhower

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower's cabinet today gave him a surprise gift—a set of books on the world's great paintings—to mark the start of his third year in office.

The President, who dabbles in painting, went to the cabinet room to attend the regular weekly meeting of the National Security Council and found White House staff members and top administration officials assembled there.

Vice President Nixon, noting that "this happens to be another birthday," told the President all administration officials "have been extremely proud of the opportunity to work with you" and to "be on your team."

Nixon then pushed across the cabinet table a big box wrapped with gold paper and tied with a large blue ribbon, containing an eight volume set of books entitled The Great Centuries of Painting.

Tests Arranged For 200 Nurses

The New York State Department of Civil Service will conduct examinations on March 19 to fill more than 200 vacancies as public health nurse in 39 counties, including Ulster, and nine cities.

Applications will be accepted up to Feb. 18 by the state Civil Service department in Albany. Forms may be obtained at the Ulster County Civil Service Commission office, 32 Main street, but must be filed with the state office.

New York state residence is not required, but preference in appointment will be given to residents of the jurisdictions in which vacancies exist. Minimum entrance salaries range from $2,600 to $3,770. Information as to the examination and qualifications may be obtained from Thomas Bohan, executive secretary of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission. Information on public health nursing as a career may be obtained from Miss Esther Schisa, director of public health nursing, Ulster County Health Department.

3 Crewmen Die As B26 Explodes

Bouckville, Jan. 20 (AP)—An air force B26, battling a heavy snowstorm, smashed into a wooded hillside near here early today and exploded in flames. All three crewmen aboard were killed.

The air force said the victims, who were en route from Turner Air Force Base at Albany, Ga., to Griffiss Air Force Base at Rome, N. Y., were:

Maj. Harold A. Carlson, S. Sgt. George H. Linton, the pilot, and S. Sgt. Joe D. Cherry. The home addresses were not given.

The twin-engined plane crashed at about 2 a. m. into a sparsely wooded area of scrub pine approximately 800 feet from a central New York highway and 50 miles south of its destination.

The air force began an investigation to determine the cause.

The B26 is a propellor-driven combat plane of World War 2 vintage.

Enlistments Are Cut Off

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 20 (AP)—The air force recruiting headquarters at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base said today new air force enlistments throughout the nation have been cut off until Feb. 1 because the January quota of 14,000 men has been reached.

Reds Release Louisiana Man

Berlin, Jan. 20 (AP)—Pvt. William A. Verdine of Starks, La., was released by the Russians in Berlin today after six years of Soviet captivity, including a long stretch in Vorkuta prison camp.

Verdine is the third American to come from Vorkuta this month. The Soviets, acceding to repeated requests, turned loose John H. Noble of Detroit, and Pvt. William Marchuk, of Norristown, Pa., on Jan. 8.

Verdine has been listed by the army as missing since 1949. He had been stationed with the 14th Armored Cavalry at Coburg in West Germany, not far from the American-Soviet zonal frontier.

THE SOLDIER WAS reported at various times in Russian prison camps by German and Austrian repatriates. Noble, on his release here, said Verdine was not in good health.

The army announced in midafternoon that Soviet authorities had turned Verdine over to U. S. liaison officials in the Russian headquarters in East Berlin.

The army added that Verdine is in military custody and will remain there during an inquiry into the circumstances of his disappearance. The soldier faces a possible court-martial for being away without official leave or perhaps desertion, unless he can prove that he blundered into the Soviet zone through no fault of his own.

IN THE MEANTIME, the soldier will be given a complete medical examination.

Noble and Marchuk reported having seen Verdine at Potma, a camp southeast of Moscow where prisoners were held prior to their release. They had passed through this camp on their way from Vorkuta to Berlin where they were turned over to U. S. authorities.

Former Premiere Dancer to Present Classes at YWCA

Miss Andrea Viviana of Saugerties, former premiere dancer at the Opera of Monte Carlo, Folies Bergere in Paris and the Ballet Russe, will present classes in dancing each Saturday afternoon at the YWCA, it was announced today.

Registration will be held from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. this Saturday at the YWCA.

Children three and a half years of age and older will be accepted, it was said.

Beginners and advanced pupils will be taught ballet, toe-tap, acrobatic, modern and social dancing, adagio and character dancing, Miss Viviana said. Both boys and girls will be admitted to the classes.

Miss Viviana explained that in order to give the children an opportunity to develop "superb physiques, posture grace and rhythm" she would offer two-hour classes to all students taking a series of eight lessons.

Ballet exercises will be taught in French and Spanish.

Miss Viviana received her diploma from the French government and studied at the Grand Opera of Paris. In addition to her appearance as premiere dancer at the Opera of Monte Carlo, the Ballet Russe and Folies Bergere, she also performed at the Moulin Rouge and with the late famous Anna Pavlowa and was for seven years with the Opera of Buenos Aires, Argentina.

She has also had some years of experience in vaudeville and night club entertaining.

Fast Animal

The hunting leopard, or cheetah, large cat inhabiting the plains of Asia and Africa, is the world's fastest known animal over short distances.

Two Are Missing

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The White House said today Sen. and Mrs. Joseph R. McCarthy, missing from the White House dinners this week, were not invited because of a "decision by the President and Mrs. Eisenhower." McCarthy, chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committe during the 83rd Republican-run Congress, was the only chairman of a Senate committee during that Congress who was not invited to one of the two functions. On Dec. 7, McCarthy assailed Eisenhower for what he termed a "shrinking show of weakness" toward communism and apologized for asking voters to support Eisenhower in 1952.

CHALLENGED — Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield's experiment in shipping three-cent, first-class mail by air has got him in hot water with the nation's railroads and now a congressional group has accused him of "gross deception" in his economy claims for the project. Summerfield said it is saving the government $154,000 a year. Not so, says a staff report of the Senate Appropriations Committee. The program is actually losing at least $100,000 a year, they claim.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Perhaps winters have changed as some of the old timers tell. I am afraid there would be very little ice harvesting in our recent winters. It is a good thing that they make artificial ice now. Years back, ice harvesting gave work to many boatmen who were laid off in the winter so that a man could work winter and summer. There was no slack season around here. The boat industry took care of those who wished to work in the warm months and the ice harvesting in the winter months and both jobs produced enormous appetites. There were mammoth ice houses all along the Hudson river in those days and as the business dropped in years to come, one by one they burned to the ground. Leafing through Picturesque Ulster, pages 98 and 99 there are a number of excellent pictures of ice harvesting on the Hudson and creek but no description about it. They used horses to clear the ice fields and ploughing of ice. They show the equipment by which they marked the ice and also sawed out a field. There also is a photo of an ice elevator and the ice going up and the ice house. Everything looked so frozen but the men seem cheerful as they feed and cut ice to the elevator. Their work clothes are not much different than their everyday clothes. It seems it was the days before lumber jackets, plaid short coats. Most men wore three quarter length coats fitted like a business suit. Shows how men's styles have changed.

Many of the hotels along the creek like Carl G. Fischer's used to cash the checks of the ice workers so when they would step on the shore they would be heading for Fischer's place on the Strand. They had good hot meals and good wines and very reasonable and plenty to eat for hard workingmen. If Carl Fischer or his mother, who ran the hotel and restaurant, saw that a man finished what he had on his plate and looked like he could eat more, he got it without asking for it. Amzie Ormerod's restaurant on the Strand also was a good eating place. In fact, it was known to serve the best 25-cent meal in the city. I ate in both places with my father when I was a very little girl and never could make up my mind which place I liked better. Those were the days before blue plates when everything is dumped on one plate. There were many oval dishes and in each was something good and not getting mixed up with other foods. Luckily as a little girl I had a good appetite for I made the best of all these places. I never had to be coaxed to eat.

Horse and wagons played a part in every industry, social and political life. Even in welfare work, at the time, Tom Edmonston, the superintendent of the City Alms House, used to deliver food to needy families in a horse and wagon. Now they get checks. Those days the city not only gave out the food themselves to see that large families especially got good nourishing food on the table but also insisted that all able-bodied men had to work out at the alms house for it by either splitting wood or other city farm work there. For this they and their families were supplied the necessary food and clothing. They kept a very close check on the families' needs and gave accordingly. It is even printed in one of the old papers that workers were paid 50 cents a day to work on the Alms House building when in construction.

China-Shop Bull

Concord, N. H. (AP)—Police Officer Joseph Jolin "threw the bull" in a half-hour set-to with a wandering bovine. Investigating complaints a bull was blocking traffic on busy U. S. Route 3, Jolin said the animal appeared to be directing traffic. After a 30-minute marathon around a nearby hill, the officer managed to snap a chain to a strap around the bull's neck and return it to owner John Lovell. At the time of the "arrest," the bull was standing in the yard of an antique shop which, the officer noted, contained much old china.

The last U. S. yellow fever epidemic was in New Orleans in 1905, says the World Health Organization.

'Said the Walrus—'

Fairbanks, Alaska (AP)—Seal-hunting Eskimos at Point Barrow on the northern tip of North America have been having walrus trouble. An Eskimo correspondent of the Fairbanks News-Miner reported it this way: "Today Ernest Kignak and few others saw a walrus. Day after day men would go out and most every man would come home empty. Walrus is an enemy to seals, that's why the seals don't hang around, no matter how good the ice could be. The people here wish to see this walrus go away or be killed. A very same thing had happened to this village one time in 1939. People would be short of seals then, too."

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

It seems to the Ruminator that we have reached an interesting juncture in what might be termed "crowd psychology."

It is reminiscent of late 1928 and early 1929 (and other periods in our historical "booms").

What I refer to is the "magnetism" of accumulative news—if I may use 50-cent words. A magnet in this sense is something that attracts attention and interest — that creates opinions and mental images.

WHAT I THINK I see developing in people's minds is a confidence that a slump or a depression is no longer to be feared. The idea has got around, you might say, that the Government can prevent slumps and depressions.

What I mean by "acuumulative news" is the repetition of "good news" which greets us in our newspapers and magazines. We are told over and over again that good times lie ahead—that the next 10 years are to be the greatest "growth period" in our history, and so on. Any idea of a depression or of an economic crisis is pooh-poohed. Any suggestion that there might ever be another collapse in Wall Street, such as occurred in 1929-1932, is brushed aside as being fantastic. It just "won't happen again" they say.

I CONFESS the magnetism of this appealing idea—that everything will continue to be hunky-dory for ever—is beginning to get me, too! I find it difficult to be "contrary." Yet, when I turn to history I note that it "was always thus" when the crests of booms were reached.

What happens to our minds seems to be this: We evaluate conditions and look ahead on the basis of what is happening in the present. That is, as things are now, so they will continue to be. Inasmuch as everything is booming along in good fashion now, there is no reason to expect a change. And yet, of course, we know way down inside that change is the one thing that should be expected.

We might turn somewhat cynical and take an example from the sociopolitical situation.

CERTAINLY, EVERYBODY—Republicans and Democrats alike—expected great changes when this nation switched from a Democratic administration to a Republican group in power.

Yet, those who have read the recent messages to the Congress—especially the State of the Union Message — must admit (ruefully or gleefully, depending upon your viewpoint) that the Republican theory of government has indeed veered far over toward the ideas of the New and Fair Deals. There would appear to be little in the way of "change" in respect to socio-economic affairs. (Perhaps it may sound boastful, but the Ruminator would like to remind you that one of the "contrary opinions" often mentioned in these pieces was that you need not expect any lasting turn "to the right"—that the trend toward liberalism was well established and was unlikely to be reversed.)

So here is an example of a change which was expected—but the change has come in a direction contrary to "what everybody thought."

As much as the Ruminator would like to join the chorus of those who say that no slump is possible—and that the boom will continue indefinitely—he thinks it is more prudent to rely on The Theory of Contrary Opinion and to hold in doubt the popular notion that at long last a way has been discovered to eradicate slumps from the capitalistic system.

IF YOU WILL GET out your old school books on economics you'll find that the basic foundation of capitalism is the free movement of capital and of the proven law of Demand and Supply. Only by dictatorial controls can these natural forces of the economic cycle be erased. They can be altered and postponed in their effects by monetary manipulations (such as inflation), but it is an illusion of wishful-thinking to expect that corrections in the old-fashioned boom-and-bust cycle have been completely eliminated.

It would therefore seem prudent to look upon the prevailing sentiment with at least some "mental questioning." That is, instead of accepting everything we read as being accurate and dependable to remember that commentators are naturally influenced by the current state of affairs.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that the news-of-the-moment is "magnetic." It has great attraction because we all much prefer to read and think that "everything is going to be all right forever," but that is not the policy which avoids disappointments and losses when things change and a turn downward occurs.

As a general rule, we might remember that the "crowd" is always the most enthusiastic and optimistic when it should be cautious and careful; and it is fearful when it should be bold. The enemies to clear thinking are imitation and contagion. If we can master them, and do our own thinking—which so often means thinking contrarily—we shall side-step the trapholes waiting to trip us up.

Dividend Declared

The board of directors of American Airlines Inc., today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $.875 per share on the corporation's $3.50 cumulative convertible preferred stock payable March 1, to stockholders of record at the close of business February 15.

When you want to Go -You're gonna Go!

No ifs, ands or buts about it.

When you give the gun to a 1955 Buick with Dynaflow Drive,* you move.

In the instant you push down the pedal, you get the action you've called for—immediate getaway from a standing start, or immediate safety-surge out of a tight spot on the highway.

It's not magic, this thrilling and pulse-quickening response—though it feels like the closest thing to it.

It's a principle of the modern airplane, brought for the first time to an automotive transmission.

Twenty "variable pitch propellers" inside the Dynaflow unit itself can change their angle—like the propeller of the airliner can change its pitch from take-off position to cruising position.

And what this brings to you—at the wheel of a '55 Buick—is the nearest thing to flight on wheels. Far better gas mileage in your normal driving and cruising. Spectacular response when you want it for quick getaway or emergency acceleration.

But all this, mind you, with the absolute smoothness that is constant in Dynaflow Drive.

Surely, a demonstration of Variable Pitch Dynaflow is a Buick must this year. We'll be happy to do the honors—and show you, in the doing, what a whale of a buy you make here. Drop in this week, won't you?

*Dynaflow Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Thrill of the year is Buick

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

It seems to the Ruminator that we have reached an interesting juncture in what might be termed "crowd psychology."

It is reminiscent of late 1928 and early 1929 (and other periods in our historical "booms").

What I refer to is the "magnetism" of accumulative news—if I may use 50-cent words. A magnet in this sense is something that attracts attention and interest — that creates opinions and mental images.

WHAT I THINK I see developing in people's minds is a confidence that a slump or a depression is no longer to be feared. The idea has got around, you might say, that the Government can prevent slumps and depressions.

What I mean by "acuumulative news" is the repetition of "good news" which greets us in our newspapers and magazines. We are told over and over again that good times lie ahead—that the next 10 years are to be the greatest "growth period" in our history, and so on. Any idea of a depression or of an economic crisis is pooh-poohed. Any suggestion that there might ever be another collapse in Wall Street, such as occurred in 1929-1932, is brushed aside as being fantastic. It just "won't happen again" they say.

I CONFESS the magnetism of this appealing idea—that everything will continue to be hunky-dory for ever—is beginning to get me, too! I find it difficult to be "contrary." Yet, when I turn to history I note that it "was always thus" when the crests of booms were reached.

What happens to our minds seems to be this: We evaluate conditions and look ahead on the basis of what is happening in the present. That is, as things are now, so they will continue to be. Inasmuch as everything is booming along in good fashion now, there is no reason to expect a change. And yet, of course, we know way down inside that change is the one thing that should be expected.

We might turn somewhat cynical and take an example from the sociopolitical situation.

CERTAINLY, EVERYBODY—Republicans and Democrats alike—expected great changes when this nation switched from a Democratic administration to a Republican group in power.

Yet, those who have read the recent messages to the Congress—especially the State of the Union Message — must admit (ruefully or gleefully, depending upon your viewpoint) that the Republican theory of government has indeed veered far over toward the ideas of the New and Fair Deals. There would appear to be little in the way of "change" in respect to socio-economic affairs. (Perhaps it may sound boastful, but the Ruminator would like to remind you that one of the "contrary opinions" often mentioned in these pieces was that you need not expect any lasting turn "to the right"—that the trend toward liberalism was well established and was unlikely to be reversed.)

So here is an example of a change which was expected—but the change has come in a direction contrary to "what everybody thought."

As much as the Ruminator would like to join the chorus of those who say that no slump is possible—and that the boom will continue indefinitely—he thinks it is more prudent to rely on The Theory of Contrary Opinion and to hold in doubt the popular notion that at long last a way has been discovered to eradicate slumps from the capitalistic system.

IF YOU WILL GET out your old school books on economics you'll find that the basic foundation of capitalism is the free movement of capital and of the proven law of Demand and Supply. Only by dictatorial controls can these natural forces of the economic cycle be erased. They can be altered and postponed in their effects by monetary manipulations (such as inflation), but it is an illusion of wishful-thinking to expect that corrections in the old-fashioned boom-and-bust cycle have been completely eliminated.

It would therefore seem prudent to look upon the prevailing sentiment with at least some "mental questioning." That is, instead of accepting everything we read as being accurate and dependable to remember that commentators are naturally influenced by the current state of affairs.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that the news-of-the-moment is "magnetic." It has great attraction because we all much prefer to read and think that "everything is going to be all right forever," but that is not the policy which avoids disappointments and losses when things change and a turn downward occurs.

As a general rule, we might remember that the "crowd" is always the most enthusiastic and optimistic when it should be cautious and careful; and it is fearful when it should be bold. The enemies to clear thinking are imitation and contagion. If we can master them, and do our own thinking—which so often means thinking contrarily—we shall side-step the trapholes waiting to trip us up.

When you want to Go
-You're gonna Go!

No ifs, ands or buts about it.

When you give the gun to a 1955 Buick with Dynaflow Drive,* you move.

In the instant you push down the pedal, you get the action you've called for—immediate getaway from a standing start, or immediate safety-surge out of a tight spot on the highway.

It's not magic, this thrilling and pulse-quickening response—though it feels like the closest thing to it.

It's a principle of the modern airplane, brought for the first time to an automotive transmission.

Twenty "variable pitch propellers" inside the Dynaflow unit itself can change their angle—like the propeller of the airliner can change its pitch from take-off position to cruising position.

And what this brings to you—at the wheel of a '55 Buick—is the nearest thing to flight on wheels. Far better gas mileage in your normal driving and cruising. Spectacular response when you want it for quick getaway or emergency acceleration.

But all this, mind you, with the absolute smoothness that is constant in Dynaflow Drive.

Surely, a demonstration of Variable Pitch Dynaflow is a Buick must this year. We'll be happy to do the honors—and show you, in the doing, what a whale of a buy you make here. Drop in this week, won't you?

*Dynaflow Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

"SURFACE MAIL BY AIR" SPARKS FIGHT—The Post Office Department's current experiments in shipping three-cent first-class mail by air has the railroads in a dither. Five western roads are spearheading a rail industry court fight against airlines "invasion" of their rail revenues. Map above shows how the original 1953 links between New York, Chicago and Washington have been expanded to cover most of the country. In addition to the railroads' attack on the Post Office Department, a Senate Appropriations Committee staff report accused Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield of gross deception in his economy claims for the three-cent air delivery. Summerfield said that the experiment is saving the government $154,000 a year. The staff report charges the program is actually losing $100,000 a year.

Social Security Change Explained

George J. Johnson, district manager of the Kingston Social Security Administration District office, submits the following article on new provisions of the law:

If you are one of the more than 5,000 persons in Ulster county and 2,000 persons in Sullivan county receiving monthly old-age and survivors insurance payments, you need to know about the change in the law effective January 1, 1955, regarding the amount you can earn and still get social security payments.

WE WISH TO POINT out that beginning January 1, 1955, you can earn as much as $1,200 in a year and still accept your benefit check for each month of the year. If you earn more than $1,200 a year, from any type of work whether or not covered by social security, benefits for some months of that year are not payable. After you are 72 years of age, you may accept the benefit check for each month regardless of the amount of your earnings.

If you expect to earn more than $1,200 in 1955, or in the taxable year beginning in 1955, you should notify the Social Security Administration. A post card form for you to use in sending in such notice was mailed before the end of 1954 to everyone now receiving benefits. Your benefits will be stopped while you are working and payments started again when you have stopped working.

IF YOUR EARNINGS in covered or non-covered employment or the two combined amount to over $1,200 in 1955 you will lose at least one month's benefits. If your combined earnings are over $2080.00 you will lose all of your benefits if you are under 72 years of age. This applies not only to retired wage earners but their wives, widows, children, dependent husbands, widowers, and parents.

We have an excellent booklet entitled, "Earnings While Receiving Payment" which we will be only too glad to furnish upon request.

If you are not sure whether you should make a report, or if you need more information, get in touch with your social security district office located in the Central Post Office Building, Kingston, N. Y. Telephone Kingston 532.

Scouting Advances In Two Counties Reports Reveal

The "game and partnership" of Scouting, which celebrates its 45th birthday on February 8, has shown remarkable progress in Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, covering Ulster and Greene counties, during the past five years, according to figures released by George V. Dennis, council executive.

A striking increase of almost 600 boys is noted—from 998 in 1950 to 1,573 as of January 1 this year. The number of troops increased from 47 to 63.

THE NUMBER of Explorers (boys from 14 to 18) in Explorer posts has also grown—from 52 five years ago to 91 as of January 1. There are seven Explorer posts in the council.

Many explorers, however, who do not have a post in their neighborhood affiliate with a troop instead. As of January 1 there were 328 Explorers participating in Scouting as members of council troops.

The number of troops in Kingston District of the council has increased during the past five years from 15 to 19 although troop membership remained fairly stationary. On December 31, 1950, there were 428 Scouts and Explorers registered in the district. This registration showed small decreases during the next three years but during the first 10 months of 1954 has shown marked growth. The registration is now 492.

THERE ARE TWO Explorer posts in the district with 22 members.

A "good turn" by an unidentified Boy Scout in 1909 to an American businessman who had lost his way in a London fog, led to the incorporation of the Boy Scouts of America in Washington, D. C., 45 years ago on Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The late William D. Boyce, Chicago publisher, was so impressed with the helpfulness of the British Boy Scout, who declined his tip for the good turn, that he accompanied the Scout to the office of Sir (later Lord) Robert Baden-Powell, founder of Scouting, learned about the program and brought a trunkful of pamphlets to America. Later, he incorporated the organization.

On June 21, 1910, a group of men representing 34 national groups interested in youth, started developing the organization and opened a temporary office in New York.

FROM THAT modest beginning the Boy Scouts of America has grown in 45 years until now it has an active enrollment of more than 3,660,000 boys and adult leaders. Since 1910 more than 22,750,000 American boys and men have subscribed to the Scout oath and law.

The Scouts placed their full resources at the service of the government in 1917 when this country entered World War 1. Then began a tremendous demonstration of boy-power, trained and organized for service. Scouts sold 2,350,977 Liberty Loan Bonds totaling $147,876,962; War Stamps to a value of $53,043,698; located 20,758,660 board feet of walnut and the equivalent of a hundred carloads of fruit pits used in gas masks. More than 30 million pieces of government literature were distributed.

The first world Scout jamboree was held in England in July, 1920, attracting Scouts from 37 countries including 301 Scouts and 55 adult leaders from the United States.

THE SECOND WORLD jamboree in 1924 brought together 6,000 Scouts in a camp outside Copenhagen, Denmark, with 56 Scouts from the United States. The third jamboree marked the "coming of age" of Scouting in 1929. It was the largest encampment held to date with 50,000 Scouts at Birkenhead, England, with 1,300 Scouts and leaders from the United States.

A big Scout adventure came in 1927 when eight Chicago Sea Scouts sailed with the Borden-Field Museum Arctic Expedition, north of Bering Sea. The following year Commander Byrd took a Sea Scout, Paul A. Siple of Erie, Pa., on his first Antarctic expedition and also in 1928 three Eagle Scouts accompanied the Martin Johnsons on a safari in Africa.

Scouts rendered outstanding service in relief work throughout the depression. The radio call from President Roosevelt on February 10, 1934, for a "national good turn" resulted in the collection of 1,812,284 items of clothing, household furnishings, food stuffs and other supplies for the needy and distressed.

AT THE INVITATION of President Roosevelt, the Boy Scouts of America held its first national jamboree in Washington, D. C., in the summer of 1937 with 27,232 Scouts and leaders camping on both banks of the Potomac river. From this camp an American contingent of 814 Scouts and leaders went to Vogelenzang, the Netherlands, for the fifth world jamboree.

In 1940 the Emergency Service Corps plan was adopted for older Scouts. Methods of mobilizing senior Scouts to render aid in times of disasters, and severe storms, were developed. The entire resources of the Boy Scouts of America were placed at the service of the government with the declaration of war. Boy Scouts in Honolulu and Pearl Harbor rendered valiant services immediately following the Pearl Harbor attack.

It is estimated that more than four million men in the armed forces were once Boy Scouts or leaders.

THE SIXTH WORLD jamboree, first since 1937, brought together 32,000 Scouts from 38 countries in France in the summer of 1947 with the United States contingent including 1,151 Scouts and leaders.

Expanded development at Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimarron, N. M., made possible new leadership training possibilities. The ranch now attracts more than 10,000 Explorers each summer from all parts of the nation for wilderness camping.

The three-year program, Forward on Liberty's Team, was launched in 1952. That year Boy Scouts distributed more than a million posters and 30 million Liberty Bell doorknob posters in the get-out-the-vote campaign which saw a record turnout of more than 60 million voters.

IN DESCRIBING Scouting as a "game and a partnership" Dennis pointed out that the organization was a "ready and eager partner in every community effort to build boys into men of character and train them for their citizenship responsibilities."

"These things are accomplished in partnership with the home, the school, the church and other institutions which accept responsibility for the proper guidance and education of the boys and young men of the community."

Dennis explained that every Scouting unit must be sponsored by an established institution such as a school, church or synagogue, civic group, farm, labor or business organization, or by a responsible group of citizens representative of the community as a whole.

TODAY MORE than 80,000 units in the nation are sponsored by such institutions which have adopted the Scout program as an integral part of their own program of youth training.

Dennis also points out that Scouting is "fun," outdoor adventure, fellowship—in one word, a "game."

Boys become Scouts because they like to hike, to camp, to play, to learn how to do things. They like to belong to a "gang," which in Scouting is the patrol. They like Scouting, too, because it's a man's life cut down to boy size, because they themselves are men in the making and are anxious to "grow up."

SCOUTING IS also a game from the adult point of view—a game with a purpose. The purpose is to prepare boys for manhood. Scouting gives a boy:

Healthful outdoor adventure—camping, exploring, sports, woodcraft and a feeling of kinship with the pioneer and Indian scouts who led the way into the wilderness.

Fellowship and teamwork—as a member of his own patrol, a clean and lively group of boys playing and working together.

Knowledge and skill—ability to find his way in open country, to set up shelter, build a campfire, find food and do many other things that develop self-reliance. He also acquires the ability to help others in emergencies.

A CODE OF HONOR—the Scout oath or promise, by which a boy affirms his duty to God and his country, his obligation to help other people and his aim to keep himself physically, mentally and morally fit.

Any established community institution may adopt all or part of the whole Scout family: A pack for Cub Scouts, eight through 10; a troop for Boy Scouts, 11 through 13, and for Explorers 14 and older, and a separate Explorer post, Sea Explorer Ship or Air Explorer Squadron.

Dennis said the local council stands ready to assist any institution that desires to adopt a phase of the Scouting program or add to its present Scout units.

CUB SCOUTING adopts the home as the base of activity, the family as the unit of membership. Parents must participate in order to insure a successful program.

When he joins the Scout troop the boy finds a new road to fun and adventure. Hiking and camping are fun in themselves, but the boy also learns much about the world he lives in. The games and stunts and projects at troop meetings can be fun too and they also have underlying educational values.

For young men of high school age Exploring offers an advanced program of outdoor adventure, service and social activities and vocational exploration. The Explorer crew is definitely a young man's democratic organization which plans and carries out its own activities with an adult adviser on the sidelines to give counsel when needed.

Crosby Has Restful Night

Hollywood, Jan. 20 (AP)—Bing Crosby spent a restful night recuperating from surgery for removal of a kidney stone, Paramount Studio reported today. Dr. Frederick G. Schlumberger said after the operation yesterday that the 50-year-old crooner was in splendid physical condition and no difficulties were encountered or are anticipated. He is in St. John's Hospital in nearby Santa Monica. Crosby had been under treatment for the malady for about a year. In 1951 he underwent surgery for removal of similar kidney stone.

Scouting Advances In Two Counties Reports Reveal

The "game and partnership" of Scouting, which celebrates its 45th birthday on February 8, has shown remarkable progress in Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, covering Ulster and Greene counties, during the past five years, according to figures released by George V. Dennis, council executive.

A striking increase of almost 600 boys is noted—from 998 in 1950 to 1,573 as of January 1 this year. The number of troops increased from 47 to 63.

THE NUMBER of Explorers (boys from 14 to 18) in Explorer posts has also grown—from 52 five years ago to 91 as of January 1. There are seven Explorer posts in the council.

Many explorers, however, who do not have a post in their neighborhood affiliate with a troop instead. As of January 1 there were 328 Explorers participating in Scouting as members of council troops.

The number of troops in Kingston District of the council has increased during the past five years from 15 to 19 although troop membership remained fairly stationary. On December 31, 1950, there were 428 Scouts and Explorers registered in the district. This registration showed small decreases during the next three years but during the first 10 months of 1954 has shown marked growth. The registration is now 492.

THERE ARE TWO Explorer posts in the district with 22 members.

A "good turn" by an unidentified Boy Scout in 1909 to an American businessman who had lost his way in a London fog, led to the incorporation of the Boy Scouts of America in Washington, D. C., 45 years ago on Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The late William D. Boyce, Chicago publisher, was so impressed with the helpfulness of the British Boy Scout, who declined his tip for the good turn, that he accompanied the Scout to the office of Sir (later Lord) Robert Baden-Powell, founder of Scouting, learned about the program and brought a trunkful of pamphlets to America. Later, he incorporated the organization.

On June 21, 1910, a group of men representing 34 national groups interested in youth, started developing the organization and opened a temporary office in New York.

FROM THAT modest beginning the Boy Scouts of America has grown in 45 years until now it has an active enrollment of more than 3,660,000 boys and adult leaders. Since 1910 more than 22,750,000 American boys and men have subscribed to the Scout oath and law.

The Scouts placed their full resources at the service of the government in 1917 when this country entered World War 1. Then began a tremendous demonstration of boy-power, trained and organized for service. Scouts sold 2,350,977 Liberty Loan Bonds totaling $147,876,962; War Stamps to a value of $53,043,698; located 20,758,660 board feet of walnut and the equivalent of a hundred carloads of fruit pits used in gas masks. More than 30 million pieces of government literature were distributed.

The first world Scout jamboree was held in England in July, 1920, attracting Scouts from 37 countries including 301 Scouts and 55 adult leaders from the United States.

THE SECOND WORLD jamboree in 1924 brought together 6,000 Scouts in a camp outside Copenhagen, Denmark, with 56 Scouts from the United States. The third jamboree marked the "coming of age" of Scouting in 1929. It was the largest encampment held to date with 50,000 Scouts at Birkenhead, England, with 1,300 Scouts and leaders from the United States.

A big Scout adventure came in 1927 when eight Chicago Sea Scouts sailed with the Borden-Field Museum Arctic Expedition, north of Bering Sea. The following year Commander Byrd took a Sea Scout, Paul A. Siple of Erie, Pa., on his first Antarctic expedition and also in 1928 three Eagle Scouts accompanied the Martin Johnsons on a safari in Africa.

Scouts rendered outstanding service in relief work throughout the depression. The radio call from President Roosevelt on February 10, 1934, for a "national good turn" resulted in the collection of 1,812,284 items of clothing, household furnishings, food stuffs and other supplies for the needy and distressed.

AT THE INVITATION of President Roosevelt, the Boy Scouts of America held its first national jamboree in Washington, D. C., in the summer of 1937 with 27,232 Scouts and leaders camping on both banks of the Potomac river. From this camp an American contingent of 814 Scouts and leaders went to Vogelenzang, the Netherlands, for the fifth world jamboree.

In 1940 the Emergency Service Corps plan was adopted for older Scouts. Methods of mobilizing senior Scouts to render aid in times of disasters, and severe storms, were developed. The entire resources of the Boy Scouts of America were placed at the service of the government with the declaration of war. Boy Scouts in Honolulu and Pearl Harbor rendered valiant services immediately following the Pearl Harbor attack.

It is estimated that more than four million men in the armed forces were once Boy Scouts or leaders.

THE SIXTH WORLD jamboree, first since 1937, brought together 32,000 Scouts from 38 countries in France in the summer of 1947 with the United States contingent including 1,151 Scouts and leaders.

Expanded development at Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimarron, N. M., made possible new leadership training possibilities. The ranch now attracts more than 10,000 Explorers each summer from all parts of the nation for wilderness camping.

The three-year program, Forward on Liberty's Team, was launched in 1952. That year Boy Scouts distributed more than a million posters and 30 million Liberty Bell doorknob posters in the get-out-the-vote campaign which saw a record turnout of more than 60 million voters.

IN DESCRIBING Scouting as a "game and a partnership" Dennis pointed out that the organization was a "ready and eager partner in every community effort to build boys into men of character and train them for their citizenship responsibilities."

"These things are accomplished in partnership with the home, the school, the church and other institutions which accept responsibility for the proper guidance and education of the boys and young men of the community."

Dennis explained that every Scouting unit must be sponsored by an established institution such as a school, church or synagogue, civic group, farm, labor or business organization, or by a responsible group of citizens representative of the community as a whole.

TODAY MORE than 80,000 units in the nation are sponsored by such institutions which have adopted the Scout program as an integral part of their own program of youth training.

Dennis also points out that Scouting is "fun," outdoor adventure, fellowship—in one word, a "game."

Boys become Scouts because they like to hike, to camp, to play, to learn how to do things. They like to belong to a "gang," which in Scouting is the patrol. They like Scouting, too, because it's a man's life cut down to boy size, because they themselves are men in the making and are anxious to "grow up."

Like Bad Pennies?

Kalamazoo, Mich. (AP)—Four years ago, Sgt. Victor Wensloff of the Marines Sixth Regiment, lettered his name and serial number, 986441, on the waistbands of his winter clothing. When the regiment returned from the Mediterranean some time later, the winter issue was turned in. Now stationed at the marine recruiting station here, Wensloff opened a shipment of winter clothing he had ordered. There, neatly folded on the top of the first box, was a pair of long underdrawers. Printed across the waistband was: Sgt. Victor Wensloff, 9864441.

United Cancels Convair Flights

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP) — United Air Lines said today that "as a precautionary measure," it is "temporarily" cancelling flights of its 54 twin-engine, 44-passenger Convair airliners "until a mechanical inspection is made."

W. A. Patterson, UAL president, who made the announcement, said meanwhile the company's four-engine fleet, which represents 85 per cent of UAL's total operations, will continue without interruption.

The suspension of Convair flights followed a safe emergency landing made yesterday by one of United's Convair 340s with 36 passengers and three crew members on a field 37 miles west of Des Moines.

Case Is Settled In Supreme Court

Wednesday in Supreme Court the partially tried negligence action brought by Genevieve Heron and another against Waldermar Zahn was announced settled during the overnight recess. Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman appeared for plaintiffs and Turner and Murphy for defendant.

Another negligence action brought by Horace Mervine and another against Leonard M. Dessler and another, in which a jury had been selected, also was announced settled. Richter and Werbalowsky for plaintiff and Rosen and Rosen for defendants.

ON THE CALL of the day calender the following cases were also settled and there being no case ready for trial Justice Elsworth excused jurors until today and adjourned court:

No. 248, Max Millens and others against The Yorkshire Insurance Co., Ltd., an action on fire insurance policies. Abraham Streifer for plaintiffs and Richard F. Russell for defendants.

No. 249, Raymond M. Bonse against Hershey Beverage Corp., contract. Richter and Werbalowsky for plaintiff and Spira and Hershkowitz for defendants.

No. 247, Daniel Mandy against Feldsine and Co., Inc., and another, negligence. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Ainsworth and Sullivan for defendants.

No. 256, Robert Walter Schaller and others against William F. Harnen and others, negligence. Michael Nardone for plaintiffs and Abraham Streifer, Stanley B. Johnson and Cook and Cook for defendants.

Invents Slot Machine

Vienna, Jan. 20 (AP)—An Austrian has developed a slot machine to warm your feet on cold days. Vienna newspapers report the first of the machines is to be installed at a cable car station on 7,000-foot high Mt. Hafelekar near Innsbruck. You put a coin in the machine, stand on a platform and your feet are irradiated with ultra-short waves for 15 seconds. It gets the circulation going and that warms the feet, the newspapers said.

Dorcas Society Meets

The Dorcas Society of the Seventh Day Adventist Church held its first meeting of the year on Monday. Mrs. Donald Shampo, leader for 1955, opened the meeting with prayer. Plans were made for raising money to help the needy and a program was outlined for the first six months of the year. Persons who know anyone in real need of food or clothing are asked to contact Mrs. Shampo at 77 East Chester street or the Rev. Wilbur Brass, Esopus avenue.

Upgrading Pledged

Albany, Jan. 20 (AP)—Gov. Harriman said yesterday there will be provision in the 1955-56 budget for "upgrading" or some state jobs. A general pay increase has been ruled out.

Like Bad Pennies?

Kalamazoo, Mich. (AP)—Four years ago, Sgt. Victor Wensloff of the Marines Sixth Regiment, lettered his name and serial number, 986441, on the waistbands of his winter clothing. When the regiment returned from the Mediterranean some time later, the winter issue was turned in. Now stationed at the marine recruiting station here, Wensloff opened a shipment of winter clothing he had ordered. There, neatly folded on the top of the first box, was a pair of long underdrawers. Printed across the waistband was: Sgt. Victor Wensloff, 9864441.

United Cancels Convair Flights

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP) — United Air Lines said today that "as a precautionary measure," it is "temporarily" cancelling flights of its 54 twin-engine, 44-passenger Convair airliners "until a mechanical inspection is made."

W. A. Patterson, UAL president, who made the announcement, said meanwhile the company's four-engine fleet, which represents 85 per cent of UAL's total operations, will continue without interruption.

The suspension of Convair flights followed a safe emergency landing made yesterday by one of United's Convair 340s with 36 passengers and three crew members on a field 37 miles west of Des Moines.

Case Is Settled In Supreme Court

Wednesday in Supreme Court the partially tried negligence action brought by Genevieve Heron and another against Waldermar Zahn was announced settled during the overnight recess. Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman appeared for plaintiffs and Turner and Murphy for defendant.

Another negligence action brought by Horace Mervine and another against Leonard M. Dessler and another, in which a jury had been selected, also was announced settled. Richter and Werbalowsky for plaintiff and Rosen and Rosen for defendants.

ON THE CALL of the day calender the following cases were also settled and there being no case ready for trial Justice Elsworth excused jurors until today and adjourned court:

No. 248, Max Millens and others against The Yorkshire Insurance Co., Ltd., an action on fire insurance policies. Abraham Streifer for plaintiffs and Richard F. Russell for defendants.

No. 249, Raymond M. Bonse against Hershey Beverage Corp., contract. Richter and Werbalowsky for plaintiff and Spira and Hershkowitz for defendants.

No. 247, Daniel Mandy against Feldsine and Co., Inc., and another, negligence. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Ainsworth and Sullivan for defendants.

No. 256, Robert Walter Schaller and others against William F. Harnen and others, negligence. Michael Nardone for plaintiffs and Abraham Streifer, Stanley B. Johnson and Cook and Cook for defendants.

Invents Slot Machine

Vienna, Jan. 20 (AP)—An Austrian has developed a slot machine to warm your feet on cold days. Vienna newspapers report the first of the machines is to be installed at a cable car station on 7,000-foot high Mt. Hafelekar near Innsbruck. You put a coin in the machine, stand on a platform and your feet are irradiated with ultrashort waves for 15 seconds. It gets the circulation going and that warms the feet, the newspapers said.

Dorcas Society Meets

The Dorcas Society of the Seventh Day Adventist Church held its first meeting of the year on Monday. Mrs. Donald Shampo, leader for 1955, opened the meeting with prayer. Plans were made for raising money to help the needy and a program was outlined for the first six months of the year. Persons who know anyone in real need of food or clothing are asked to contact Mrs. Shampo at 77 East Chester street or the Rev. Wilbur Brass, Esopus avenue.

Upgrading Pledged

Albany, Jan. 20 (AP)—Gov. Harriman said yesterday there will be provision in the 1955-56 budget for "upgrading" or some state jobs. A general pay increase has been ruled out.

Soft-Drink Puffy Omelet Is Delicious and Different

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

With eggs so reasonable and good, it's time to think of omelets. Our friend, Kathrine Wellingbook, of Worcester, N. Y., food expert and inventor of new recipes, urged us to try her soft-drink omelet. Startling idea—yes. But it certainly turned out perfectly.

By the simple trick of using carbonated beverage as the liquid, the eggs seem to gain tenderness of texture — a delicacy of flavor—and a fluffiness that won't fall, she explained. You can even reheat a fluffy soft-drink omelet which has been stored overnight in the refrigerator, and it will emerge from the pan, hot, puffy, tender.

The action of the soft drink is at its best when the carbonation is high. To assure this, have the beverage chilled and open the bottle just before using. (Recap for further use with a plastic or rubber closure.)

For plain or savory omelets try ginger ale, lemon-lime (colorless type), cola or club soda. For sweet omelets, use orange, cherry, raspberry or other fruit flavors.

Soft-Drink Puffy Omelet
(2 to 3 servings)

Four eggs, separated, ½ teaspoon salt, white pepper, dash, ¼ cup soft drink, 1 tablespoon butter, margarine or bacon fat.

Add salt and pepper to egg whites; beat until they flop in soft peaks. Beat yolks until thick and heavy; gently stir in soft drink until blended. Fold yolk mixture into beaten egg white. Melt fat in a light frying pan (about 10-inch diameter); tip pan to coat sides. Let pan get very hot; just before fat begins to smoke, remove from heat, quickly slip in omelet mixture and cover pan.

Return pan at once to low heat and cook 5 or 6 minutes. Turn off heat and let omelet remain in covered pan for about 3 minutes. Remove cover; make a short cut at each side where omelet is to be folded; if necessary, loosen from sides of pan with spatula, tip pan and push omelet gently with a spatula onto a hot platter, folding it as you slide it from the pan. (A 4-egg omelet is supposed to serve four, but this one is so good, it's usually devoured by 2 or 3).

Note: To reheat cooked omelet after refrigeration, place in greased pan, cover and warm over moderately high heat for 2 or 3 minutes.

Onion Omelet: Stir grated onion with juice into yolks (2 teaspoons for each 4 eggs).

Cheese Omelet: Brush folded omelet with melted butter or margarine, sprinkle with grated cheese (any kind), and run under broiler until cheese melts.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Tomato juice, onion omelet, French fried potatoes, crisp bacon, toast, butter or margarine, mixed green salad, French dressing, apple pie, coffee, tea, milk.

Soft-Drink Puffy Omelet Is Delicious and Different

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

With eggs so reasonable and good, it's time to think of omelets. Our friend, Kathrine Wellingbook, of Worcester, N. Y., food expert and inventor of new recipes, urged us to try her soft-drink omelet. Startling idea—yes. But it certainly turned out perfectly.

By the simple trick of using carbonated beverage as the liquid, the eggs seem to gain tenderness of texture — a delicacy of flavor—and a fluffiness that won't fall, she explained. You can even reheat a fluffy soft-drink omelet which has been stored overnight in the refrigerator, and it will emerge from the pan, hot, puffy, tender.

The action of the soft drink is at its best when the carbonation is high. To assure this, have the beverage chilled and open the bottle just before using. (Recap for further use with a plastic or rubber closure.)

For plain or savory omelets try ginger ale, lemon-lime (colorless type), cola or club soda. For sweet omelets, use orange, cherry, raspberry or other fruit flavors.

Soft-Drink Puffy Omelet
(2 to 3 servings)

Four eggs, separated, ½ teaspoon salt, white pepper, dash, ¼ cup soft drink, 1 tablespoon butter, margarine or bacon fat.

Add salt and pepper to egg whites; beat until they flop in soft peaks. Beat yolks until thick and heavy; gently stir in soft drink until blended. Fold yolk mixture into beaten egg white. Melt fat in a light frying pan (about 10-inch diameter); tip pan to coat sides. Let pan get very hot; just before fat begins to smoke, remove from heat, quickly slip in omelet mixture and cover pan.

Return pan at once to low heat and cook 5 or 6 minutes. Turn off heat and let omelet remain in covered pan for about 3 minutes. Remove cover; make a short cut at each side where omelet is to be folded; if necessary, loosen from sides of pan with spatula, tip pan and push omelet gently with a spatula onto a hot platter, folding it as you slide it from the pan. (A 4-egg omelet is supposed to serve four, but this one is so good, it's usually devoured by 2 or 3).

Note: To reheat cooked omelet after refrigeration, place in greased pan, cover and warm over moderately high heat for 2 or 3 minutes.

Onion Omelet: Stir grated onion with juice into yolks (2 teaspoons for each 4 eggs).

Cheese Omelet: Brush folded omelet with melted butter or margarine, sprinkle with grated cheese (any kind), and run under broiler until cheese melts.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Tomato juice, onion omelet, French fried potatoes, crisp bacon, toast, butter or margarine, mixed green salad, French dressing, apple pie, coffee, tea, milk.

ALL ABOARD—Mary Kosloski, 1955 March of Dimes Poster Girl, gets her first trip on the famous monorail car which shuttles between the Senate Office Building and the Capitol in Washington, D. C. Accompanying Mary, who played conductor on the ride, were secretaries from the office of Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney.

Youth Court Plan Gets Criticism As Soft System

New York, Jan. 20 (AP) — A Brooklyn grand jury Wednesday assailed a proposal for a state-wide system of youth courts as being too soft about the "gravity of modern youthful crimes."

Declaring that New York courts already have "leaned over too far and too fast" in trying to rehabilitate young offenders by leniency, the grand jury declared:

"Youthful criminals pose a very considerable threat to the peace and safety of citizens."

THE GRAND JURY presentment, handed up after an investigation of adolescent's courts, said a state subcommittee which proposed the new youth courts ignored the threat of juvenile law-breaking

"The subcommittee appears to underrate the nature and gravity of modern youthful crime," the jury added. "The youth accused of serious crimes of violences nowadays is the rule in our courts and not the exception."

The subcommittee, headed by former Asst. Dist. Atty. Murray I. Gurfein, last November proposed the new statewide youth courts, with wide probationary powers and services.

THE PLAN would eliminate the grand jury process in investigating offenses by persons up to 20 years old, and turn all these cases over to the new youth courts.

The grand jury declared eliminating the grand jury process would be "a step toward recreation of the infamous 'star chamber'."

The jury also denounced the proposal to give youth judges power to remand offenders to jail without bail as "an ominous flirting with the constitutional presumption of the innocence of any accused."

Another Name

The famous painting of "Mona Lisa" often is referred to as "La Gioconda." She was the wife of Zanobi del Giocondo and La Gioconda is a feminine form of her husband's last name.

'Prince of Hell'

Mephistopheles originally was one of the seven great princes of hell, each of whom was associated with one of the planets, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Youth Court Plan Gets Criticism As Soft System

New York, Jan. 20 (AP) — A Brooklyn grand jury Wednesday assailed a proposal for a state-wide system of youth courts as being too soft about the "gravity of modern youthful crimes."

Declaring that New York courts already have "leaned over too far and too fast" in trying to rehabilitate young offenders by leniency, the grand jury declared:

"Youthful criminals pose a very considerable threat to the peace and safety of citizens."

THE GRAND JURY presentment, handed up after an investigation of adolescent's courts, said a state subcommittee which proposed the new youth courts ignored the threat of juvenile law-breaking

"The subcommittee appears to underrate the nature and gravity of modern youthful crime," the jury added. "The youth accused of serious crimes of violences nowadays is the rule in our courts and not the exception."

The subcommittee, headed by former Asst. Dist. Atty. Murray I. Gurfein, last November proposed the new statewide youth courts with wide probationary powers and services.

THE PLAN would eliminate the grand jury process in investigating offenses by persons up to 20 years old, and turn all these cases over to the new youth courts.

The grand jury declared eliminating the grand jury process would be "a step toward recreation of the infamous 'star chamber'."

The jury also denounced the proposal to give youth judges power to remand offenders to jail without bail as "an ominous flirting with the constitutional presumption of the innocence of any accused."

Bills in Legislature

By CHARLES DUMAS

Albany, Jan. 20 (AP)—Two Republican lawmakers, declaring crimes committed by adolescents had "shocked and scandalized the nation," today asked the Legislature to authorize a sweeping investigation of juvenile delinquency in New York state.

Sen. MacNeil Mitchell of Manhattan and Assemblyman Frank McMullen of Brooklyn introduced a resolution proposing establishment of a joint legislative committee to probe youthful crime.

They proposed creating an eight member body and a $50,000 appropriation to finance the study.

OTHER BILLS introduced today included four by Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh Republican, that he said constituted a highway safety program. the senator declared that they would remove the unsafe driver from behind the wheel and curb the dangers of "modern motorized death traps."

A Republican assemblyman dropped in a measure to prohibit the sale of lurid comic books, and a Democrat asked for an inquiry into the practices of undertakers.

Desmond's bills would require safety belts as standard equipment in all automobiles and trucks manufactured after Jan. 1, 1956, and registered in the state. In addition, passenger cars would have to have crash pads on their instrument panels.

THE LEGISLATOR proposed also that drivers be required to pass a physical fitness examination every three years, and take a night driving test.

GOP Assemblyman Charles D. Henderson of Steuben county tied his proposal on comic books to the law regulating distribution of motion pictures in the state. It provides for a licensing unit under the Board of Regents to review and clear books for sale.

PREVIOUS ATTEMPTS for a state law to ban the sale of obscene literature have failed to clear constitutional hurdles.

Assemblyman Samuel I. Berman, Kings Democrat, said he would ask that a join legislative committee be created to probe the methods employed by undertakers. He said his action was prompted by a recent "statement of findings" of the attorney general, which declared that some undertakers were overcharging for funerals of relief recipients and padding bills.

Bills were introduced yesterday that would authorize the use of organized civil defense units in peacetime emergencies. The state's defense Emergency Act restricts the employment of civil defense volunteer units to time of enemy attack.

CYO Doll Show Is Set For Saturday

The fourth annual doll show sponsored by the Catholic Youth Organization is scheduled Saturday at 2 p. m. in St. Joseph's School auditorium, and Miss Marguerite Flaherty, chairman, expects it to be the largest, surpassing the one in 1951 which exhibited more than 700 dolls entered by girls of Kingston and surrounding communities.

Miss Flaherty said that more than 75 prizes are to be awarded for various dolls, the largest, smallest, prettiest large and prettiest small, most unique, doll family, homemade dolls, oddest, character dolls and old-fashioned dolls. Awards will be made for first, second and third place in each division.

Entries are still open, the chairman stressed, and blanks may be obtained at all parochial schools. These committee members also have blanks: Mrs. David Conway, 101 Hoffman street; Mrs. Frank Graney, 40 Adams street or Mrs. Sylvester Bujak, 116 Third avenue.

WILLIAM J. GRAY

IS PROMOTED—William J. Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gray and husband of Barbara E. Gray of Glenford, was recently promoted to corporal and graduated from the communication chief school with high honors while serving in Germany. Cpl. Gray is assistant communication chief and radio operator in Company A of the First Infantry Division's 16th Regiment. He entered the army July 1953 and arrived overseas in December of that year.

Feeney Workers To Vote Union

New York, Jan. 18 (Special)—Crew members of the Feeney Corp., 613 Abeel street, Kingston, marine towing operators, will cast ballots before the end of this month in a union representation election. Announcement of the poll came from the National Labor Relations Board here today.

Voting at the same time will be the crews of other tow boat owners who are members of the Marine Towing and Transportation Employers Association.

The balloting, to be conducted by mail by the NLRB, will give the crews the opportunity of approving or rejecting Local 333, United Marine Division, AFL, as their future bargaining agent.

The results will be announced later in New York by the NLRB.

Plane Presumed Down

Honolulu, Jan. 20 (AP)—The Hawaiian Sea Frontier reported last night a navy PBY was presumed down at sea somewhere between Johnston and Kwajalein islands in the Central Pacific. The plane normally carries up to seven men, but a navy spokesman said it was not reported how many were on the missing craft. The two engine plane was flying from Johnston to Kwajalein, 1,450 miles west. The navy said patrol craft 1170 and the navy tanker Elkhorn had been diverted to search. Planes were being readied to search the area.

Officer Called Insane

Seoul, Jan. 20 (AP)—The South Korean officer who threatened U. S. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor with a pistol Tuesday was insane, Maj. Gen. Kim Chang Yong, the ROK Army counter intelligence chief, said today. Kim said Maj. Kim Ki Ok was given sanity tests and investigations showed he had been ill for some time. General Kim said the major would be court-martialed.

Eggs of the tilapia, a warm water fish, are incubated inside the mouth of one of the parents.

Palsy Mothers Plan Rummage Sale

Mrs. Gerow Sleight, newly-elected president of Cerebral Palsy Mothers Club, announced that a rummage sale will be held in February. Complete details will be released by the committee in charge.

Other officers who assumed duties at the meeting Monday, Jan. 10, were Mrs. Alonzo Lenza, vice president and program chairman; Mrs. George Clarke, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Shuler, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Winifred Joseph, treasurer.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 7.

Sorosis Celebrates 40th Anniversary At Luncheon Monday

Marking the fortieth anniversary of Sorosis, a luncheon was held for members, former members and guests of the organization Monday at the Kirkland Hotel. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. G. C. Lasher, Mrs. Theron Culver and Mrs. H. P. Van Wagenen.

Mrs. George W. Ross, president, welcomed the group and congratulated them on reaching this milestone.

Mrs. Grover C. Lasher read highlights of a letter written by Mrs. Robert E. Leighton, founder, on the 25th anniversary.

THE HISTORY included the fact that the club was organized in January, 1915 with eight charter members. Later, Sorosis joined city, state, and General Federation of Women's Clubs, with members holding offices on all three levels.

During the years, Sorosis has traveled around the world through the study of countries. Literature, arts and crafts, drama are but a few of the many topics considered.

THE SPEAKER for the afternoon, Mrs. Ralph Tonnesen, one of the first war brides to come from Germany after the war, spoke of her early childhood in her natiye land. She compared education and the life of teenagers in America with those in Germany.

Introduced by Mrs. Culver, the speaker emphasized that she feels America is now really her home.

ATHARHACTON CLUB celebrated its 50th birthday with a dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday evening. Among those present were: Mrs. John Matthews, Miss Agnes Smith, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mrs. Henry Dunbar, Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell, Mrs. Charles Arnold; seated, Miss Mary Schaeffer, Mrs. Lloyd Le Fever, Miss Louise Van Hoevenburg, and Mrs. Elberon Smith. (Freeman photo)

Club Has Same Menu On 50th Anniversary As First Birthday

Atharhacton Club held its fiftieth anniversary dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Wednesday evening.

MRS. LLOYD LE FEVER, presiding in the absence of Mrs. John Sterley, president, presented the program of the evening. Mrs. Charles Terwilliger gave the same toast as had been read by her forty-nine years ago in the club. Mrs. Henry Dunbar led in a program of songs.

Miss Louise Van Hoevenburg reported that the club has had ninety members in fifty years, losing nineteen. Only two original members are still active.

THE MENU and the program, originated by Mrs. Sadie Hendricks Shaffer forty-nine years ago, were copied by Mrs. Henry Dunbar and Miss Emily Hoysradt, with typing by Miss Agnes Scott Smith. Mrs. John Matthews designed a souvenir ceramic ash tray for each member. On exhibition were menus of each birthday dinner part of the record kept by Miss Louise Van Hoevenburg. The elaborate menu served cost only fifty cents, forty-nine years ago.

A cake decorated in yellow and white centered the table decorated with yellow candles, flowers and ferns.

CLUB OFFICERS are Mrs. Sterley, president; Mrs. Le Fever, vice president; Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, secretary; and Mrs. John Matthews, treasurer. A moment of silence was held in memory of club members deceased, mention being made of the late Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton.

Attending the fiftieth anniversary dinner were the following:

Mrs. Le Fever, Miss Van Hoevenburg, Miss Mary Schaefer, Mmes. Cornelius Treadwell, Gertrude Suydam Smith, Gerard Betz, Vincent Connelly, Harry Halverson, William Van Etten, Everett Fessenden, Newton Fessenden, Henry Dunbar, Frederick Smith, James Betts, Bess Winne Sutro, William C. Kingman, Charles Terwilliger, John Matthews, Anne Searle, Hamilton Boyd, Joseph McNelis, Victor Livingston, Harold King, Charles Arnold, Cornelius Treadwell.

ALSO PRESENT were Miss Agnes Scott Smith, Miss Florence Cordts, Miss Helen Sheldon, Miss Edith Osterhoudt, Miss Emily Hoysradt, Miss Madeleine Tarrant, Miss Lillias Nelson, Miss Mary E. Noone, and Miss Ethel Hull.

Mrs. Treadwell was general chairman with Miss Smith and Miss Van Hoevenburg.

Miss Joan Parker Is Engaged to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Parker of 73 Crane street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joan, to Allen Robinson, son of Mrs. Arthur Robinson, 457 Washington avenue, and the late Mr. Robinson. The announcement was made at a party for 200 guests Christmas Day. (Sterling photo)

WHEN COST IS TOO MUCH

A reader tells me: "Some time ago during a sale at one of the department stores I saw a very lovely raincoat that had been marked down tremendously. I bought it and saved it for a friend of mine whose birthday was a month off. She was thrilled with the raincoat, but unfortunately it was too small for her and she asked me if I would exchange it. The price of this same raincoat is now double the price I paid for it and I really cannot afford to give such an expensive present. Would it be proper to exchange it for something else at the same price, or am I obliged to give her the same thing? I would very much appreciate your advice on this matter."

I think the only thing to do is to be frank and explain your situation and ask her what she would like in its place. If she wants the raincoat very much she might be willing to pay the difference herself.

Where Does She Sit?

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's sister is to be married soon at a church wedding and my husband is to be one of the ushers. She is marrying my first cousin. We have been having a discussion as to which side of the church my children and I should be seated. My husband thinks the bride's side is correct, but I say that I should be seated on the groom's side as he is a blood relative and the bride is only an "in-law" to me. Will you please settle this?

Answer: Your husband's sister is immediate family, and you as his wife should be seated on the bride's side of the church.

Position of Left Arm at Table

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it important—especially at informal dinners—that the left hand rest in the lap when not in use? I'm not one to use a "pusher" in my left hand but I do feel more comfortable resting my arm at a point about halfway between the elbow and wrist on the ledge of the table. Is this wrong?

Answer: The wrist is quite all right, but to let the arm go up further than that becomes questionable.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. What you should know about wedding invitations and announcements is included in leaflet E-10. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, in care of The Kingston Daily Freemen, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Mary Jo Cecelia Is Prospective Bride

MARY JO CECELIA

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Cecelia of 56 Sycamore street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jo Cecelia, to Frank Edward Eigo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eigo of 62 German street.

The prospective bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Her fiance attended Kingston High School and served two years as corporal in the Army. He is employed by the Hiltebrant Dry Dock Company.

Miss Anne Eckert, Gerald DeW. Wells Wedding Announced

The marriage of Miss Anne Louise Eckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Eckert, 142 Princeton avenue, Palmerton, Pa., to Gerald DeWitt Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt F. Wells of 7 Orchard street, Hurley, took place New Year's Day, Holy Trinity Church, Palmerton.,

Holy Communion preceded the double ring ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Roland G. Bortz, assisted by Donald Matthews of Princeton Seminary. Miss Ardith Gaumer and Raoul Shorr were thee vocalists, accompanied on the organ by Richard Oswald.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Antonia Vido as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Jean Louise Wells, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jane Steinmetz, cousin of the bride.

Leon Randall of this city was best man and the ushers were Dudley Smith and Terry Eckert, brother of the bride.

A reception was held in the parish house immediately following the ceremony. The couple now live at 2308 Albany street, Schenectady, after their return from a wedding trip to Florida.

The bride is a graduate of Palmerton High School and the Allentown Hospital School of Nursing, Allentown, Pa. The bridegroom, a graduate of Kingston High School and Lehigh University, is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, Lamba Mu Sigma and Phi Alpha Theta fraternities. He is at present affiliated with the accounting department of the General Electric Company in Syracuse.

Palsy Mothers Plan Rummage Sale

Mrs. Gerow Sleight, newly-elected president of Cerebral Palsy Mothers Club, announced that a rummage sale will be held in February. Complete details will be released by the committee in charge.

Other officers who assumed duties at the meeting Monday, Jan. 10, were Mrs. Alonzo Lenza, vice president and program chairman; Mrs. George Clarke, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Shuler, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Winifred Joseph, treasurer.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 7.

Sorosis Celebrates 40th Anniversary At Luncheon Monday

Marking the fortieth anniversary of Sorosis, a luncheon was held for members, former members and guests of the organization Monday at the Kirkland Hotel. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. G. C. Lasher, Mrs. Theron Culver and Mrs. H. P. Van Wagenen.

Mrs. George W. Ross, president, welcomed the group and congratulated them on reaching this milestone.

Mrs. Grover C. Lasher read highlights of a letter written by Mrs. Robert E. Leighton, founder, on the 25th anniversary.

THE HISTORY included the fact that the club was organized in January, 1915 with eight charter members. Later, Sorosis joined city, state, and General Federation of Women's Clubs, with members holding offices on all three levels.

During the years, Sorosis has traveled around the world through the study of countries. Literature, arts and crafts, drama are but a few of the many topics considered.

THE SPEAKER for the afternoon, Mrs. Ralph Tonnesen, one of the first war brides to come from Germany after the war, spoke of her early childhood in her natiye land. She compared education and the life of teenagers in America with those in Germany.

Introduced by Mrs. Culver, the speaker emphasized that she feels America is now really her home.

ATHARHACTON CLUB celebrated its 50th birthday with a dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday evening. Among those present were: Mrs. John Matthews, Miss Agnes Smith, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mrs. Henry Dunbar, Mrs. Cornelius Treadwell, Mrs. Charles Arnold; seated, Miss Mary Schaeffer, Mrs. Lloyd Le Fever, Miss Louise Van Hoevenburg, and Mrs. Elberon Smith. (Freeman photo)

Club Has Same Menu On 50th Anniversary As First Birthday

Atharhacton Club held its fiftieth anniversary dinner at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Wednesday evening.

MRS. LLOYD LE FEVER, presiding in the absence of Mrs. John Sterley, president, presented the program of the evening. Mrs. Charles Terwilliger gave the same toast as had been read by her forty-nine years ago in the club. Mrs. Henry Dunbar led in a program of songs.

Miss Louise Van Hoevenburg reported that the club has had ninety members in fifty years, losing nineteen. Only two original members are still active.

THE MENU and the program, originated by Mrs. Sadie Hendricks Shaffer forty-nine years ago, were copied by Mrs. Henry Dunbar and Miss Emily Hoysradt, with typing by Miss Agnes Scott Smith. Mrs. John Matthews designed a souvenir ceramic ash tray for each member. On exhibition were menus of each birthday dinner part of the record kept by Miss Louise Van Hoevenburg. The elaborate menu served cost only fifty cents, forty-nine years ago.

A cake decorated in yellow and white centered the table decorated with yellow candles, flowers and ferns.

CLUB OFFICERS are Mrs. Sterley, president; Mrs. Le Fever, vice president; Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, secretary; and Mrs. John Matthews, treasurer. A moment of silence was held in memory of club members deceased, mention being made of the late Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton.

Attending the fiftieth anniversary dinner were the following:

Mrs. Le Fever, Miss Van Hoevenburg, Miss Mary Schaefer, Mmes. Cornelius Treadwell, Gertrude Suydam Smith, Gerard Betz, Vincent Connelly, Harry Halverson, William Van Etten, Everett Fessenden, Newton Fessenden, Henry Dunbar, Frederick Smith, James Betts, Bess Winne Sutro, William C. Kingman, Charles Terwilliger, John Matthews, Anne Searle, Hamilton Boyd, Joseph McNelis, Victor Livingston, Harold King, Charles Arnold, Cornelius Treadwell.

ALSO PRESENT were Miss Agnes Scott Smith, Miss Florence Cordts, Miss Helen Sheldon, Miss Edith Osterhoudt, Miss Emily Hoysradt, Miss Madeleine Tarrant, Miss Lillias Nelson, Miss Mary E. Noone, and Miss Ethel Hull.

Mrs. Treadwell was general chairman with Miss Smith and Miss Van Hoevenburg.

Miss Joan Parker Is Engaged to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Parker of 73 Crane street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joan, to Allen Robinson, son of Mrs. Arthur Robinson, 457 Washington avenue, and the late Mr. Robinson. The announcement was made at a party for 200 guests Christmas Day. (Sterling photo)

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

WHEN COST IS TOO MUCH

A reader tells me: "Some time ago during a sale at one of the department stores I saw a very lovely raincoat that had been marked down tremendously. I bought it and saved it for a friend of mine whose birthday was a month off. She was thrilled with the raincoat, but unfortunately it was too small for her and she asked me if I would exchange it. The price of this same raincoat is now double the price I paid for it and I really cannot afford to give such an expensive present. Would it be proper to exchange it for something else at the same price, or am I obliged to give her the same thing? I would very much appreciate your advice on this matter."

I think the only thing to do is to be frank and explain your situation and ask her what she would like in its place. If she wants the raincoat very much she might be willing to pay the difference herself.

Where Does She Sit?

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's sister is to be married soon at a church wedding and my husband is to be one of the ushers. She is marrying my first cousin. We have been having a discussion as to which side of the church my children and I should be seated. My husband thinks the bride's side is correct, but I say that I should be seated on the groom's side as he is a blood relative and the bride is only an "in-law" to me. Will you please settle this?

Answer: Your husband's sister is immediate family, and you as his wife should be seated on the bride's side of the church.

Position of Left Arm at Table

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it important—especially at informal dinners—that the left hand rest in the lap when not in use? I'm not one to use a "pusher" in my left hand but I do feel more comfortable resting my arm at a point about halfway between the elbow and wrist on the ledge of the table. Is this wrong?

Answer: The wrist is quite all right, but to let the arm go up further than that becomes questionable.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. What you should know about wedding invitations and announcements is included in leaflet E-10. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, in care of The Kingston Daily Freemen, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Mary Jo Cecelia Is Prospective Bride

MARY JO CECELIA

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Cecelia of 56 Sycamore street announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Jo Cecelia, to Frank Edward Eigo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eigo of 62 German street.

The prospective bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Her fiance attended Kingston High School and served two years as corporal in the Army. He is employed by the Hiltebrant Dry Dock Company.

Miss Anne Eckert, Gerald DeW. Wells Wedding Announced

The marriage of Miss Anne Louise Eckert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Eckert, 142 Princeton avenue, Palmerton, Pa., to Gerald DeWitt Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt F. Wells of 7 Orchard street, Hurley, took place New Year's Day, Holy Trinity Church, Palmerton.,

Holy Communion preceded the double ring ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Roland G. Bortz, assisted by Donald Matthews of Princeton Seminary. Miss Ardith Gaumer and Raoul Shorr were thee vocalists, accompanied on the organ by Richard Oswald.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Antonia Vido as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Jean Louise Wells, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jane Steinmetz, cousin of the bride.

Leon Randall of this city was best man and the ushers were Dudley Smith and Terry Eckert, brother of the bride.

A reception was held in the parish house immediately following the ceremony. The couple now live at 2308 Albany street, Schenectady, after their return from a wedding trip to Florida.

The bride is a graduate of Palmerton High School and the Allentown Hospital School of Nursing, Allentown, Pa. The bridegroom, a graduate of Kingston High School and Lehigh University, is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, Lamba Mu Sigma and Phi Alpha Theta fraternities. He is at present affiliated with the accounting department of the General Electric Company in Syracuse.

Polio Performers Reminded on Show January 31

Buddy Oulton, co-committeeman for the polio variety show on Monday Jan. 31, today gave a reminder that the time is getting short for volunteers to send in blanks as performers.

Oulton said rehearsal for the benefit would be held January 30 in the auditorium of Kingston High School where the show is scheduled the following night.

"We have a number of volunteers to date," Oulton said "but undoubtedly there are others, and we'd like to hear from them as soon as possible."

Talent blanks have been appearing in The Freeman to mail to Oulton's address, 45 Janet street.

Last year's polio show raised more than $2,800 for the fight on infantile paralysis. It is hoped that the 1955 ticket sale will equal that figure.

Tickets are being mailed out to those who patronized the show in the past, and also will be on sale at the door on January 31 for those who need them.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES COZZA of 33 Gill street ready to cut the cake honoring their golden wedding anniversary at a buffet supper at their home Wednesday evening. (Freeman photo)

Married in Italy, Couple Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cozza of 33 Gill street celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Wednesday evening at a party at their home. Present were their children and grandchildren and guests. A buffet supper featuring an anniversary cake was served.

THE COZZAS were married in Italy on January 19, 1905. Mr. Cozza moved here in 1906 and Mrs. Cozza in 1912, making Kingston their home.

They have seven daughters and two sons. The daughters, who attended with their husbands, are Mrs. Charles Sottile, Mrs. Louis Rota, Mrs. Frank Fuscardo, Mrs. Joseph Damis, Mrs. Metro Solian, Mrs. Frank Polacco. Another daughter, Mrs. Al Biscardi, lives in Jersey City, N. J.

THEIR TWO SONS, Joseph and Ernest, attended with their wives and families. Mrs. Cornelius O'Neil with her husband, was among the eighteen grandchildren present.

Mrs. Cozza is an active member of the Rosary Society of St. Mary's Church, of which they are both members. She is also a member of the ladies society.

Virtue Rewarded

Tyler, Tex. (AP) — A prospective juror escaped service because he told the judge he wanted to sit with his sick mother-in-law. "When a man wants to do something for his mother-in-law," commented Judge Otis T. Dunagan, "I will not keep him tied up here on jury service."

Approval Is Given

Paris, Jan. 20 (AP)—French officials today gave a cautious approval to President Eisenhower's suggestion that the United Nations arrange a cease-fire between warring Chinese in the Formosa Straits. But they also pointed out intervention by the UN is a "complicated affair." France would like to have a more precise idea of just what the UN would be expected to do, the officials said.

Officials Say

der peacefully—but all pleas failed.

In an unprecedented move, 17-year-old Barbara "Toby" Green made a tearful but fruitless face-to-face appeal to her father, "Teddy" Green, 39, notorious bank robber and escape artist. She stood in the courtyard and he stood just inside a low window of the besieged solitary confinement cell block.

JEANETTE BALBEN of Hudson, also a teen-ager, went to the prison to try to reason with her father, Walter H. Balben, 38, robber and gunman, but he refused to talk to her.

The Boston Post said in a copyrighted article that the mother of Joseph Flaherty, 32, of Boston, called him on the telephone to plead with him to surrender. The long-term rapist hung up on his mother, the Post said.

Mrs. Flaherty said later she reached her son in a subsequent call and was assured by him that the hostages would not be hurt.

"I tried to talk him into surrendering," she said, "but he wouldn't give me a definite answer."

Also through the telephone that goes from the besieged block to the prison switchboard went an appeal to Fritz O. Swenson, 31, a Boston cop killer, from his brother Russell, 35. "He just won't listen," said Russell.

THE REBELLION began when the four prisoners sawed their way free from cells in the solitary confinement block and grabbed five guards as hostages Tuesday.

Their demand: Freedom.

The reply: No freedom. No concessions. No bargains. No meals. Release the prison officers and be ready to suffer the consequences.

The hostages are getting three hot meals a day, delivered by the priest and physician. The prisoners asked that the guards be given the meals. Authorities agreed, but the prisoners must touch not one bite of that food.

The prisoners agreed, since they have a meagre supply of foodstuffs in the cellblock galley. Later, it was revealed that the meagerness of their own supply led them to permit food to be brought to the officers. They didn't want to share their supply.

Also in the cellblock are six other prisoners, who, authorities believe, are being held against their wishes by the riotous quartet.

Cops Get Cigars

Fredericksburg, Va. (AP)—Patrolmen Donald Balderson and A. S. Kendall chased a speeding car and finally caught up with it in front of Mary Washington Hospital. In it were Daniel William Culp and his wife, Ruth, and a brand new five-pound, five-ounce boy. The Culps got no ticket but the cops got cigars from the happy daddy.

Approval Is Given

Paris, Jan. 20 (AP)—French officials today gave a cautious approval to President Eisenhower's suggestion that the United Nations arrange a cease-fire between warring Chinese in the Formosa Straits. But they also pointed out intervention by the UN is a "complicated affair." France would like to have a more precise idea of just what the UN would be expected to do, the officials said.

Officials Say

der peacefully—but all pleas failed.

In an unprecedented move, 17-year-old Barbara "Toby" Green made a tearful but fruitless face-to-face appeal to her father, "Teddy" Green, 39, notorious bank robber and escape artist. She stood in the courtyard and he stood just inside a low window of the besieged solitary confinement cell block.

JEANETTE BALBEN of Hudson, also a teen-ager, went to the prison to try to reason with her father, Walter H. Balben, 38, robber and gunman, but he refused to talk to her.

The Boston Post said in a copyrighted article that the mother of Joseph Flaherty, 32, of Boston, called him on the telephone to plead with him to surrender. The long-term rapist hung up on his mother, the Post said.

Mrs. Flaherty said later she reached her son in a subsequent call and was assured by him that the hostages would not be hurt.

"I tried to talk him into surrendering," she said, "but he wouldn't give me a definite answer."

Also through the telephone that goes from the besieged block to the prison switchboard went an appeal to Fritz O. Swenson, 31, a Boston cop killer, from his brother Russell, 35. "He just won't listen," said Russell.

THE REBELLION began when the four prisoners sawed their way free from cells in the solitary confinement block and grabbed five guards as hostages Tuesday.

Their demand: Freedom.

The reply: No freedom. No concessions. No bargains. No meals. Release the prison officers and be ready to suffer the consequences.

The hostages are getting three hot meals a day, delivered by the priest and physician. The prisoners asked that the guards be given the meals. Authorities agreed, but the prisoners must touch not one bite of that food.

The prisoners agreed, since they have a meagre supply of foodstuffs in the cellblock galley. Later, it was revealed that the meagerness of their own supply led them to permit food to be brought to the officers. They didn't want to share their supply.

Also in the cellblock are six other prisoners, who, authorities believe, are being held against their wishes by the riotous quartet.

Cops Get Cigars

Fredericksburg, Va. (AP)—Patrolmen Donald Balderson and A. S. Kendall chased a speeding car and finally caught up with it in front of Mary Washington Hospital. In it were Daniel William Culp and his wife, Ruth, and a brand new five-pound, five-ounce boy. The Culps got no ticket but the cops got cigars from the happy daddy.

Eight-Team New York-New Jersey Semi-Pro League Organizes

4 Cities From Each State Set To Field Clubs

Kingston, Newburgh Poughkeepsie in Fold

Enthusiastic response to a proposed semi-pro baseball league in eight New York and New Jersey communities insures organization of such a circuit for the 1955 season, William D. Ryan of Newburgh, predicted today.

Ryan, for several years guiding genius of the Newburgh Dodger Jewels, said that eight cities—four in each state—attended the first organization meeting in Paterson, N. J., last night.

KINGSTON WAS represented by Fred Davi, who would operate the team at Dietz Stadium if the league organizes.

Other New York cities represented were Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and the Brooklyn Windsors.

Jersey City, once the hub of International League baseball, South Orange, Allendale and Montclair are the New Jersey communities ready to field a team.

Under a tentative plan, two of the eight teams would play only road games, Ryan said.

THREE OF THE teams have major league affiliations—Newburgh with the Brooklyn Dodgers; South Orange with the Philadelphia Phillies and Montclair with the Cleveland Indians.

Limited working agreements with other major league teams will be sought for other clubs in the league. Fred Davi is expected to make a bid for a pact with the New York Yankees or Boston Red Sox.

AMONG THOSE WHO attended the meeting were A. B. "Turk" Karam of the Brooklyn Dodger scouting staff; Ben Marmo of the Paterson Evening News, who is heading the movement with Ryan; Lou Infold, head of the North Jersey League for the past 16 years; and Bill Myers, who was affiliated with the powerful Queens Alliance for 25 years.

Franchise fees of $500 will be posted at a meeting on February 1 at Paterson.

Sugar Ray's Future In Doubt After Loss

Robinson Wants To Fight Again

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP)—They fed Sugar Ray Robinson to a tiger last night and he was gobbled up.

From all indications, it is the end of Sugar Ray's ring comeback, but Robinson, himself, insists he wants to continue.

Ralph "Tiger" Jones, of Yonkers, N. Y., dropped from the middleweight ratings after losing five straight, chugged hungrily after Robinson from the start of their nationally televised fight in Chicago Stadium and sledged him almost at will for an overwhelming 10-round decision.

The International Boxing Club, which had been looking ahead to a possible big attraction of Robinson and Kid Gavilan in another month, appeared caught short.

IBC Secretary Truman Gibson, asked about any future bout for Robinson, a 1-to-8 ringside favorite, muttered: "I just don't know . . . I just don't know."

THE FORMER welterweight and middleweight titleholder, now 34 and who started his comeback after 30 months as a song-and-dance entertainer by kayoing Joe Rindone two weeks ago, was handed the worst beating of his career by Jones.

With his timing off, and with most of his best punches whizzing harmlessly past the "Tiger's" noggin, Robinson rustily tried to fight off his stalking foe with combinations that were weak imitations of the broadsides that had blasted a ring record of 137 victories in 142 bouts.

Time and again, Jones drove Robinson into the ropes and mauled him pitifully. Sugar Ray's right eyebrow and nose bled throughout most of the scrap and at times his arms dangled as if helplessly weighted down.

All three officials scored it heavily for the 26-year-old Jones—Referee Frank Siroka voting 99-94, Judge Ed Hintz 100-88 and Judge Ed Walsh 98-89. The Associated Press had it 99-95 with Robinson taking only the last round.

EACH FIGHTER weighed 159 pounds. A crowd of 7,282 contributed to a gross gate of $27,419 and a net of $22,778. Robinsons' share, including $4,000 from television, was about $12,000.

"I want to continue," Robinson, a New Yorker, said later. "I think Jones was just too tough an opponent for a second fight. But being egotistical I wanted to take him on even though Joe Glaser (Ray's business manager) was against it from the start.

"I think I can do better with a few more fights, and if I can't then I'll quit. When I decided to make a comeback, I didn't think I would win every fight. It takes a champion to lose as well as win. I've been beaten before."

Guglielmi Set Passing Mark At Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind. (NEA)—Ralph Guglielmi succeeded in 68 of 127 passing attempts in 1954 for 1160 yards and six touchdowns.

Gugliemli's four-year total of 2973 yards is a Notre Dame record. Angelo Bertelli held the former mark, 2582, established in 1943. Guglielmi broke Bob Williams' career records for most passes thrown and completions with 435 and 209. Guglielmi also led the Irish for the second year in passes intercepted, which just about clinched his right to be the All-America quarterback.

Beaver Taps 29 In Junior Loop

Joe Beaver tapped in 29 points for Village Rest in the Junior League of the Recreation Department as his club went on to score a 73 to 20 victory over the Salvation Army.

Feldman's Oilers came from behind in the first quarter to nip Maddens TV, 28-26. With 50 seconds to go, Mark Feldman stole the ball and tied the score at 26-all. With 28 seconds left, Feldman duplicated his feat to win the ball game. Guinta had 13, White 11.

Powell's Cleaners took a 32 to 20 decision from the Center Cats. Joe Klonowski's rebounding and scoring could not keep his team in the running as the Cleaners had too much team work.

The Nationals defeated the Boys Club by 40 to 23. Taylor scored 10 of the 23 markers for the losers. O'Reilly paced the winners with 11 and Lucas had nine, Perry eight and DeCicco seven.

The scores:

Village Rest (73)—Van Loan 3-0-6; Beaver 14-1-29; Short 9-8-26; McCabe 4-0-8; Gillespie 2-0-4.

So This Is Basketball? Well, What Else?

If you arrive at the municipal auditorium in time for Sunday's preliminary game, don't do a double take.

That will be a basketball game unfolding before your eyes. If you insist on being a purist about it, well then it might seem like something else again.

In any event, it's the Lady Lion Tamers against the Lions All Stars (?) and, played under girls rules it should be funnier than a barrel of monkeys with the seven-year itch.

COACH BUD POTTER has selected a 10-man squad, most of them wholly without basketball credentials, but willing to expose themselves to an inevitable whipping for a worthy cause—the Lions Club program featuring a parapegelic game.

Girls rules will prevail which means there will be no center. This failed to disturb Coach Potter who blandly admits, "we don't have a center anyway . . ."

Potter's crew—a heterogenous collection of lawyers, doctors, business men, golfers—anything but basketball players, may look silly playing those girls rules but as one player admitted, "we'll do anything if the price is right . . ."

HEADING THE All Stars is former All-America George Hadday, who insists on keeping his college affiliation secret. The list also includes Hubert Richter, Dr. Saul Goldfarb and Harry Kapreilian, who will not be permitted to bring their wedges; Andrew Murphy III, who will loom large and ominous in the bucket; Wilson Tinney, Jack Reynolds and William Maurer.

Coach Potter also plans to see some action, if he doesn't laugh himself to death watching his "charges" perform.

The Lady Lion Tamers, all dolled up in brand new uniforms, will trot out a lineup calculated to make the men blush with embarrassment and envy.

THE LADY basketeers have a powerful array in Rosemary Pillsworth, Nancy Jackson, Mary Myers, Carol Tremper and Betty Lewis, with subs Pat Golden and Dale Auchmoody.

Supremely confident, Rosemary Pillsworth expressed the sentiment of the Lion Tamers when she said, "I hope those blokes don't fold up and spoil all the fun."

Ah, yes, there is a basketball game following—the two famed wheelchair outfits, Jersey Wheelers and Bulova Watchmakers.

Cedaraps, Empire Diner And Blacktops Cop Tilts

Back's Cedaraps, Empire Diner and the Blacktops registered victories in the YMCA tripleheader basketball attraction Wednesday night.

Backs took the measure of the Skylines by 78 to 38, Empire Diner turned back Valley Gardens of Accord to the tune of 65 to 54 and in the closest game of the night, the Blacktops nipped Accord, 50 to 42.

Jerry Kaplan of Backs, Rivin Kreiger of Valley Gardens and Bill DuBois of Empire Diner tied for high scoring honors with 20 markers apiece.

Huyler Van Wagenen with 18 and Frank Ebelheiser, who scored 13, followed Kaplan to lead the Cedaraps to their victory. A big 29-point fourth quarter decided the outcome after the Skylines had led at the half, 25 to 22.

ANOTHER FAST last period spurt by the Empire quintet was the deciding feature of last night's attraction.

Valley Gardens took a 16-15 edge at the first quarter but trailed at the half by 32 to 31. Both clubs netted 15 markers in the third canto with the scoreboard reading 47-46 for Empire. An 18-point final session nailed down the victory for the Diner team.

MARTY ANDERSEN scored 14 for Valley Gardens and Joe Murkhoff and Herm Sickler also paced Empire with 15 and 14 in that order.

Trailing 16 to 13 at the first quarter, the Blacktops continued the second half tell-tale finishes to, win their game from Accord. The two teams were tied at the half at 23-all but Accord took a two-point lead going into the final period, 35-32. The Blacktops rallied for 18 points and the ball game.

Joe Markle sparked the winners with 13 while Dan Simmons pushed in 12. Andy Andersen found the range for 16 to lead Accord while Ben Hilgers hit for 11.

Big Games In DUSO

While Kingston High entertains Liberty Friday night at the field house, two major battles will be unfolding on the DUSO front.

Undefeated Newburgh Academy (6-0) visits Ellenville (4-3), while Poughkeepsie travels to Middletown where the Middies can knock the Blues right out of the race. The other DUSO engagements pairs Monticello and Port Jervis. Fallsburgh draws the bye this week.

Unbeaten Saugerties, 6-0 in the UCAL, takes on Highland on the Sawyer boards. In other games, Marlboro Central is at New Paltz and Kerhonkson visits Wallkill. Onteora Central has an open date.

Blues Making Move For NHL Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Rangers, who haven't qualified for the Stanley Cup playoffs since the 1949-50 season, are starting to make their move toward fourth place in the National Hockey League.

The first four clubs at the end of regular season play are eligible for the post-season playoffs.

The Rangers started the present campaign all right, but faded toward midseason. Now suddenly they've perked up with two victories and a tie in their last three games to advance within four points of the fourth-place Boston Bruins.

New York blanked the league-leading Detroit Red Wings 2-0 last night and the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Chicago Black Hawks played a 3-3 tie. No other games were scheduled.

Marciano-Cockell Fight Is Sought By Nevada Group

Las Vegas, Nev. Jan. 20 (AP)—A group of local sportsmen has offered a guarantee to Rocky Marciano to defend his heavyweight title against British champion Don Cockell here in May.

Hank Greenspun, publisher of the Las Vegas Sun and chairman of the group, said a meeting will be held tomorrow with a representative of the International Boxing Club to discuss the offer. Beldon Katleman said he and other hotel owners are willing to put "up to $300,000" to get the match for Las Vegas.

In New York, Marciano's manager, Al Weill, said he had talked with Greenspun and others "but they made no $300,000 offer nor anywhere near it." Weill said he has a $350,000 offer from San Francisco but isn't making any decision until the condition of the champion's nose, damaged in the Ezzard Charles defense, is determined.

Weill said "I would love to go to Las Vagas if there is sufficient money."

196 Race Days For State Again

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—New York will have 196 days of flat racing again this year with the season opening April 1 at Jamaica and closing at the same track on Nov. 15.

The New York State Racing Commission alloted the dates to five racing associations. At the same time the commission turned down an application by the Empire City Racing Association, which had operated at Jamaica since the war years until 1954 when it didn't apply for dates.

The dates:

Jamaica: April 1-23 and Oct. 22-Nov. 15.
Belmont: April 25-June 11 and Sept. 21-Oct. 19.
Aqueduct: June 13-July 9 and Aug. 29-Sept. 20.
Saratoga at Jamaica: July 11-30.
Saratoga: Aug. 1-27.

Under a tentative plan, two of the eight teams would play only road games, Ryan said.

THREE OF THE teams have major league affiliations—Newburgh with the Brooklyn Dodgers; South Orange with the Philadelphia Phillies and Montclair with the Cleveland Indians.

Limited working agreements with other major league teams will be sought for other clubs in the league. Fred Davi is expected to make a bid for a pact with the New York Yankees or Boston Red Sox.

AMONG THOSE WHO attended the meeting were A. B. "Turk" Karam of the Brooklyn Dodger scouting staff; Ben Marmo of the Paterson Evening News, who is heading the movement with Ryan; Lou Infold, head of the North Jersey League for the past 16 years; and Bill Myers, who was affiliated with the powerful Queens Alliance for 25 years.

Franchise fees of $500 will be posted at a meeting on February 1 at Paterson.

Sugar Ray's Future In Doubt After Loss

Robinson Wants To Fight Again

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP)—They fed Sugar Ray Robinson to a tiger last night and he was gobbled up.

From all indications, it is the end of Sugar Ray's ring comeback, but Robinson, himself, insists he wants to continue.

Ralph "Tiger" Jones, of Yonkers, N. Y., dropped from the middleweight ratings after losing five straight, chugged hungrily after Robinson from the start of their nationally televised fight in Chicago Stadium and sledged him almost at will for an overwhelming 10-round decision.

The International Boxing Club, which had been looking ahead to a possible big attraction of Robinson and Kid Gavilan in another month, appeared caught short.

IBC Secretary Truman Gibson, asked about any future bout for Robinson, a 1-to-8 ringside favorite, muttered: "I just don't know . . . I just don't know."

THE FORMER welterweight and middleweight titleholder, now 34 and who started his comeback after 30 months as a song-and-dance entertainer by kayoing Joe Rindone two weeks ago, was handed the worst beating of his career by Jones.

With his timing off, and with most of his best punches whizzing harmlessly past the "Tiger's" noggin, Robinson rustily tried to fight off his stalking foe with combinations that were weak imitations of the broadsides that had blasted a ring record of 137 victories in 142 bouts.

Time and again, Jones drove Robinson into the ropes and mauled him pitifully. Sugar Ray's right eyebrow and nose bled throughout most of the scrap and at times his arms dangled as if helplessly weighted down.

All three officials scored it heavily for the 26-year-old Jones—Referee Frank Siroka voting 99-94, Judge Ed Hintz 100-88 and Judge Ed Walsh 98-89. The Associated Press had it 99-95 with Robinson taking only the last round.

EACH FIGHTER weighed 159 pounds. A crowd of 7,282 contributed to a gross gate of $27,419 and a net of $22,778. Robinsons' share, including $4,000 from television, was about $12,000.

"I want to continue," Robinson, a New Yorker, said later. "I think Jones was just too tough an opponent for a second fight. But being egotistical I wanted to take him on even though Joe Glaser (Ray's business manager) was against it from the start.

"I think I can do better with a few more fights, and if I can't then I'll quit. When I decided to make a comeback, I didn't think I would win every fight. It takes a champion to lose as well as win. I've been beaten before."

Guglielmi Set Passing Mark At Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind. (NEA)—Ralph Guglielmi succeeded in 68 of 127 passing attempts in 1954 for 1160 yards and six touchdowns.

Gugliemli's four-year total of 2973 yards is a Notre Dame record. Angelo Bertelli held the former mark, 2582, established in 1943. Guglielmi broke Bob Williams' career records for most passes thrown and completions with 435 and 209. Guglielmi also led the Irish for the second year in passes intercepted, which just about clinched his right to be the All-America quarterback.

Beaver Taps 29 In Junior Loop

Joe Beaver tapped in 29 points for Village Rest in the Junior League of the Recreation Department as his club went on to score a 73 to 20 victory over the Salvation Army.

Beaver's teammate, Short, followed with 26 points, including eight out of nine foul tries.

Feldman's Oilers came from behind in the first quarter to nip Maddens TV, 28-26. With 50 seconds to go, Mark Feldman stole the ball and tied the score at 26-all. With 28 seconds left, Feldman duplicated his feat to win the ball game. Guinta had 13, White 11.

Powell's Cleaners took a 32 to 20 decision from the Center Cats. Joe Klonowski's rebounding and scoring could not keep his team in the running as the Cleaners had too much team work.

The Nationals defeated the Boys Club by 40 to 23. Taylor scored 10 of the 23 markers for the losers. O'Reilly paced the winners with 11 and Lucas had nine, Perry eight and DeCicco seven.

The scores:

So This Is Basketball? Well, What Else?

If you arrive at the municipal auditorium in time for Sunday's preliminary game, don't do a double take.

That will be a basketball game unfolding before your eyes. If you insist on being a purist about it, well then it might seem like something else again.

In any event, it's the Lady Lion Tamers against the Lions All Stars (?) and, played under girls rules it should be funnier than a barrel of monkeys with the seven-year itch.

COACH BUD POTTER has selected a 10-man squad, most of them wholly without basketball credentials, but willing to expose themselves to an inevitable whipping for a worthy cause—the Lions Club program featuring a parapegelic game.

Girls rules will prevail which means there will be no center. This failed to disturb Coach Potter who blandly admits, "we don't have a center anyway . . ."

Potter's crew—a heterogenous collection of lawyers, doctors, business men, golfers—anything but basketball players, may look silly playing those girls rules but as one player admitted, "we'll do anything if the price is right . . ."

HEADING THE All Stars is former All-America George Hadday, who insists on keeping his college affiliation secret. The list also includes Hubert Richter, Dr. Saul Goldfarb and Harry Kapreilian, who will not be permitted to bring their wedges; Andrew Murphy III, who will loom large and ominous in the bucket; Wilson Tinney, Jack Reynolds and William Maurer.

Coach Potter also plans to see some action, if he doesn't laugh himself to death watching his "charges" perform.

The Lady Lion Tamers, all dolled up in brand new uniforms, will trot out a lineup calculated to make the men blush with embarrassment and envy.

THE LADY basketeers have a powerful array in Rosemary Pillsworth, Nancy Jackson, Mary Myers, Carol Tremper and Betty Lewis, with subs Pat Golden and Dale Auchmoody.

Supremely confident, Rosemary Pillsworth expressed the sentiment of the Lion Tamers when she said, "I hope those blokes don't fold up and spoil all the fun."

Ah, yes, there is a basketball game following—the two famed wheelchair outfits, Jersey Wheelers and Bulova Watchmakers.

Cedaraps, Empire Diner And Blacktops Cop Tilts

Back's Cedaraps, Empire Diner and the Blacktops registered victories in the YMCA triple-header basketball attraction Wednesday night.

Backs took the measure of the Skylines by 78 to 38, Empire Diner turned back Valley Gardens of Accord to the tune of 65 to 54 and in the closest game of the night, the Blacktops nipped Accord, 50 to 42.

Jerry Kaplan of Backs, Rivin Kreiger of Valley Gardens and Bill DuBois of Empire Diner tied for high scoring honors with 20 markers apiece.

Huyler Van Wagenen with 18 and Frank Ebelheiser, who scored 13, followed Kaplan to lead the Cedaraps to their victory. A big 29-point fourth quarter decided the outcome after the Skylines had led at the half, 25 to 22.

ANOTHER FAST last period spurt by the Empire quintet was the deciding feature of last night's attraction.

Valley Gardens took a 16-15 edge at the first quarter but trailed at the half by 32 to 31. Both clubs netted 15 markers in the third canto with the scoreboard reading 47-46 for Empire. An 18-point final session nailed down the victory for the Diner team.

MARTY ANDERSEN scored 14 for Valley Gardens and Joe Murkhoff and Herm Sickler also paced Empire with 15 and 14 in that order.

Trailing 16 to 13 at the first quarter, the Blacktops continued the second half tell-tale finishes to, win their game from Accord. The two teams were tied at the half at 23-all but Accord took a two-point lead going into the final period, 35-32. The Blacktops rallied for 18 points and the ball game.

Joe Markle sparked the winners with 13 while Dan Simmons pushed in 12. Andy Andersen found the range for 16 to lead Accord while Ben Hilgers hit for 11.

Big Games In DUSO

While Kingston High entertains Liberty Friday night at the field house, two major battles will be unfolding on the DUSO front.

Undefeated Newburgh Academy (6-0) visits Ellenville (4-3), while Poughkeepsie travels to Middletown where the Middies can knock the Blues right out of the race. The other DUSO engagements pairs Monticello and Port Jervis. Fallsburgh draws the bye this week.

Unbeaten Saugerties, 6-0 in the UCAL, takes on Highland on the Sawyer boards. In other games, Marlboro Central is at New Paltz and Kerhonkson visits Wallkill. Onteora Central has an open date.

Blues Making Move For NHL Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Rangers, who haven't qualified for the Stanley Cup playoffs since the 1949-50 season, are starting to make their move toward fourth place in the National Hockey League.

The first four clubs at the end of regular season play are eligible for the post-season playoffs.

The Rangers started the present campaign all right, but faded toward midseason. Now suddenly they've perked up with two victories and a tie in their last three games to advance within four points of the fourth-place Boston Bruins.

New York blanked the league-leading Detroit Red Wings 2-0 last night and the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Chicago Black Hawks played a 3-3 tie. No other games were scheduled.

Marciano-Cockell Fight Is Sought By Nevada Group

Las Vegas, Nev. Jan. 20 (AP)—A group of local sportsmen has offered a guarantee to Rocky Marciano to defend his heavyweight title against British champion Don Cockell here in May.

Hank Greenspun, publisher of the Las Vegas Sun and chairman of the group, said a meeting will be held tomorrow with a representative of the International Boxing Club to discuss the offer. Beldon Katleman said he and other hotel owners are willing to put "up to $300,000" to get the match for Las Vegas.

In New York, Marciano's manager, Al Weill, said he had talked with Greenspun and others "but they made no $300,000 offer nor anywhere near it." Weill said he has a $350,000 offer from San Francisco but isn't making any decision until the condition of the champion's nose, damaged in the Ezzard Charles defense, is determined.

Weill said "I would love to go to Las Vagas if there is sufficient money."

196 Race Days For State Again

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—New York will have 196 days of flat racing again this year with the season opening April 1 at Jamaica and closing at the same track on Nov. 15.

The New York State Racing Commission alloted the dates to five racing associations. At the same time the commission turned down an application by the Empire City Racing Association, which had operated at Jamaica since the war years until 1954 when it didn't apply for dates.

The dates:

Jamaica: April 1-23 and Oct. 22-Nov. 15.

Belmont: April 25-June 11 and Sept. 21-Oct. 19.

Aqueduct: June 13-July 9 and Aug. 29-Sept. 20.

Saratoga at Jamaica: July 11-30.

Saratoga: Aug. 1-27.

BOWLING SCORES

Bruce Davis Hammers 639

Bruce Davis, the younger of the two bowling Davises, hammered a steady stream of strikes with games of 225-191-223 for 639 to lead the Central Rec Major wheel Wednesday night.

Bruce and his father, Cliff, will defend their KBA doubles title in the minor events of the 18th annual city tournament next month.

The runnerup league leader was Lou Guido who posted 593 in the CYO League at the Bowlodrome as J. Smith topped the singles brigade with 226.

Rita LaRocca took over in the Friendship wheel with a 593 blast while Marie Kelekian hit 229.

Jimmy Amendola trailed Bruce Davis in the CRM with 200-206-215 and 621 for the hat trick while George "Stooge" Robinson fired 235-613; Bill Lawrence 231-211-619 and Cliff Quick 223-600.

Dick Howard's 236 solo, high for the league, also topped the city-wide and county activities.

Cousy's NBA Skein Will End Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

The East's victory in the NBA's All-Star game may be a costly one—to the Boston Celtics.

Bob Cousy the Celtics' all-around playmaker, will miss a NBA game tonight for the first time in his 336-game career. He played only 16 minutes last night as the Celtics lost to the Fort Wayne Pistons 105-84 at Amherst, Mass.

Cousy, troubled by a twisted knee suffered in Tuesday's 100-91 victory over the west, will not make the trip to Syracuse where the clubs fight it out tonight for first place in the Eastern Division.

IN A TWIN BILL at Hershey, Pa., Syracuse nipped the Philadelphia Warriors 98-97 in overtime and climbed back into first place while the New York Knickerbockers defeated the Rochester Royals 98-83.

Paced by Clyde Lovellette's 37 points, the Minneapolis Lakers trounced the Milwaukee Hawks 95-81 at New Orleans.

Carl Braun and Harry Gallatin led the Knickerbockers with 23 and 21 points, respectively, while Jack McMahon led the Royals with 22.

Sports Salute To Fred Eisler

Boxing and wrestling fans of the area today mourned Fred Eisler, timekeeper for both ring sports at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium for a number of years.

The proprietor of the Stuyvesant Hotel never missed a show until illness forced him to turn over his watch and gong to other hands. Baseball and other sports found him a willing booster, too, but he was most enthusiastic about the two at which he officiated.

Athletes in general patronized his hotel, where they always found him ready and willing to talk sports. When the Adirondack Division of the AAU convened here several years ago, the Stuyvesant was filled with delegates.

The death of Fred Eisler today has removed one of Kingston's leading sports boosters.

68 Trotters Are Eligible For Goshen

Goshen, Jan. 20 (AP)—A total of 68 three-year-old trotters, including the highly regarded Scott Frost, have been kept eligible for the 30th Hambletonian but the value of the Aug. 3 renewal of the sulky classic may fall below $100,000 for the first time since 1952.

Last year, with 87 eligible as of Jan. 1, the race had a value of $106,830. And in 1953 the gross value was $115,000. Depending on how many start, this years' race figures to be worth around $92,000.

SCOTT FROST, 2-year-old trotting champion of 1954, is the chief hope of Sol Camp of Shafter, Calif. Camp also has kept eligible Butch Hanover, Dragon Fly and Home Fleet. Scott Frost trotted a mile at Lexington last fall in the sensational time of two minutes flat.

William T. Maybury's Galaphone, top money winning 2-year-old last year with earnings of $34,793, also is among the eligibles made up of 54 colts and 14 fillies.

Other leading candidates include K. D. Owen's Childs Hanover of Houston, Tex., winner of $34,739; Satinwood, Magda Hanover, Reardon and Indian Raider, all trained by Del Miller; The Arden Homestead Stable's Trumph Hanover and Tasselman and C. W. Phellis' Miss Rodney.

K-State Topples Missouri Cagers

By The Associated Press

Whatever happened to the so-called home court advantage in college basketball?

It was nowhere to be found in the cold, gray stone field house at Columbia, Mo., last night as Kansas State played like it owned the joint to dump Missouri on the already crowded upset heap.

It was a 78-67 demise for the Tigers, previously unbeaten in the big seven, as K-State scored on 51 per cent of its shots from the field. To further confuse the home court argument, it was just last Saturday that Missouri—in the No. 8 spot in this week's Associated Press poll — toppled the Wildcats at Manhattan, Kan., 94-85.

They also split their two-game series last season, each winning away from home.

MISSOURI SLIPPED out of the big seven lead with the defeat, leaving Colorado (3-0) all alone in first.

There wasn't much chance for major upsets elsewhere last night and except for Amherst, which was knocked off for the first time this season by Wesleyan 62-58, all the favorites got home safe. LaSalle, ranked No. 4, disposed of West Chester (Pa.) State 85-50 while Dayton, No. 18, beat Western Kentucky 91-73 and Niagara, tied for 20th, defeated Assumption of Windsor, Canada, 99-55.

They were the only ranked teams at work officially, although Duquesne (No. 5) lost to Andrews AFB 84-70 in an exhibition.

Elsewhere, little Geneva (Pa.) knocked off Pitt for the second time this season, winning 101-96 in a double overtime although Ed Pavlich scored 34 for the Panthers.

LOUISVILLE WON No. 13 by jumping all over Morehead 99-62. Penn State went into overtime to defeat Lehigh 81-75, and high-scoring DePaul had to hustle against Bradley before pulling out a 65-62 triumph, the 12th success in 14 games for the Blue Demons.

College of Pacific nipped Santa Clara 81-71 in a double overtime fray.

Other major results: Army 78, Penn Military 70; Florida State 91, Mississippi State 76; Villanova 77, Drexel 63; Xavier (Ohio) 74, Murray (Ky.) State 68 and Seattle 70, Regis 54.

BOWLING SCORES

Bruce Davis Hammers 639

Bruce Davis, the younger of the two bowling Davises, hammered a steady stream of strikes with games of 225-191-223 for 639 to lead the Central Rec Major wheel Wednesday night.

Bruce and his father, Cliff, will defend their KBA doubles title in the minor events of the 18th annual city tournament next month.

The runnerup league leader was Lou Guido who posted 593 in the CYO League at the Bowlodrome as J. Smith topped the singles brigade with 226.

Rita LaRocca took over in the Friendship wheel with a 593 blast while Marie Kelekian hit 229.

The big four was completed by Art Crist who led the Federation keglers with a 205-553 night.

Jimmy Amendola trailed Bruce Davis in the CRM with 200-206-215 and 621 for the hat trick while George "Stooge" Robinson fired 235-613; Bill Lawrence 231-211-619 and Cliff Quick 223-600.

Dick Howard's 236 solo, high for the league, also topped the city-wide and county activities.

Elsewhere, little Geneva (Pa.) knocked off Pitt for the second time this season, winning 101-96 in a double overtime although Ed Pavlich scored 34 for the Panthers.

LOUISVILLE WON No. 13 by jumping all over Morehead 99-62. Penn State went into overtime to defeat Lehigh 81-75, and high-scoring DePaul had to hustle against Bradley before pulling out a 65-62 triumph, the 12th success in 14 games for the Blue Demons.

College of Pacific nipped Santa Clara 81-71 in a double overtime fray.

Other major results: Army 78, Penn Military 70; Florida State 91, Mississippi State 76; Villanova 77, Drexel 63; Xavier (Ohio) 74, Murray (Ky.) State 68 and Seattle 70, Regis 54.

President Sees

pendent authority, into a 10-year, 100-billion-dollar highway construction program in partnership with the states.

Increase the ceiling on the national debt. The limit now is temporarily at 281 billion dollars and is being crowded; on June 30 it reverts to 275 billion.

Provide additional funds to finance city and state planning of public works, and for operating a new "office of coordinator of public works" in the White House.

Expand the Commerce Department's program for helping depressed areas and ailing industries.

Eisenhower reported that recovery from the 18-month business recession "has already made up half of the preceding decline in industrial production."

"We shall achieve," he predicted, "a high and satisfactory level of employment within the current year."

THE GOVERNMENT will be alert to act in the event of "new international trouble" or another reversal of the business tide, he promised.

But he indicated strongly that the administration will not be drawn into drastic pump-priming programs by the plight of lagging individual industries or by "seasonal fluctuations of employment." The latter reference presumably was to the expected sharp winter upturn in joblessness this month and next.

"The wise course for government in 1955," Eisenhower said, "is to direct its program principally toward fostering long-term economic growth rather than toward imparting an immediate upward thrust to economic activity."

THE REPORT is based on studies by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, headed by Dr. Arthur F. Burns. Under the Employment Act of 1946, the President is required to draft recommendations for economic policies aimed at maintaining "maximum production, employment and purchasing power."

Even in advance of delivery of the message to Congress, at least two Democratic senators had challenged the President's assertion yesterday that the nation's economy is generally healthier than it was when he took office two years ago.

Nationals . .

cast heard in Tokyo said all Peiping newspapers carried front page roundups of "the joyful reaction among the armed forces in east China over the liberation of Yikiangshan.")

THE NATIONALIST Defense Ministry said the guerrillas were still resisting in a "life or death" struggle at 4 p. m. (3 a. m., EST), despite three heavy shellings from Red-held Toumen Island and the arrival of Red reinforcements.

The ministry said two Red warships laid down a curtain of fire while fresh Communist artillery batteries on Toumen, five miles away, hammered Yikiangshan with more than 300 shells.

There was no official indication of the size of the holdout force, but it was believed to be small.

Wednesday the National Air Force prowled along some 300 miles of the southeast China coast and the Defense Ministry said at least 17 Red ships were sunk and five damaged. Most of the ships were small.

Nationalist artillery on Quemoy fired 500 shells into Red-held Chiaoyu Island in Amoy harbor. The ministry said many artillery positions were smashed in the heaviest bombardment from Quemoy since September.

Carubia Is Seized

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The FBI has seized Anthony Carubia, alias Joseph Lombardo, 36, a New York gambler, in connection with a half million dollar series of burglaries and robberies in Connecticut, Rhode Island and New York. Carubia, charged with interstate shipment of several thousand dollars worth of stolen bonds from Connecticut to New York, was the seventh person arrested as an alleged member of a gang of bond and jewel robbers. Special FBI Agent James J. Kelly said the gang was headed by Benjamin (Bucky) Waldman, 23, of Brooklyn, who was arrested Dec. 28.

LEGAL NOTICE

DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS
ULSTER COUNTY, NEW YORK
Kingston, New York

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Ulster, New York, at the office of Robert A. Snyder, Clerk, Court House, Kingston, New York, until 3:00 p. m. on the 2nd day of February 1955, at which time they will be publicly opened and read, for the furnishing of all labor and materials necessary for the rebuilding and strengthening of the half hip-half Thru-Pony Truss Bridge 70'6" end to end with a 38'0" clear roadway between end posts and two 8'0" sidewalks, designated as County Bridge No. 24 and known as the Canal Street Bridge, spanning the Sandburg Creek in the Town of Wawarsing, Ulster County, New York.

Plans and specifications may be seen in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Court House, Kingston, New York, and copies of same may be secured upon application to Roland H. Green, Acting County Superintendent of Highways, 74 John Street, Kingston, New York, upon the deposit of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) which sum will be refunded if the plans and specifications are returned in good condition by bidders within twenty (20) days of bids having been received and acted upon by the Board of Supervisors, and fifteen dollars ($15.00) of the deposit will be so returned to non-bidders.

A certified check upon a National Bank, State Bank or Trust Company in the sum of 10% of the amount of the bid, made payable to the Treasurer of Ulster County, New York, must accompany the bid as a guarantee that the contract will be entered into if awarded.

A labor and material bond will also be required.

A faithful performance bond in the sum of one hundred per cent (100%) of the contract price will be required.

The Board of Supervisors of Ulster County, New York, reserves the right to reject any or all bids as it may deem to be to the best interests of the County of Ulster, New York.

Kingston Trust Elects Officers

At the annual meeting of the Kingston Trust Company, held Wednesday, George F. Kaufman, Stephen D. Hiltebrant, Fabian L. Russell, Bernard A. Feeney and Joseph E. Honig were reelected directors for three years. Inspectors of election are T. Jay Rifenbary and Howard R. St. John.

Following the annual meeting for election of directors the annual meeting of directors was held and Alva S. Staples was reelected president. Others officers reelected are:

Arthur A. Davis, vice-president and treasurer; Ernest LeFevre, vice-president and assistant treasurer; Gordon A. Craig, secretary and assistant treasurer; Frank Finley, Vernon S. Miller, William Mulhern, George C. Bode, Harry Miller, assistant treasurers; Ellis Griffith, trust officer and George E. Kaufman, counsel.

Two new drive-in windows which have been under construction for some time at the main banking house at Main and Fair streets, will be completed shortly and placed in use. When the drive-in windows are open to use customers may drive up to the depository windows from Main street, transact business and leave through the Fair street exit. Drive-in windows have been in use at the Central Branch of the Kingston Trust Company for some time.

Crippled Barmaid Robbed of $150 Cash

A short man entered a Newburgh area tavern about 10 p. m. Wednesday and helped himself to an estimated $150 from the cash register while the woman bartender, on crutches as the result of a recent injury, stood by unable to offer resistance according to a state police report.

Newburgh troopers said the man, about 30 years old and between five feet three and five feet five inches tall, ordered a couple of drinks at Topp's Tavern on Route 52 in the town of Newburgh, then "pushed around" the proprietor's wife, went behind the counter and took the cash and her alligator handbag. The woman, whose name was not immediately available at the Newburgh state police station, had recently suffered a leg fracture and was on crutches at the time. There were no other persons in the tavern when the holdup occurred. The man apparently was not armed, troopers said.

Daughter Calls Prison Rioter Wonderful Dad

Boston, Jan. 20 (AP)—The pale, pretty girl, her eyes red-rimmed behind her glasses, sat and talked about things . . .little things . . . important things.

"I don't know why he does these things," she said. "He's always been so good to us. I think he just gets desperate."

She is Barbara "Toby" Green, suddenly old beyond her 17 years. "He" is Theodore Green, bank robber, escape artist, leader of a prison revolt—and her father.

"HE HAS ALWAYS been a wonderful father, he was always kind and good to us, and lots of fun. We loved him.

"The hat? It's my best winter hat. I put the feather on after I bought it.

"I cannot remember when I did not want to be a doctor. Now I will have to go away somewhere for a while."

Her grades at Girls' Latin School don't stand up to her IQ of 135.

"There have been too many things happening the last few years. I have applied for college. Before this last thing happened I hoped to be accepted.

"The haircut? My aunt says it's a witch cut.

"I NEVER INTEND to marry. I have a lifetime to study. I'm going away. When this is over, one day I'll come back. I'm coming back and go back to Latin School.

"Nothing must happen any worse.

"I hope no one will see me..."

Toby visited briefly with her father yesterday. He kissed her through iron bars. She cried. She said there were tears in his eyes, too.

Coin Box Found

Police were notified last night that a cigarette machine coin box, believed to be one taken in a recent burglary at the Perry gas station on Broadway, was found on a running board of a truck parked at the rear of the station. James Amato, of 11 Broadway, reported at 7:50 p. m., that he had found the box. Earlier this week a cash register taken from Sior's service station on Albany avenue, was found in the weeds off Greenkill avenue.

Condition Satisfactory

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP)—Col. Robert R. McCormick today was reported in "satisfactory condition" at Passavant Hospital where he underwent surgery yesterday. The 74-year-old editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune was operated upon to remove adhesions between the large intestines and the bladder. His doctors reported the operation was successful.

General Motors Offers Big Issue

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—General Motors Corp. today offered its common stockholders a new issue of 4,385,000 shares in the biggest industrial capital-raising venture ever recorded at the Securities and Exchange Commission.

GM registered the offering with the SEC and paid registration fees on the basis of 435 million dollars.

The giant automotive firm previously had announced it would raise 325 million dollars by the new issue to help finance a 1½ billion dollar expansion program.

THE ACTUAL PRICE to be put on the new shares will not be known until some later time, possibly the day before the issue is put on the market following the completion of registration with the SEC. That could not be earlier than 20 days from now.

The price per issue would probably be determined in relation to the market price of GM stock at the close of business the day before the new issue is put on the market.

GM offered the new shares for subscription by its common stockholders of record at the close of business Feb. 8, 1955. It said shareholders would have the right to buy one share of the new issue for each 20 shares held on Feb. 8. The offer will expire at 6 p. m. (EST) March 7.

Figueres, meanwhile, predicted today would mark the decisive stage in his government's fight against the rebels in northwest Costa Rica.

Reports from the fighting front indicated the Loyalists—supported by aerial bombing from a converted airliner—were trying to outflank the rebels and cut them off from the border over which Figueres charges they came.

THESE REPORTS SAID government troops continued yesterday to push the rebels into a tight pocket near the Nicaraguan border. More skirmishing, which broke off at nightfall, again was reported in the area of Santa Rosa Plantation, 20 miles from the border.

Six foreign correspondents who fell into rebel hands last weekend turned up unharmed in Managua yesterday, scotching reports that two Cubans in the group had been killed.

The newsmen said the rebel field commander, Capt. Teodoro Picado Jr., was in good health. He also had been reported killed in action.

Dulles Asks Approval

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles urged Senate leaders today to proceed promptly with approval of a mutual defense treaty with Formosa on the ground that this would contribute to "stability" in the Far East. Dulles also indicated at a session of nearly two hours with leaders from both parties and both Houses of Congress that the administration will do everything possible to get the United Nations to explore the possibility of a cease fire between the Chinese Communists on the mainland and the Nationalists on Formosa.

President Sees

pendent authority, into a 10-year, 100-billion-dollar highway construction program in partnership with the states.

Increase the ceiling on the national debt. The limit now is temporarily at 281 billion dollars and is being crowded; on June 30 it reverts to 275 billion.

Provide additional funds to finance city and state planning of public works, and for operating a new "office of coordinator of public works" in the White House.

Expand the Commerce Department's program for helping depressed areas and ailing industries.

Eisenhower reported that recovery from the 18-month business recession "has already made up half of the preceding decline in industrial production."

"We shall achieve," he predicted, "a high and satisfactory level of employment within the current year."

THE GOVERNMENT will be alert to act in the event of "new international trouble" or another reversal of the business tide, he promised.

But he indicated strongly that the administration will not be drawn into drastic pump-priming programs by the plight of lagging individual industries or by "seasonal fluctuations of employment." The latter reference presumably was to the expected sharp winter upturn in joblessness this month and next.

"The wise course for government in 1955," Eisenhower said, "is to direct its program principally toward fostering long-term economic growth rather than toward imparting an immediate upward thrust to economic activity."

THE REPORT is based on studies by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, headed by Dr. Arthur F. Burns. Under the Employment Act of 1946, the President is required to draft recommendations for economic policies aimed at maintaining "maximum production, employment and purchasing power."

Even in advance of delivery of the message to Congress, at least two Democratic senators had challenged the President's assertion yesterday that the nation's economy is generally healthier than it was when he took office two years ago.

cast heard in Tokyo said all Peiping newspapers carried front page roundups of "the joyful reaction among the armed forces in east China over the liberation of Yikiangshan.")

THE NATIONALIST Defense Ministry said the guerrillas were still resisting in a "life or death" struggle at 4 p. m. (3 a. m., EST), despite three heavy shellings from Red-held Toumen Island and the arrival of Red reinforcements.

The ministry said two Red warships laid down a curtain of fire while fresh Communist artillery batteries on Toumen, five miles away, hammered Yikiangshan with more than 300 shells.

There was no official indication of the size of the holdout force, but it was believed to be small.

Wednesday the National Air Force prowled along some 300 miles of the southeast China coast and the Defense Ministry said at least 17 Red ships were sunk and five damaged. Most of the ships were small.

Nationalist artillery on Quemoy fired 500 shells into Red-held Chiaoyu Island in Amoy harbor. The ministry said many artillery positions were smashed in the heaviest bombardment from Quemoy since September.

Carubia Is Seized

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—The FBI has seized Anthony Carubia, alias Joseph Lombardo, 36, a New York gambler, in connection with a half million dollar series of burglaries and robberies in Connecticut, Rhode Island and New York. Carubia, charged with interstate shipment of several thousand dollars worth of stolen bonds from Connecticut to New York, was the seventh person arrested as an alleged member of a gang of bond and jewel robbers. Special FBI Agent James J. Kelly said the gang was headed by Benjamin (Bucky) Waldman, 23, of Brooklyn, who was arrested Dec. 28.

Kingston Trust Elects Officers

At the annual meeting of the Kingston Trust Company, held Wednesday, George F. Kaufman, Stephen D. Hiltebrant, Fabian L. Russell, Bernard A. Feeney and Joseph E. Honig were re-elected directors for three years. Inspectors of election are T. Jay Rifenbary and Howard R. St. John.

Following the annual meeting for election of directors the annual meeting of directors was held and Alva S. Staples was re-elected president. Others officers reelected are:

Arthur A. Davis, vice-president and treasurer; Ernest LeFevre, vice-president and assistant treasurer; Gordon A. Craig, secretary and assistant treasurer; Frank Finley, Vernon S. Miller, William Mulhern, George C. Bode, Harry Miller, assistant treasurers; Ellis Griffith, trust officer and George E. Kaufman, counsel.

Two new drive-in windows which have been under construction for some time at the main banking house at Main and Fair streets, will be completed shortly and placed in use. When the drive-in windows are open to use customers may drive up to the depository windows from Main street, transact business and leave through the Fair street exit. Drive-in windows have been in use at the Central Branch of the Kingston Trust Company for some time.

Crippled Barmaid Robbed of $150 Cash

A short man entered a Newburgh area tavern about 10 p. m. Wednesday and helped himself to an estimated $150 from the cash register while the woman bartender, on crutches as the result of a recent injury, stood by unable to offer resistance according to a state police report.

Newburgh troopers said the man, about 30 years old and between five feet three and five feet five inches tall, ordered a couple of drinks at Topp's Tavern on Route 52 in the town of Newburgh, then "pushed around" the proprietor's wife, went behind the counter and took the cash and her alligator handbag. The woman, whose name was not immediately available at the Newburgh state police station, had recently suffered a leg fracture and was on crutches at the time. There were no other persons in the tavern when the holdup occurred. The man apparently was not armed, troopers said.

Daughter Calls Prison Rioter Wonderful Dad

Boston, Jan. 20 (AP)—The pale, pretty girl, her eyes red-rimmed behind her glasses, sat and talked about things . . .little things . . . important things.

"I don't know why he does these things," she said. "He's always been so good to us. I think he just gets desperate."

She is Barbara "Toby" Green, suddenly old beyond her 17 years. "He" is Theodore Green, bank robber, escape artist, leader of a prison revolt—and her father.

"HE HAS ALWAYS been a wonderful father, he was always kind and good to us, and lots of fun. We loved him.

"The hat? It's my best winter hat. I put the feather on after I bought it.

"I cannot remember when I did not want to be a doctor. Now I will have to go away somewhere for a while."

Her grades at Girls' Latin School don't stand up to her IQ of 135.

"There have been too many things happening the last few years. I have applied for college. Before this last thing happened I hoped to be accepted.

"The haircut? My aunt says it's a witch cut.

"I NEVER INTEND to marry. I have a lifetime to study. I'm going away. When this is over, one day I'll come back. I'm coming back and go back to Latin School.

"Nothing must happen any worse.

"I hope no one will see me..."

Toby visited briefly with her father yesterday. He kissed her through iron bars. She cried. She said there were tears in his eyes, too.

Coin Box Found

Condition Satisfactory

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP)—Col. Robert R. McCormick today was reported in "satisfactory condition" at Passavant Hospital where he underwent surgery yesterday. The 74-year-old editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune was operated upon to remove adhesions between the large intestines and the bladder. His doctors reported the operation was successful.

General Motors Offers Big Issue

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—General Motors Corp. today offered its common stockholders a new issue of 4,385,000 shares in the biggest industrial capital-raising venture ever recorded at the Securities and Exchange Commission.

GM registered the offering with the SEC and paid registration fees on the basis of 435 million dollars.

The giant automotive firm previously had announced it would raise 325 million dollars by the new issue to help finance a 1½ billion dollar expansion program.

THE ACTUAL PRICE to be put on the new shares will not be known until some later time, possibly the day before the issue is put on the market following the completion of registration with the SEC. That could not be earlier than 20 days from now.

The price per issue would probably be determined in relation to the market price of GM stock at the close of business the day before the new issue is put on the market.

GM offered the new shares for subscription by its common stockholders of record at the close of business Feb. 8, 1955. It said shareholders would have the right to buy one share of the new issue for each 20 shares held on Feb. 8. The offer will expire at 6 p. m. (EST) March 7.

Figueres, meanwhile, predicted today would mark the decisive stage in his government's fight against the rebels in northwest Costa Rica.

Reports from the fighting front indicated the Loyalists—supported by aerial bombing from a converted airliner—were trying to outflank the rebels and cut them off from the border over which Figueres charges they came.

THESE REPORTS SAID government troops continued yesterday to push the rebels into a tight pocket near the Nicaraguan border. More skirmishing, which broke off at nightfall, again was reported in the area of Santa Rosa Plantation, 20 miles from the border.

Six foreign correspondents who fell into rebel hands last weekend turned up unharmed in Managua yesterday, scotching reports that two Cubans in the group had been killed.

The newsmen said the rebel field commander, Capt. Teodoro Picado Jr., was in good health. He also had been reported killed in action.

Dulles Asks Approval

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles urged Senate leaders today to proceed promptly with approval of a mutual defense treaty with Formosa on the ground that this would contribute to "stability" in the Far East. Dulles also indicated at a session of nearly two hours with leaders from both parties and both Houses of Congress that the administration will do everything possible to get the United Nations to explore the possibility of a cease fire between the Chinese Communists on the mainland and the Nationalists on Formosa.

Bannigan Says Tax Boost To Come to Meet Cash Needs

Albany, Jan. 20 (AP)—One of the Legislature's top-ranking Democrats says that some taxes will be increased this year to meet the state's revenue needs.

Eugene F. Bannigan, minority leader in the Assembly, who made the statement last night in a recorded radio interview (WOKO, Albany), did not specify what taxes he was referring to.

Asked whether he thought taxes would be raised, Bannigan replied, "there is no question about that."

BANNIGAN, the first leading member of his party to say outright that a tax increase would be necessary, said that Gov. Harriman's Democratic administration might be able to balance the 1955-56 state budget in any one of these ways:

1. By eliminating the present 10 per cent abatement in the tax on personal incomes.
2. By adding new tax brackets to the levy on personal incomes. They would range from a tax of seven per cent on annual income, after deductions, of $9,000 to $11,000, to a 10 per cent tax on incomes of $15,000 a year or more.
3. By adopting a proposed increase in motor fuel taxes nine months ahead of schedule.

THE MINORITY LEADER said he favored either siphoning off motor fuel taxes or adding new tax brackets.

It has been estimated that either of these proposals would bring the state 40 to 50 million dollars a year additional revenue.

The highest levy on income now is seven per cent on taxable earnings of more than $9,000 a year.

Bannigan suggested that the seven per cent tax be levied against taxable earnings of $9,000 to $11,000, an eight per cent tax on $11,000 to $13,000, nine per cent on $13,000 to $15,000, and 10 per cent on $15,000 or more.

BANNIGAN SAID the present 10 per cent tax abatement should be continued at least on taxable income of less than $9,000.

Bannigan said he thought the Republican majorities in the Legislature would "go along" with tax increases. He said the Democrats would vote "no" on GOP proposals to continue state income and unincorporated business taxes at present rates.

On other subjects, Bannigan said:

Harriman had ordered a new survey to sound out the public on proposals to legalize off-track betting on horse races.

Republican opposition would kill Democratic efforts to remove immediately the criminal penalties from bingo playing.

HE FAVORED establishing a state-sponsored lottery whose proceeds would be used to finance mental hygiene, health and welfare programs.

Harriman has not said what he would ask the legislature to do about taxes this year. But his financial advisers are reported to be looking for new revenues to balance the budget for the coming fiscal year, which begins April 1.

A state study commission appointed by former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has recommended a 750-million-dollar highway program to be financed through a two-cent-a-gallon increase in the state gasoline tax and a boost of three cents a gallon in the diesel fuel tax.

Both Harriman and GOP leaders have endorsed the highway building plan, but neither has approved publicly the commission's proposal for fiancing it.

IF APPROVED by the legislature and the people the highway bonds could not be sold until next Jan. 1.

It has been suggested that an eight per cent levy be imposed on net annual earnings between $9,000 and $11,000 and a nine per cent levy on those between $11,000 and $13,000.

Bannigan proposed that a third new bracket be added—a 10 per cent levy on annual incomes of $13,000 or more.

Man Clubbed to Death

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—While his wife and daughter watched, a Bronx man was clubbed to death outside his basement apartment last night after an argument with three unidentified men. The victim, Charles Douglas, 48, of 384 East 194th street, died in Fordham Hospital minutes after he was admitted. His wife, Florence, and 22-year-old daughter, Velma, said a man came to their apartment at 11:25 p. m. Douglas walked outside with him and joined the other two men. An argument ensued. Police said the man who had come to the door struck Douglas on the head and chest with either a large stick or club.
